By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MAYOR LAGUARDIA, of New York, invited citizens to a sort of "town meeting" to talk over "what's to be done about relief."

The citizens came, many well known. Bishop Manning, for instance, head of the Episcopal Church in New York; Mr. Winthrop W. Aldrich, head of the Chase National; Mr. O'Brien, who was mayor last time and had a fine photograph taken on Fifth avenue last Sunday with United States sailors all around him; former Gov. Whitman, who had a capacity for convicting murderers even when they had powerful friends; Mr. Hylan, who used to be mayor and puzzled politicians and high finance by refusing to do away with the five cent fare; James Speyer also, and Felix M. Warburg and Judge Irving Lehman and Miss Mary Dillon, president of a gas company. She is said to be as smart as Miss Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, although that would seem impossible.

THE MAYOR bluntly told "town meeting," representing a city of six millions:

"Unemployment relief is no longer an emergency matter, it's an established condition. We have been treating it as an emergency for years, state, city and national governments have deceived themselves into belief that it would all be over in a few weeks or months.

"New York borrowed seventy million dollars from the national government for emergency relief, and that will all be gone before August, and the city will have to pay it back with interest, seven millions a year for ten years.

"We have got to get more millions and now is the time to decide how we are going to get them and plan sensibly for unemployment that is going to last. The taxpayers must foot the bills. What do you want to do? Issue bonds to be repaid later on, or treat unemployment as a part of regular city expenses, and pay as you go? Write what you think about it."

THERE WERE present, dressed as neatly as former Mayor Walker, Mr. James J. Lyons, president of New York's Borough of the Bronx, who represents Mr. Flynn, a Democrat, who in turn is said to represent Postmaster General Farley, who unquestionably represents President Roosevelt in New York politics. Mr. Lyons had this suggestion to offer:

Let those that have jobs help those that have not any jobs. All making from twenty to fifty dollars a week should pay five cents a day to help the idle. Those making fifty dollars a week and more pay ten cents a day. That would bring in fifty to sixty million dollars a year.

Some brightening faces of taxpayers seemed to think that a good idea.

EVERYBODY WENT home and will write and tell the Mayor what to do, and the Mayor undoubtedly, as is the custom of men with strong character, will proceed to do what he has already planned to do.

THE EXPLOSION of that "Russian bubble," predicted frequently by "best minds," appears to be indefinitely postponed. Russia is now producing 100 per cent more gold than the the United States, more than Canada, or any other country except Africa, where the intelligent British own the mines.

And for Russia, production of gold has only started. Beginning with the present output of $100,000,000 a year, it seems probable that Russia soon will produce more gold than all other countries combined.

PETER THE GREAT, ablest of the Russians, before Stalin, energetic in his search for precious metals, would be amazed to read the official Russian statement:

"Gold dust reserves in Russia are inexhaustible.

"So many have been discovered recently that we literally do not know where to start first, in the Urals, North Caucasus, or in some other rich field."

And all this Russian gold goes to the Russian Government, not to those fortunate enough to "strike gold."

However, there is comfort for "best minds" that dread permanent success for "communistic radicalism."

When Russia accumulates enough gold and becomes really rich, that will happen which always happens. Radicalism under

Peace Needed in Steel Industry to Keep Up Recovery

Strikes and strike agitation are harmful to workers, employers and communities.

Pittsburgh, where recovery from depression has been making real progress, has been a hotbed of strike threats not warranted by conditions.

Hours have been reduced by NRA codes, wages have been more than correspondingly increased, and the result is that many are getting the pay of good times.

Why this strike talk now in the steel industry? President Roosevelt set the precedent for sane discussion and settlement of the proposed automobile workers strike in Detroit through a board made up of a "non-partisan," a labor representative, and a man from the auto industry.

If that giant business could maintain production while disputes between employer and employe were settled amicably over a discussion table, why isn't it possible to effect a similar end of strike talk in the steel industry?

Time lost from work by strikes is a dead loss. When pay ends, comfort stops, trouble comes, and suffering begins.

The President's word has been given that employers violating codes will be punished. He has called upon organizations of employes to "observe the same ethical and moral responsibilities" as are specifically prescribed by law for the employer.

No strikes can do good for employer or employe. Keep away from them.

And remember, too, that the interests of the community are predominant and the sentiments of the community determining.

The public is tired of strikes, resentful of interference with recovery, and will condemn those responsible for economic disturbance and disorder.

STEEL PEACE BOARD AIM OF JOHNSON

Auto Labor Parley System Urged on Industry

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson said at a press conference today he was seeking to have the steel industry establish a plan similar to that of the automobile industry for handling its labor relations and meeting the present strike threat.

Gen. Johnson said:

"I am concentrating on trying to get concessions out of the steel companies.

"I talked to W. A. Irvin, president of United States Steel, for several hours yesterday, but he could not speak either for the Iron and Steel Institute or his own company. He went back to New York and I probably will hear from him later in the day."

Johnson also said he understood the steel situation caused the visit this morning to the White House of Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., Alvan Macauley and Walter P. Chrysler, outstanding leaders of the automobile industry, which at the present time is the dominant customer for steel.

AUTO PEACE SYSTEM

Amplifying his desire for establishment of the automobile labor relations plan in steel and other industries, Johnson said a verbal report to him from Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the special automobile labor board, indicated

The route of the parade, scheduled to start at 10 a. m., is from the park to Galveston avenue, to Ridge avenue, to Stockton avenue, to Federal street, then over the Sixth Street Bridge, turning right in Penn avenue, to Water street, across the Manchester Bridge to the park.

In the parade will be Clyde Beatty's lions and tigers and a chime wagon, said to have been imported from Europe.

Peggy Joyce to Pay, Saving French Villa

NICE, France, June 5.—(AP.)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has dispatched an urgent cablegram to the Sheriff saying she will pay the butcher, baker and dressmaker to save the homestead.

Tradesmen here had attached lavish furnishings of her French villa, and officials were threatening to dispose of them at auction to pay the bills of the merchants.

3 Prison Rioters Yield After Revolt

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 5.—(AP.)—Three long-term prisoners surrendered to prison authorities today after two of them had disarmed a guard, and with the third convict barricaded themselves in the east wing of the state penitentiary. They defied efforts to take them for more than seven hours.

Tube City Man Slain, Two Shot

A McKeesport housewife, kneeling over a fatally wounded friend and administering first aid to him, was shot down and wounded seriously today.

Eugene Sumpter, 50, of 3407 Stockholm street, McKeesport, is dead, and Mrs. Ethel McCormick, 43, of 3209 Auburn avenue, is in McKeesport Hospital, two bullet wounds in her head.

And Maurice McCormick, 44, her brother-in-law, a self-inflicted bullet wound in his head, is in a nearby ward under police guard. He is said by police to have killed Sumpter and wounded his sister-in-law. McKeesport police quoted him as saying:

"Sumpter broke up my brother's home."

SEEN BY NEIGHBORS

The shooting occurred in the yard of the McCormick home and was witnessed by neighbors, who described the triple shooting to police.

They said that Sumpter, longtime friend of the McCormick family, was standing in the yard when McCormick cried out to him from the rear porch of the house:

"Keep away from our place. You broke up my brother's home."

A pistol shot followed and Sumpter fell. Mrs. McCormick, wife of Samuel McCormick, ran to the yard, carrying a basin of water. As she knelt over Sumpter, witnesses told police, Maurice McCormick ran to the yard and fired a shot into her head. She fell wounded.

POLICE CALLED

Neighbors called police. As Patrolman Robert Hurley, Detective Martin Manning and Ordinance Officer A. W. Gallagher, of the McKeesport police, entered the yard, they said McCormick fired one more shot into his sister-in-law's head.

When the officers approached McCormick, he ran to the porch, they said, and shot himself. The bullet pierced his cheek. His condition is not serious, doctors at McKeesport Hospital said.

Samuel McCormick refused to comment on the shooting.

Neighbors told police that both Sumpter and Samuel McCormick were employed at the Duquesne plant of the Carnegie Steel Company and that Sumpter drove McCormick to work each day.

STORY SCOUTED

They related that on frequent occasions Maurice McCormick had threatened Sumpter and ordered him to keep away from their home. They described the purported affair between Sumpter and Mrs. McCormck as a product of Maurice McCormick's "imagination." He recently had a nervous breakdawn, it was learned.

Mrs. McCormick, it was reported by McKeesport police, attempted suicide by shooting herself about two years ago.

Buc-Red Game Off; Dual Bill Tomorrow

VOTE TRIAL DEFENSE ARGUED

Fate of Coyne and His Aides Nears Jury in U. S. Court

A jury of 12 men, who are probably anxious to get back to their farms and homes, listened today with tired eardrums to the closing pleas of counsel for State Senator James J. Coyne and his six fellow Republicans.

Late today, or early tomorrow, these 12 good men and true will go behind locked doors to determine, by their verdict whether the Oakland politician-farmer, once the undisputed boss, is to remain even a power in Republican organization politics—whether he is to be subject to removal from his state office and a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine.

After hearing more than 150 witnesses in 11 days, they will retire to the jury room to debate the government's charges that the Senator and his lieutenants conspired to steal votes for Coyne candidates at the 1932 general election.

DUGGAN'S ARGUMENT

Before the closing arguments began Government Prosecutors James I. Marsh and Louis E. Graham had wheeled into court the dozen ballot boxes which the government charges contain the crooked ballots.

Attorney O. K. Eaton made the last of the closing arguments for

Commission Lacks Power to Protect, Mayor Points Out

Policemen who testify before the Police Research Commission will not be granted immunity from possible dismissal on that account, Mayor McNair announced today.

The Mayor said:

"I'll fire who I please, when I please."

His statement came on the heels of one by Public Safety Director A. Marshall Bell that members of the Police Bureau were free to testify before the commission without fear of being dismissed on account of their testimony.

CONFLICT CLEARED

Apparent conflict between McNair and his Safety Director was cleared away by the Mayor's explanation that he wanted to show the commission that "they can't protect anybody by calling them to testify."

The Mayor's statement was:

"Tell them I'll fire who I please, when I please, if they want a demonstration of it, I am liable to fire Ralph Smith just to show them—not because of his testimony, merely to show the commission that they can't protect anybody by calling them to testify."

Smith, former Safety Director, now is a member of the Traction Conference Board. He testified on police conditions Saturday.

IN REPLY TO REQUEST

The statement of Director Bell followed a closed meeting of the commission last night in the office of Dr. Albert I. Wise, acting chairman. At the meeting members of the commission decided to ask of Bell and Mayor McNair expres-

Ex-Iowa Governor Leads in Primary

DES MOINES, Ia., June 5.—(AP.)—Former Gov. Dan Turner held a lead of more than 6,600 over Robert W. Colflesh, of Des Moines, today in the contest for the Republican nomination for Governor.

The winner will contest with Gov. Clyde L. Herring, Democrat, in the fall general election. Herring had nearly three times the combined vote of his two rivals.

Ice Concerns Sued By U. S. as Trust

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP.)—The Justice Department today announced institution of an anti-trust suit against the Kansas City Ice Company, its principal officers and directors, 12 other ice companies, which are the leading manufacturers and distributors of commercial ice used in Greater Kansas City, and 20 individuals connected with these companies.

Injured 10 Years Ago, Woman Dies

Miss Margaret Klefisch, 30, of 226 Forty-fifth street, was dead today from a heart ailment that followed injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Tucson, Ariz., 10 years ago, according to the Coroner's report. Miss Klefisch was employed as a clerk by a mining company in Tucson at the time.

U. S. Sues for Loss Of Lightship at Sea

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP.)—The United States today filed a libel, claiming $500,000 damages, against the White Star liner Olympic because of the loss of Nantucket shoals lightship, rammed and sunk by the liner May 15 with a loss of seven lives.

SPEED MILLIONS FOR DROUGHT

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt outlined a $525,000,000 emergency drought relief program today to congressional leaders and it was agreed to rush it through before the approaching end of this session.

The President outlined the situation to more than 50 members of the Senate and House from the drought states who gathered about his desk in the executive office. There was brief discussion.

The proposed relief program includes a cash outlay of $100,000,000 for works programs and emergency needs and a $50,000,000 Civilian Conservation Corps fund to provide employment for young men in hard hit areas.

Livermore Linked In Drought Profit

NEW YORK, June 5.—(INS.)—Jesse Livermore, the high-rolling stock raider, recouped his lost millions and made his fifth fortune in drought wheat and cotton, the wise men of Wall street were saying.

But his wife emphatically denied the rumors but added:

"The story is partially true. Mr. Livermore has been more right than wrong in the market since February."

Gus Greenlee Freed On Gambling Charge

W. A. (Gus) Greenlee, Negro sports patron, of the Hill District, was acquitted by a jury in Criminal Court today on a charge of keeping a gambling house at 1401 Wylie avenue. Police testified they had found six slot machines in the basement.

Greenlee's brother, George Greenlee, and 14 other Negroes were paroled for one year yesterday by Visiting Judge A. E. Swoyer, after they pleaded guilty to lottery charges in connection with numbers writing. Felix Curry was sent to jail for 30 days.

Heat Death Toll Grows, Rain Brings No Relief

School and Hospital Hit by Lightning; 2 More Dead

A scorching sun continued to deal death and suffering as the week-old heat wave today brought these developments:

2—Two dead from heat prostration.

3—Many buildings struck by lightning in heavy thunderstorm in downtown, McKees Rocks district and North Boroughs.

Scattered thundershowers may bring a temporary break in the heat and drought, Observer W. S. Brotzman said, but no real relief.

High temperatures prevailed today west to the Plans states. Little rain was reported.

The mercury began mounting this morning, with likelihood it would reach the 90 degree mark late today. Yesterday's peak was 92, equaling the season's record.

Thomas Barker, 81, of Freeport road, Fawn Township, was found dead in a field on his farm last night, the Coroner reported. Death was attributed to heat prostration.

Previously the death of John Rausther, 28, formerly of 2600 Spring street, at the City Home,

Judges Beat Heat By Doffing Coats, Robes

Judges Ralph H. Smith and Thomas M. Marshall beat the heat in Common Pleas Court today by sitting on the bench minus their judicial robes and their coats.

Mayor McNair, wandering about the court chambers to see if any city cases were on trial, refused to emulate the jurists. His reason for not shedding his coat was:

Five Burned In Furnace Explosion

Five men were burned today when a series of 12 explosions blew out the front end of an open hearth furnace of the Donora works of the American Steel and Wire Company.

The burned men are August Berry, Victor Roux, Charles Stanley, Harry Brown and Mercer Neale, Jr., son of the superintendent of the Donora zinc works plant.

All five were treated in the emergency ward of the plant, according to William C. Hancock, secretary of A. F. White, superintendent of the plant.

The explosions were believed to have occurred when a mass of molten metal "broke out" of a furnace, flowed over a water pipe, breaking it, and causing the explosions. Hancock said the damage to furnace No. 13, where the explosion occured, would be repaired within 24 hours.

PINCHOT FILLS BENCH JOBS

County Court Judge Joseph A. Richardson, one-time campaign manager for Judge Ralph H. Smith and recommended by Judge Smith for appointment to the county bench, was named to succeed Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Common Pleas Court today by Gov. Gifford Pinchot in Harrisburg.

Mrs. Lois Downs McBride, of Pittsburgh, was named to succeed Judge Richardson in the lower court.

Judge Richardson, a war veteran and a member of the law firm of Wendt, Graver and Richardson, had served as a member of the grievance committee of the Allegheny County Bar Association before ascending to the County Court bench shortly after the first of this year. He also served on the bar association's committee on election frauds.

The Common Pleas Court appointment had been hanging fire for several months during which time nearly a dozen prospective appointments had been discussed. At one time it was reported that Judge Smith favored Attorney Horace Thomas, his law associate.

Mrs. McBride, an attorney and president of the Women's Political Education Organization at the Y. W. C. A., Chatham street, will be the second woman sitting on the County Court bench, Judge Sara Soffel having served as a judge for some years.

Mrs. McBride has been well known for her interest in the Juvenile Court and was a candidate for judge of that court in 1933. She received 87,385 votes on three tickets, but failed to receive either the Republican or Democratic nomination. Although pressed to run as an independent in the general election, she declined.

She had pledged herself, if elected, to administer the court through "humanitarian, correctional methods rather than as a court of criminal proceedings."

COYNE'S FATE IN VOTE CHARGES NEARING U. S. JURY

the defense for the man the government says was the head of the conspiracy—Senator Coyne. Eaton charged that the government's case was a mass of inferences.

Senator Coyne, who had been trying to steal 40 winks, came abruptly to attention when his attorney began his closing argument. Bothered by the heat, the Senator frequently wiped his face with a handkerchief.

Eloquently, he outlined the duties of a juror—his obligation to clothe the defendant with the presumption of innocence until the government had, by factual evidence, removed that presumption and proved guilt. He said:

"The government put Jacob Fink on the stand as their witness, and neither prosecution nor defense can place there a witness in whom it has not the most complete confidence. Fink told you there was no conspiracy, that there was no prearranged meeting or agreement between Walter Butler and Tom Coyne. Fink was with them.

"If Tom Coyne and Walter Butler are guilty of conspiracy, because Coyne was present when Butler spoke to Charles McCoy, then Fink, too, is guilty of conspiracy. But the government says Fink is not—he is their witness."

Duggan reviewed the testimony of Fink and McCoy, and declared:

"Not a scintilla of evidence has been presented to remove beyond a question of doubt that presumption of innocence. I ask you and know you will return a verdict of not guilty."

PLEA FOR MULLEN

Following Duggan was Attorney Mead Mulvihill, counsel for Martin Mullen, the little district chairman of the Tenth Ward, whose wife was buried two weeks ago.

Mulvihill referred to Nell Llewellyn, clerk of the election board in Mullen's district, and a government witness as "that poor soul who says she peeked through the windows of Martin Mullen's home—her neighbor's home."

As to the government's star witness, James P. Bailey, the discharged city assessor, Mulvihill scored:

"That suave good - looking chap tells you the most mysterious, sadistic story I ever heard in my life . . . But he slipped in one thing: he told you he was friendly with Martin Mullen."

Mulvihill described Bailey's brother, Timothy, as "that famous yes man.

COLL'S ADDRESS

The veteran Edward G. Coll spoke in behalf of his client, Patrick J. O'Malley, warning the jurors that the absence of O'Malley from the stand as a witness for himself meant nothing to them, adding:

"Whether or not he may take the stand does not mean that you can infer that he is guilty."

He branded the Bailey brothers as intent on vengeance and scored Nell Lewellyn as "one who didn't know what it was all about." He said:

"You saw her on the stand for yourself. She spoke in a whisper and at times couldn't speak. No one could hear her. It seemed that she hardly believed in her own self."

During his argument Coll, who all but collapsed while addressing the jury at Butler for the late Mayor Kline, stopped for a few moments, walked to the water cooler and relieved his throat.

Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, counsel for Assemblyman P. J. Maloney and Frank O'Halloran, summed up for his clients just before and after the noon recess. He contended:

"Even if there was a conspiracy formed—and I'm only saying that for the sake of argument — Mr. Maloney and Mr. O'Halloran were not a part of it; they were not in the William Penn Hotel that night."

SPEAK FOR U. S.

Prosecutors Marsh and Graham are both expected to address the jury for the government.

Then will come Judge F. P. Schoonmaker's closing charge.

How long will the jury be out?

Anybody's guess is good as the next. The jury which two weeks ago convicted Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, the McKees Rocks Assemblyman, reached a verdict in five hours.

O'Malley, Coyne's man in the Strip, was scheduled to take the stand. All the other defendants had testified in their own defense.

Judge Schoonmaker ordered a 10-minute recess. That ended everybody filed back into the courtroom — everybody but Coll and Eaton and O'Malley. They were closeted in an adjoining room.

DEFENSE RESTS

Five minutes late, Coll, face flushed, walked in, followed by a smiling O'Malley. Coll walked up to the bench in front of Judge Schoonmaker and, in husky voice, announced:

"The defense rests."

There was rebuttal testimony by the government. The defense offered none.

First was Walter Bonitz, friend of Senator Coyne, brick manufacturer and contributor to political campaigns. He testified simply that on election night (November 2, 1932), he had telephoned Charles W. McGinnis and Charles G. Lane, Jr., in the Republican soldiers' political headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. To the best of his recollection, he said, he had not tried to get Coyne on the 'phone earlier.

E. J. Connelley, agent for the Department of Justice, was called to contradict Michael Wallace, of Carnegie avenue. Connelley testified that during the investigation of vote frauds Wallace had told him Pat O'Malley was around the polling place on Election Day.

THREAT DENIED

Clement Bailey, brother of James P. Bailey, the discharged city assessor, was called to refute the testimony of Lawrence O'Neill and Clarence Abitz. Bailey testified he was not present when James P. Bailey was gouted as threatening:

"We'll get that big Irish pighead Coyne and put him and O'Malley out of politics."

Charles P. McCoy, judge of elections in the Fourth Ward's Eleventh District, denied the testimony of Walter Butler, the defendant. Butler had testified he had promised to help McCoy with the returns on election night—this to explain Butler's visit to the polling place.

Earlier yesterday Assemblyman Maloney and Frank O'Halloran had taken the stand to deny the government charges. Each gave a detailed account of his movements on election night and early morning after.

O'Halloran admitted many of the facts brought out by the government, but denied the interpretation put on them. He said that he spent from 7:30 p. m. to next 4 a. m., in the polling place of the Ninth District, Ninth Ward. Upstairs over the polling place is the fire chief's office.

FAULTY MEMORY

When Prosecutor Marsh recited O'Halloran's grand jury testimony, which indicated O'Halloran had gone upstairs, too, O'Halloran did not deny making the statement. After all, he said, that was two years ago and difficult to remember.

O'Halloran explained his presence at the curbstone meeting at Penn and Main street, which the government regards as the culmination of the conspiracy, by saying that he had gone there simply to get a cup of coffee in the Regal Restaurant and happened to bump into Senator Coyne and the others.

Assemblyman Maloney made no bones about twice touring the district for returns, emphasizing that he was a candidate and the fight was close. He explained his presence at the curbstone gathering by testifying that he had walked up there from the engine house in the hopes of getting a glass of beer at Frinelli's, nearby.

With all the rebuttal testimony in, the defense again submitted motions for directed verdicts of acquittal. The first motions were made after the government rested last Tuesday, when Judge Schoonmaker refused the seven still on trial and granted acquittals to five —Alderman John Verona, John Fugassi, Fire Captain Louis Conley, Harry Fink, former deputy constable for Verona, and George Savage, former city assessor.

PLEAS INTERRUPTED

Attorney Eaton stepped up to argue the motion for Coyne. But Judge Schoonmaker wasted no time letting the defendants know how they stood. He interrupted:

"Unless counsel has something new to argue, I do not think we will consider it."

Ten minutes later, at a sidebar conference, the judge announced he would refuse the motions.

Thus the case was made ready for the jury of 12 men, women not being called for jury service in the federal courts. These are John W. Smith, the foreman, of 1214 Straka street; D. H. Baird, realtor, Altoona; George Conner, farmer, Greene County; John H. Eaton, retired, Beaver; J. W. Fleming, farmer, Saxonburg; Harry Ferguson, farmer, Valencia; John A. Kuhl, clerk, 5728 Walnut street; Fred Lewis, agent, Unity; Charles O. Minder, telegrapher, Rockwood; W. F. McVay, retired, Waynesburg; S. H. Robinson, inspector, Washington, Pa.; C. F. Stratton, retired, Strattonville.

Spider Bite Victim Fails to Improve

BOISE, Idaho, June 5.—(AP.)—Dr. William Erkenbeck "about held his own" today in his illness from the bite of a black widow spider. Dr. Harold W. Stone, his physician, said, however, there was no definite improvement such as had been noted late last week. The Grandview (Idaho) physician has been in a semi-conscious condition since May 24 from the effects of the venom, received in a bite May 20.

WORK REPLACES TOLEDO STRIKE

TOLEDO, June 5.—(AP.)—Toledo's automotive strike which brought on rioting, property damage and bloodshed had a quiet and peaceful end today.

The plants of the Electric Auto-Lite Company, the Bingham Stamping and Tool Company and the Logan Gear Company reopened under agreements approved by union workers and company officers.

Within a week it is guaranteed that all the strikers will be put to work, that all seniority rights will be maintaned and that there will be no discrimination.

The wage advance is said to range from 5 to 14 per cent, with women workers included in the higher increase brackets. Approximately 1,600 workers, about one-half of whom are women, were involved in the strike.

Near the close of his trial on a murder charge, Reynard Mallie, 19, of 1243 Grotto street, pleaded guilty to voluntary manslaughter in Criminal Court today in connection with the death of Julius G. Reifenach, 70, of 1242 Lincoln avenue.

The youth was sentenced by visiting Judge Thomas F. Bailey to serve from six months to two years in jail. He was alleged to have struck the aged man, a night watchman for the Stoeklein Bakery, 7027 Apple street, fracturing his jaw, February 24, when the latter ordered him off a loading platform. Reifenach died a month later.

U. S. Tariff Officials Study Potters' Plea

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 5.—Seven representatives of the United States Tariff Commission conferred here today with officials of the United States Potters' Association and the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters regarding the two organizations' appeal for relief from what they have complained of as damaging competition from foreign countries.

LAWYER BARES 2 PUSEY WILLS

Under cross-examination today Attorney Maxwell W. Wells, of Orlando, Fla., said that he had drawn two wills for the late George W. Pusey former millionaire North Side wallpaper manufacturer, disposition of whose estate is being contested in Orphans Court here.

Wells declared that Pusey had signed the first will G. W. Pusey on each of the 10 pages instead of George W. Pusey. The lawyer said that this caused him to redraft the will and Pusey signed the second one George W. Pusey but not on all the pages because "he was too weak."

Florida beneficiaries are seeking to have the Pusey will which has been probated in Pittsburgh set aside for the Florida document.

2 Convicts to Die In Fatal Pen Bolt

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., June 5.—(AP.)—Death on the gallows faces two San Quentin prison convicts, Ethan McNab and William Bagley, today under a jury verdict convicting them of assaulting guards during an escape attempt.

The two were caught with homemade weapons in their possession after the attempted break in March, during which John Arbuckle, a convict, was accidentally shot and killed.

VARE PROPOSES 'LIBERALISM'

"The Republican party should stand for conservative liberalism in its policies as against Democratic radicalism.

"That is the great way for our party to stage a comeback in the face of the extremes to which the Democrats are going today."

Vare made his statement at his home in Atlantic City, in outlining the contents of a message he said he had sent to the meeting of the Republican National Committee in Chicago. He sent the message, as well as his voting proxy, by his son-in-law, Dr. John J. Shaw, of Philadelphia. He commented:

"Liberalization of Republican policies will win favor with the people."

HOOVER GROUP FACES TILT IN G. O. P.

Committee in Secret Session, Chairman Choice Delayed

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP.)—Without having reached the matter of electing a new party chairman, the Republican National Committee adjourned shortly after noon today and voted to resume in a closed session.

With a rift developing between adherents of former President Herbert Hoover and advocates of a new party regime, two candidates stood out for the chairmanship that Everett Sanders, of Indiana, will quit today. They were said to be:

George F. Getz, of Chicago, treasurer; Charles D. Hilles, of New York, committeeman, and Vice Chairman Ralph E. Williams, of Oregon, all expressed doubt the committee would agree on a new pilot today.

Leading the bloc known as the "Hoover men" were Ogden L. Mills, of New York, Hoover's Secretary of the Treasury; former Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, and a half dozen others.

Other names which committee leaders said probably would be presented to the formal session included ex-Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana; Committeeman John D. M. Hamilton, of Topeka, Kan., supported because he is a middle western man, and possibly that of Mills himself. At the eleventh hour the Pennsylvania delegation, with Dr. John Shaw casting the proxy of Committeeman William S. Vare, of Philadelphia, was said to be undecided whether to present Fitcher's name.

Recently Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania announced he would favor a man "west of the Alleghanies." The dopesters then guessed he meant Walter J. Kohler, of Winconsin, not onw likely to be a candidate.

Hilles, a veteran strategist of the party's eastern forces and junior vice chairman of the committee, said flatly that he himself would not accept the helm when Sanders retired today. He denied rumors that there was a plan under foot to substitute a steering group of five for the usual one-man guidance of a chairman.

Today

the soothing influence of gold money will become conservatism.

TWO HUNDRED and fifty Americans have "drawn horses" in the Dublin horse race lottery, which means that each of them will get at least $2,608. It probably also means that each of them for the rest of his or her life will rely on gambling, instead of relying on something more reliable, which is effort.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT, of Pennsylvania, officialy informs the President:

"The steel companies are arming. I am ready to meet whatever situation arises."

Arming their men is done by steel companies, according to Gov. Pinchot, in preparation for the threatening strike of steel workers.

That is bad news, and may lead to bad results when you add to it the alleged collecting of dynamite by workers preparing for the strike war.

Maintenance of armed forces should be confined to national and state soldiery and city police. But strike leaders say, "a strike is war," it cannot be won otherwise, and plant owners say, "in war you defend yourself."

Why talk of joining a league to prevent war in Europe when we do not know how to prevent industrial war at home?

GENERAL M'ARTHUR, chief of staff, United States Army, wants a force of 1,000 planes in addition to those already authorized. If he got all he asked, that would be half enough. The Army's general staff, "speaking as individuals" recommended a chain of "under-ground bomb-proof air bases, with swift planes patrolling the borders of the nation."

Such bombproof air bases might be useful. The airplanes patrolling the coast should be taken for granted. They would be considerably more valuable than our present antediluvian system of pop-gun "coast defense" cannon. Along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, also, there should be patrolling at intervals, dirigibles high enough up to see everything coming and going, with wireless to inform the fighting planes.

IN BERLIN a certain moving picture may not be shown because it is "looked upon as a plea against capital punishment."

In 500 years that will seem as strange as to forbid a moving picture opposing cannibalism.

In Germany a man condemned to death has his head cut off by a gentleman dressed in what we call "full dress," white shirt front, "swallow tail," etc. No cannibal was ever guilty of that ridiculous touch.

BEAVER CANAL PLAN VETOED

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP.)—An adverse report on the proposed canalization of the Beaver and Mahoning rivers to give the Youngstown steel district water transportation on the Ohio River was included today in the special cabinet committee's report on river improvements.

The report was submitted to Congress by President Roosevelt to outline a general plan for development of the nation's waterways. The President, howover, pointed out the report was not final.

Of the proposed Beaver-Mahoning project, already approved by the Army engineers, the special committee said that "it is recognized the benefits to navigation might not justify the relatively large expenditure involved, also that the power developments suggested are small and contingent upon local demand."

The committee added:

Robinson Assured Of Indiana Race

INDIANAPOLIS, June 5.—(AP.)—Senator Arthur R. Robinson was assured of renomination at the Republican state convention today when it was announced no one would oppose him.

Failure of several prospective candidates to enter the race against Robinson weakened the opposition which arose after the Senator's recent attempt to oust the present heads of the state committee.

BRITAIN HEADS EUROPE'S NEW DEBT DRIVE

Allies Hope to Force Cut by Following Default Lead

By KINSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Under the leadership of Great Britain, Europe today started a new and determined effort to force the United States to agree to drastic reduction of the 10 billion dollars owed American taxpayers.

At the cost of its traditional reputation of integrity in honoring its debts, Britain joned the debt-defaulting nations of Europe in the hope of forcing this government into considering a new settlement on a drastically reduced scale.

FINLAND TO PAY

The British government notified the State Department of its intention to suspend all future payments until a new settlement is reached.

A complete and indefinite suspension of virtually all debt payments face this nation as a result of Britain's action. Finland is the only European debtor nation expected to continue meeting its American obligations.

The Finnish minister reported his government's intention to pay in full, "as usual," its June 15 installment of $166,538 at the very moment American offiicials were studying the British note announcing suspension of payments.

SEEK REDUCTION

The British move was regarded here as a step similar to that which Europe took at Lausanne in 1932 when the former Allies, at a time when Germany's failure to continue making reparations payments was generally conceded, agreed to reduce them 90 per cent providing they obtained a dime-on-the-dollar settlement of their own debts to this government.

Italy, Czecho-Slovakia and the other debtor nations which had sought to escape default by drop in the bucket payments were expected to follow Britain's lead, and thus, along with France and her continental satellites, present a virtual united front for downward revision of the debts owed this government.

Chamberlain 'Justifies' Britain's Debt Default

LONDON, June 5.—(INS.)—Britain's failure to meet the June 15 installment on her foreign debt to the United States was justified in a brief speech in the House of Commons this afternoon by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

"Disastrous consequences," said the treasury head, would have followed payment by Great Britain of the full installment.

The stigma of being a defaulting nation would have been Britain's reward for making a partial or "token" payment, he added.

To pay in full, Chamberlain argued while the House listened in complete silence, would have revived the whole system of intergovernmental war debts. Britain would have been compelled to call upon France and other countries owing her to pay in full. The chances of world recovery would have been "indefinitely postponed."

FRENCH RIOTING INJURES 100

ROUBAIX, France, June 5.—(AP.)—Bitter political passions, flaring this time in Roubaix with the consequent wounding of 100 persons, brought the French government new cause for concern today.

A four-hour "anti-Fascist" riot was broken up last night by mounted police charges at the cost of many battered heads. The disorder followed rioting in Paris and other parts of the country Sunday.

"The United Front," a group warring on what it declares to be the "Fascist" tendencies of the government, stormed a meeting being addressed by Deputy Philippe Henriot, critic of the former Radical Socialist government's investigation of the Stavisky scandal.

Some 2,000 men attacked the meeting, shouting "Down with Fascism." Vegetables, then stones and scrap iron began to fly.

Police arrived, only to have the crowd turn on them after throwing up barricades. After repeated charges the officers gained control of the situation.

Brilliant N. Y. Ball Aids Mrs. Roosevelt's 'Wards'

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt looked on with a smile last night as some 4,000 persons danced and made merry in the name of charity—Mrs. Roosevelt's own clubs for unemployed girls.

It was the June ball, which its sponsors hope will bring in enough money to carry the two clubs in this city for another year. Mrs. Vincent Astor and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst arranged the ball, with the aid of a committee of notables.

Mrs. Roosevelt came in late yesterday from Hyde Park. Before the ball she was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Mrs. Hearst.

The ball was brilliant with uniforms, for 250 officers of the fleet were invited guests, another hundred served as a guard of honor for Mrs. Roosevelt, and the massed bands of the Pacific and Atlantic fleets were there to play.

Rudy Vallee, Fannie Brice, Gladys Swarthout, of the Metropolitan Opera; Walter Winchell, as master of ceremonies, and others lent their services.

Historical naval tableaux were presented by 12 naval officers and 12 women chosen as the most beautiful in New York society. The list included Mrs. Harrison Williams, reputed the "best dressed woman in America;" Michael Strange, former wife of John Barrymore; Rosamond Pinchot, Countess di Zoppola, Princess Ilynski, and others.

Il Duce's Son, 17, Starts Rome A-whispering

Universal Service.

ROME, June 5.—Is 17-year-old Vittorio Mussolini being trained as an understudy to his father, the mighty Il Duce, in what may be the beginning of a dynasty of Italian dictators?

This whispered question was heard in Rome today as observers commented on the latest stride of the youthful Vittorio in the footsteps of his father.

Like Premier Mussolini, the son publishes a newspaper. Like his father, he gives all his thought and energy to strengthening the Fascist movement. And like his father, he has taken to the air.

Soon after Il Duce rose to power he learned to fly. Vittorio is now the youngest licensed aviator in Italy.

Despite his youth, Vittorio is already taller and heavier than Il Duce. Some persons say his mind is as acute, his flair for drama as instinctively keen as that of his father.

Speculation over possible succession to the father's post by the son springs from the fact that many Italians believe there is no one in the government equipped to take over the reins when Mussolini lays them down. Asked directly about his plans, Vittorio replied:

"I intend to be a newspaperman. It gives one power to spread ideas, and it opens the way to politics."

FOUR CITY POOLS OPEN FOR HEAT-SUFFERING CHILDREN

SLAYING OF ONE, KIDNAPING LAID TO DILLINGER

Fleeing Gang Blasts Way Through Pursuers

International News Service.

UNDERWOOD, Ill., June 5.—Ralph Shields, farmer near here, was kidnaped early today by a man believed to be one of the mobsters who last night killed an officer and wounded another in a running gun orgy in Southern Indiana. The band is believed by police to have been led by John Dillinger.

Shields was forced at pistol point to give his automobile to the bandit and then to accompany him in it.

Bloodhounds were put on the trail today of the band. The bloodhounds were rushed from Lexington, Ky., and immediately nosed their way into the heart of the Indiana state forest preserve at Henryville, near Underwood, where Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick, 25, was fatally shot.

Tracks, apparently of three persons, blood-stained rags and a pool of blood were found in the forest tract.

The outlaws, under cover of darkness, eluded a police trap set for them. Indiana state police at 7 o'clock entered the vacant farmhouse near Underwood, where it was believed the three bandits had fled, but they found it deserted.

The ruthless manner in which the gunmen shot their way along a 60-mile route last night led authorities to suspect the gangsters were Dillinger henchmen and possibly the famed outlaw himself. No machine guns were carried, however.

AUTO WRECKED

The wild dash of the outlaws down the state was halted when their car was wrecked 10 miles north of the Ohio River and they fled afoot under a rain of bullets.

Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick, 25, of Scottsburg, who surprised the outlaws when their car crashed into a store at Underwood, was shot in the head and died three hours afterward at St. Edward Hospital at New Albany.

Only a few minutes earlier Night Policeman John Pfaffenberg, 38, was shot down with four bullets at a road intersection on the outskirts of Seymour as he attempted to halt the gangsters. He remained in critical condition today at a hospital there, but hope was held for his recovery.

The gunmen sped south on U. S. 31, main north-south highway across Indiana, and an hour later were sighted at Scottsburg by Night Police Chief Cleves Redman, who had deputized three men to aid him.

RUNNING BATTLE

The bandit car dashed by them and they took up pursuit. For five miles the cars raced, two gunmen pouring bullets out the rear window of the outlaw machine and Redman firing an answering stream of lead.

At Underwood the fugitives failed to take a curve, crashed into a store and wrecked their car. The Amick brothers, unaware of the gang chase, were hiding there on the lookout for chicken thieves and rushed up to the wreck. One of the trio, seeing the officer's badge shining in the moonlight, fired at close range and felled the deputy sheriff.

5 NURSES NOW ATTENDING BABIES

Second Incubator Sent for Smallest Of Quintuplets

CORBELL, Ont., June 5.—(AP.)—Five nurses attended the five tiny Dionne sisters today as they began their eighth day of life.

Constant attention is given the infants, all of them below normal weight and afflicted with an attack of jaundice.

A new incubator also reached the humble Dionne farm home. The smallest baby, Marie, who weighs but one pound ten ounces, is receiving special care in one incubator, while her four sisters occupy another.

Dr. A. R. Dafoe continued hopeful for the lives of his little charges, but pointed out their situation was hazardous.

Oliva Dionne, the father, said he is repudiating the exhibition contract he signed last week because his wife did not want any arrangement to be entered into until she could discuss it fully.

The nursing staff was increased to five today with the arrival of Mrs. Louise de Kerline, Red Cross nurse from Toronto. Having the same number of nurses and babies insures constant attention to each in event of an emergency.

Mrs. Dionne is "coming along fine" and will be able to be up by the end of this week, the doctor said.

Father of 5 in 'Worse Shape Than Wife'

ERIE, Pa., June 5.—(AP.)—The mother and five babies are fine, but the father of the Ontario quintuplets is "very ill."

Returning from a Canadian fishing trip, Attorney A. Grant Walker reports that Ernest Dionne "has become a sick man" as a result of the excitement surrounding the births a week ago. He can't eat or sleep and he is in worse shape than his wife.

Walker denied that he and his companion, J. B. Parent, Erie oil man, had contracted to serve as business representatives for the Dionne family, as was previously reported. He said:

"We just happened along and offered our help."

DOZEN OTHERS TO OPERATE BY SUNDAY

Council Expected to Grant Additional Fund of $8,000

City Council in a motion has urged action to open the pools, and Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston has approved a schedule of openings which will put 16 pools in operation by Sunday.

Four pools open today from 4 p. m. to 9 p. m. are Homewood, Hamilton and Lang avenues; Kennard, Kirkpatrick and Rose streets; Murray, East Park, and Sheraden, Surban avenue near Sherwood street.

Two additional pools will be opened tomorrow during the same hours: Paulson, Paulson avenue near Dunmore street, and Kline, Washington boulevard at Burpee street.

6 TO OPEN THURSDAY

Six openings are scheduled Thursday: Leslie, Forty-sixth and Butler streets; Phillips, Phillips Park, Carrick; West Penn, Thirtieth street and Brereton avenue, Olympia, Virginia avenue and Olympia street; Highland, Highland Park, and Magee, Greenfield avenue and Beechwood boulevard.

Other pools to be opened are: Friday, Ormsby, 5224 Sidney street; Schenley, Schenley Park. Saturday, Arlington, Sterling and Eccles street, and Sunday, Warrington, Kingsboro and Estella streets.

For the present, the pools will be opened the same hours on week days except Saturday when they will be open all day. The Sunday hours will be 1 to 6 p. m.

Council's motion yesterday in Finance Committee suggested that the Public Works Director open all pools as soon as possible, taking into consideration weather conditions, and make no change in the admission charged at Highland Park pool.

HIGHLAND PARK RATE

The rate there has been 10 cents for all except children under 12, who go in free. Council has been considering raising the age limit to 17 and the price above that to 15 cents.

No new funds for pool operation have been provided by Council other than those already existing, but it is reported that Council will today act favorably on an ordinance setting up an additional $8,000.

Director Johnson, in starting the pool-opening program, declared that Council should have acted on a request for funds for the purpose that he made May 21.

VANISHED CHILD FEARED DEAD

SHARON, Pa., June 5.—When 4-year-old Leah Minerva Dilley, one of the nine children of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Dilley, finished her Sunday noon meal and ran from the home to play with neighborhood children, she dropped out of sight.

Chief of Police Charles Steger today expressed fear that the child has been the victim of a fiend.

Chief Steger has questioned 25 people residing near the Dilley home. None threw light on the child's movements after she left home. As she was in her bare feet, police believed she could not have walked far.

Reports that a girl had been seen playing near Buhl Farm Lake led to investigation there, but nothing was found. A close check is being kept on the Shenango River, although Chief Steger doubts that the child could have walked over the stony bank to the stream.

JOCELYN CRANE AIDS RESEARCH

Among the busiest of the members of the research party of the New York Zoological Society, now stationed at the Bermuda Biological Station, is Miss Jocelyn Crane, daughter of Wilber E. Crane, of the William Penn Hotel, president of the Illinois Steel Bridge Company.

Miss Crane, who since her graduation with highest honors from Smith College in 1929, has been laboratory assistant to Dr. William Beebe, is aiding the doctor in his preparations for a 3,000-foot bathysphere descent in September.

TRIPLETS SEND SISTIE 'LOVE'

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP.)—Joan, Jane and Jean Parisek, 2½, Chicago triplets who contracted measles about the same time as did President Roosevelt's 7-year-old granddaughter, Sistie Dall, are recovered and hope Sistie has, too.

They wrote a note of sympathy to Sistie when she was taken ill, and felt Sistie would be glad to learn they had recovered. So yesterday they mailed her this letter:

"Dear Sistie:

"We just got home three days ago from the county contagious hospital, where we have been with the measles for three months. We hope your measles are better and that you can come and see us soon. Love,

JOAN, JANE AND JEAN PARISEK."

They hadn't heard that Sistie had fully recovered.

POISON KILLS YOUNG WIFE

A woman who preferred death to life because, she wrote in a "farewell entry" in her diary, she had seen her husband with another woman, today had been granted her wish.

Mrs. Bertha Lhota, 28, died today in Allegheny General Hospital from the effects of poison she had swallowed on May 23 in her home at 938 Iten street.

Police who took Mrs. Lhota to the hospital declared at the time that she had been harried by domestic troubles, according to entries of a 13-page diary they found pinned to her dress. Part of it read:

"I have been wondering where Eddie was spending his nights. Now I know. I saw him riding with another girl tonight."

Prior to swallowing the poison, Mrs. Lhota locked her 2-year-old son, "Sonny," in a room. Unconscious, she was found in the street, half a block from her home.

School and Hospital Damaged by Lightning

BOLT STUNS BOY

James Hobler, aged 4, of 931 Russellwood avenue, West Park, was in the Ohio Valley Hospital today from the effects of being stunned by lightning during last night's storm that swept the Ohio Valley district. He was standing near a tree when it was struck. He was found unconscious under the tree.

Waving his shirt, which he carrier under his arm after swimming, Jim Goodwin, 15, of 714 Center avenue, Avalon, flagged down the fast Pittsburgh to Chicago passenger train between West Bellevue and Avalon and told the engineer of the damage caused to the tracks by the heavy rain, Avalon police said.

The boy on his way home saw the westbound train approaching and, fearing that it would derail, stood in the tracks and flagged the train. Delayed about five minutes, the train proceeded over the tracks slowly.

SCHOOL DAMAGED

Lightning tore a 12-foot square hole in the side of the Cargo School, Boggs avenue, Mt. Washington. No fire followed, but the damage was estimated at $500.

Lightning struck chimneys on the Roselia Maternity Hospital, 1612 Cliff street, and the homes of O. T. Staufft, 1159 Davis avenue, and Peter Hughes, 927 Manton street; a transformer atop of a pole at James and Foreland streets; a pole in Plough street, North Side, and the Fort Wayne Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Fifteen feet of copper coping was torn off high above Federal street when the railroad station was struck. Firemen tore out the loose copper after scaling a 40-foot ladder.

Lightning struck a chimney in the home of Harry E. Anderson, 4621 Lilbourne street, Ross Township, and damaged the house to the extent of $400. Wires in the attic were torn out and the interior of a bedroom was wrecked.

FIRE STATION STRUCK

The hose tower of the Bellevue Fire Department was unroofed by lightning. The damage was estimated at $200.

A bolt struck the Emsworth Borough Hall, igniting wires in a partition. Damage was slight.

Firemen from Engine Company No. 45 were summoned when water, backing from a clogegd sewer, ran into the basement of St. John's Hospital. They cleared the sewer.

Water damaged a four-story brick building at 204 Sixth avenue. Clogged gutters on the roof caused water to seep through the vacant fourth and third floors and to the Pittsburgh Sporting Goods Shop and the Brass Rail Restaurant. The damage was estimated at $800.

The temperature in the downtown dropped from the high of 92 degrees at 6 p. m. to 68 degrees at 7 p. m., rising to 77 degrees at 9 p. m. The rainfall measured .53 of an inch.

DOOM NUDISTS TO 'SHORTS'

LANSING, Mich., June 5.—(AP.)—Heat wave or no heat wave, the members of Fred C. Ring's nudist colony near Allegan, Mich. probably will continue to wear shorts.

Such a likelihood was seen today following the ruling of the Michigan Supreme Court that a nudist camp is neither the nudists home nor his castle and cannot claim the constitutional protection against search and seizure.

The Supreme Court ruling was in answer to Ring's appeal from a 60-day jail term and a $300 fine to which he was sentenced in the Allegan County Circuit Court last year following his conviction on a charge of indecent exposure growing out of his operation of the nudist camp last summer.

The nudist camp is in operation again this summer but Ring said the members would wear shorts, at least until the appeal to the high court was decided.

Thunderstorms, accompanied by light to moderately heavy rainfall, were quite general yesterday afternoon and last night over the country east of the Rocky Mountains and over the Canadian Northwest. The weather is still unsettled over that area, and there is considerable cloudiness, but it is not raining this morning. Temperature changes since yesterday morning were slight. The weather continues warm over the eastern half of the country and moderately cool over the West and Northwest. Pressure is high over the Canadian Northwest and along the Atlantic coast, while low pressure extends from a center over Nevada northeastward to Lake Superior.

River Conditions

The rivers are stationary, or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 2.3 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 10.2; Pittsburgh, 9.9; Dam No. 4, 8.9; No. 8, 7.4; No. 10, 8.6, and No. 12, 6.4. The dams are up.

TIP ON MURDER SUSPECT GIVEN

Belief that a 13-year-old search for Benjamin Stokes, alias Frazier, alleged leader in the fatal Boggs & Buhl payroll robbery in 1921 was near an end was held by city detectives today with the receipt of a telegram from Sacramento, Cal., asking for a copy of the indictment against Stokes.

There was no other information in the telegram, which was signed by Sherig Donald Cox.

In the robbery, James H. Neal, a store official was slain and $53,000 in cash and checks stolen. Four accomplices of Stokes were captured and convicted.

"The Lindbergh kidnaping mystery will be solved. It may not be done in the near future, but it will be solved."

Today, with a detective, Dr. Condon toured the Sourland mountains and visited the former home of Col. Lindbergh, now a home for poor children. Earlier, the white-haired intermediary had conferred with state police officials and scanned rogue's gallery photographs.

Kidnaped Girl Believed Bride of 'Snatcher'

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 5.—(AP.)—Efforts to identify a girl and man in Texas as a West Virginia child and the man charged with kidnaping her brought information to state police today that the couple may be married.

The missing child is Dorothy Evelyn Bradley, who was six years old at the time she and William Mavin Roman disappeared seven years ago from Rupert, Greenbrier County. Richard Bradley, her father, told troopers:

"Roman asked my wife to let him take Dorothy Evelyn and our little boy to see them loading logs at a new mill.

"He left the little boy at a neighbor's home down the road saying he wasn't big enough to walk any farther, and went with Enie (the girl's nickname). He said he would be back for the boy.

"That was the last any of us saw of him."

Troopers, upon being advised by officers in Palestine, Tex., that the man and girl there may be married, said Roman had told neighbors he planned to marry Dorothy as soon as she was old enough. Officers said the man held at Palestine answers the description of Roman.

Auto Crash Kills Widow Of Recent Suicide

A former Beechview girl lies dead in a town in Texas today, the victim of an automobile accident that occurred less than four weeks after her husband was reported to have ended his life in a North Side hotel.

She is Mrs. Ralph H. Lautz, who lived at 1541 Fallowfield avenue. Last week Mrs. Lautz set out from here alone in her automobile to visit her parents in Sabinal, Tex.

Friday night her sister-in-law, Miss Louise K. Lautz, who lived with her here, received a wire from Nashville, Tenn., in which Mrs. Lautz said she was proceeding from there to her home.

Last night Miss Lautz got another wire telling her that her sister-in-law had been killed near Sabinal, Tex., when her car turned over.

Mrs. Lautz's husband, a former employe of the Gulf Refining Company, shot himself May 8, two days after he had been hauled out of the Ohio River after jumping off a bridge in an unsuccessful suicide attempt, according to police.

JOHNSON URGES PEACE BOARD FOR STEEL

"they are getting along beautifully." Johnson observed:

"That is a real example to every industry in this country."

The General added that under the methods followed by that board the question of proportionate representation between independent unions, company unions or other employe groups had not been brought up, but that union spokesmen were "sitting around the table" with the management and dealing with their problems as they developed.

WAGNER CONFERENCE

Johnson said he had no plans for seeing members of either the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers or the Steel Workers Industrial Union. Both groups had representatives in the city today with expectations of seeing Senator Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board.

The automobile industry leaders declined comment pending their talk with the President on proposed legislation.

It was understood, however, that they were opposed to the Wagner labor legislation.

ROOSEVELT AID SOUGHT

Meanwhile, steel union leaders are looking to President Roosevelt to help them obtain the recognition they demand.

They awaited word today from Senator Wagner as to whether the President would deal directly with their employers.

Forseeing the possibility of a steel strike's disastrous effect on the whole recovery program, the administration already has taken preventive steps.

The administration yesterday approached the steel industry on plans for heading off a threatened strike June 16, hearing meantime from Gov. Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, that "the steel companies are arming" and that "the situation is bad."

Not only did Hugh S. Johnson confer at length, in the privacy of a hotel suite, with W. A. Irvin, president of the United States Steel Corporation, but President Roosevelt told congressional leaders he wanted the Wagner labor disputes bill put through before adjournment.

WAGNER BILL BACKING

Administration pressure behind the Wagner bill had not been definitely asserted until yesterday, and evidently was put on in the hope that the measure's strengthening of the National Labor Board would have a quieting effect not only in the steel situation but in the whole field of labor trouble.

The steel question presented a serious muddle for the administration because of many uncertain elements, not the least being the development of a split within the union which might result in inability of the government to head off trouble.

The fundamental issue was regarded by officials to be the same as that involved in the automobile industry controversy: Recognition by the management of union men as representatives of their men for discussion of working conditions, wages, hours, etc.

Steel Union Men In Capital Take Rap at Johnson

By JOHN P. COWAN
Sun-Telegraph Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers objects to NRA Administrator Gen. Hugh S. Johnson "hanging any more dead cats on President Roosevelt."

This declaration was made today by a delegation of officials of Amalgamated lodges from Pittsburgh and Weirton, W. Va.

The spokesman for the group was William J. Spang, president of Duquesne lodge, representing District No. 1 of the Amalgamated. He said:

"We shall remain in Washington only a short time, as a steel strike is about to break out throughout the land. First, we owe it to the President to explain why, through no fault of his, this situation can be solved by him only. And we will explain why his election proposition in the new steel code is unacceptable to steel workers as it now stands."

With Spang, other Amalgamated officials here are Mel Moore, president of District No. 2; Jake Entinger, president of Good Will Lodge, Weirton, W. Va.; George Moore, financial secretary of NRA lodge, Weirton, and Charles Greenwood, president of New Deal lodge.

Replying to the assertions that the newly-formed lodges in the Weirton plants were not regularly organized units of the Amalgamated association, Entinger said:

"We brought the signed enrollment of more than 8,000 members to the White House and the President accepted it as mona fide. Is it necessary to load these 8,000 men in trucks and bring them to Washington in order to convince NRA authorities that these workers are union men? On June 16, if the proper reply does not come from the steel companies, they will see how many of our workers are staunch Amalgamated men.

"Don't you think that we are fighting Tighe (M. F. Tighe, president of Amalgamated). We believe that he is doing everything possible in this situation and we are behind him 100 per cent. Tighe and the other international officers knew of our coming and understand that we are co-operating with their efforts."

U. S. MEN HERE TO AID STEEL PEACE MOVE

Investigators for the federal government were gathering first-hand information concerning the steel labor crisis today in the Pittsburgh mills in preparation, it was believed, for making peace moves in the industry.

J. F. Dewey, representative of the National Labor Board, conferred with President M. F. Tighe of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers and other officials.

Presumably here to take steps toward settling a brick strike in West Virginia, Dewey made the first visit after his arrival here to Amalgamated headquarters.

Spokesmen for mills here made no statements on Gov. Pinchot's charges in Washington yesterday that the mills were arming for a strike with machine guns, barbed wire and putting cots in the mills.

Many reports concerning this alleged "arming" have been received at Amalgamated headquarters, according to Secretary Louis Leonard.

B. V. Coffey, chief deputy sheriff of Allegheny County, said he knew of no arrangements by steel companies to employ special deputies.

Tighe said he had been informed from "an outside source" that Weirton Steel Company was installing floodlights at its West Virginia plants. A company spokesman said there was no special significance about the installation.

Danger of a strike has boosted steel operations for the coming week to a new high since the American Iron and Steel Institute began compiling figures on a rush of orders for quick shipment, according to International News Service.

The deadline of June 16, set by the union for a walkout, is responsible for the last-minute rush of orders, and this has not been influenced as yet by efforts of the administration to avert the strike, it was said.

HUGHES BLAMES 'RADICALS' IN UNION RANKS

The strike threat to the steel industry is being engineered by a radical "rank and file party" within the ranks of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, and not the older members and national officers, employes of the Carnegie Steel Company were told by I. Lamont Hughes, president, in a bulletin distributed at the plants here today.

Commenting on the Amalgamated Association, President Hughes declared:

"The Amalgamated is an old American Federation of Labor union—it has been trying to establish itself as the closed shop organization of steel workers for many years.

"I want to remind you that, with more than 30 years of effort, it admittedly now has less than 10 per cent of the steel workers enrolled as members."

Of the Steel and Metal Workers Industrial Union, which has also made demands for recognition coincidental with the Amalgamted's threatened "holiday" program, President Hughes declared it to be "an organization frankly affiliated with the Communist movement."

He said:

"I offer no comment with regard to the Communist union—I am sure it can have no appeal to the employes of this company."

NRA to Be Topic At Socialist Rally

The Socialist party will formally open its campaign in the Sixth Legislative District with a mass meeting tonight at 8:30, sponsored by the Hilltop Socialist Club, in Grandview Park. Speakers will discuss the NRA.

Workers 'Tied' In Straw Poll On Strike Issue

How do the steel workers feel about the threatened steel strike? Do they favor a "company union," an "outside union" or no union at all?

In an effort to determined the real sentiment of the workers, the Sun-Telegraph today had conducted a "straw poll" among men actually working in the mills.

The results of this poll showed that workers were tied in their votes for and against the threatened strike. The poll showed:

For a strike	31
Against a strike	31
Neutral	11
For an "outside union"	37
For a "company union"	10
Neutral regarding union	16

Two workers said they were in favor of "following the crowd" and seven others declared they were against all present unions and favored a government-controlled, national union.

The poll was conducted outside the company gates of the Carnegie Steel Company, among men chosen at random as they went to work or came from the mills. Only men actually now employed were included in the voting.

Monessen and Vandergrilt Group Against Holiday

GREENSBURG, Pa., June 5.—Representatives of steel workers in the Monessen and Vandergrift districts in a resolution adopted have declared against the "holiday" proposed by the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

The resolution declares that the steel workers in both Monessen and Vandergrift "have not sanctioned any call whatsoever for a 'labor holiday' and earnestly request employes to refrain from participating in any movement that would cause the plant to cease operations."

STEEL WORKERS PLAN MARCH TO CAPITAL

A march of steel workers to Washington, similar to the march of the bonus army two years ago, is being planned, according to leaders of the "rank and file" of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers.

This was disclosed today by Earle J. Forbeck, of McKeesport, head of the "rank and file" group, who said:

"If there is a strike, the real strike will take place in Washington, not around here or in other steel centers in the United States."

Forbeck, who was in Washington last week with other leaders of the Amalgamated, denied his group had "split" with M. F. Tighe, president of the union, and also disavowed any alignment with Communists. Tighe knows of the plan for the march to Washington, and has neither assented nor objected, Forbeck said.

Tight said he knew nothing of the plan, except that one of the district leaders mentioned such a march would be "a good idea." He said:

"I paid no attention to it and haven't given it any thought."

The march will be started tomorrow "unless President Roosevelt assures steel leaders now in Washington" that the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill or similar labor legislation will be enacted to protect the workers, Forbeck said. He added:

"Section 7A of the National Recovery Act, the only such legislation now in existence, has more loopholes in it than a sieve.

"The march will be started by workers who have been discriminated against for their union activities."

Trade Rally Tonight At East Liberty

Council President Robert Garland and Walter Rosenbaum will be the principal speakers at a better business rally of the East Liberty Retail Merchants' Association tonight in the East Liberty Y. M. C. A.

Plans for a business promotion campaign in the district will be discussed by the retail merchants and other civic and business leaders, according to Dr. Lester Goldstein, president. Announcement of East Liberty Day at Kennywood Park, July 31, also will be made.

The "G-3" MYSTERY—
How "THIRD DEGREE" methods developed an astonishing NEW tire

. . . a brutal "third degree"—testing the endurance of a tire on high speed friction wheels

The tires stood up—but the brakes couldn't "take it." They had to be adjusted every 8 hours—relined every 72

Goodyear Experts Solve Puzzle and Return an Improved All-Weather Tread That Gives 43% Longer Non-Skid Mileage

FRANKLY, we hardly believed it ourselves when this new "G-3" Goodyear tire showed ability to deliver 43% more non-skid mileage.

It was astonishing. We knew it had won against all other treads tested on high speed friction wheels. We knew it had survived the most brutal "third degree" ever inflicted by the test drivers.

"G-3" was one of many tread designs originated to stop the mysterious tread wear that was attacking all tires. Not just competitive tires, but even ours. When it was determined that the cause for unusual wear was the higher-powered, faster-braking, modern automobiles, Goodyear executives demanded not just a better tire, but a vastly superior tire.

Now that "G-3" All-Weather tires have been in use for some months (in a few sizes) the reasons for the astonishing toughness of this new All-Weather design can be summarized this way:

The "G-3" tread is made possible by widening the road contact, which puts some additional strain on sidewalls. But the famous extra-durable, extra-elastic SUPERTWIST cord carcass has plenty of reserve for this duty. Here, Goodyear was prepared to increase tread width without the slightest difficulty. And, because SUPERTWIST is a patented Goodyear feature, the advance principle of "G-3" All-Weather design will be found in Goodyear tires only.

If you would know how "G-3" and SUPERTWIST combine to provide the most astonishing tire that has ever carried the Goodyear name, go to your nearest Goodyear Dealer's, and see this marvel.

The mystery of tread-wear under new automobiles is not only solved but ANSWERED. "G-3" is as far ahead of ordinary tires as the snappy, quiet, and fleet cars of today are superior to the lumbering "hacks" of years gone by.

See the "G-3." Keep up-to-date on how tires—Goodyear tires—have been improved in tread wear and non-skid safety.

You get "G-3" All-Weather tires at the regular price. It costs more to build, but nothing extra to buy.

MOTIVE SOUGHT IN CAVE DEATH OF YOUTH

PHILIPPI, W. Va., June 5.—(AP.)—A verdict that Dale Janes, 15, died from "blows inflicted on the head and body by person or persons unknown" was returned by a coroner's jury last night, about 24 hours after the schoolboy's body was found buried in a hillside cave.

A leg, protruding from a heap of stones and dirt, led to the discovery after a posse set out to find the boy who had been missing for a week.

Prosecutor Forrest Poling disclosed that two men, one an ex-convict, are being questioned. He added:

"We have several good clues, but our investigation has not proceeded far enough to formally charge anyone with murder."

The motive for the crime is a mystery but the prosecutor says:

"We believe the boy must have met his death because of something he knew about some activity in the Moatsville section."

There were unconfirmed reports that Dale, who recently was graduated from the eighth grade in school, had unearthed a still in the hill country near here.

The boy disappeared after attending church at Moatsville a week ago Sunday night. The cave in which the body was discovered is about a mile from the home of Janes' grandmother, Mrs. Barbara Hoffman. It was here he had lived since the death of his mother some time ago.

When the boy failed to return home, the grandmother assumed he had gone to the home of his father, Dallas Janes, a Grafton barber. Poling said:

"There was a gash on the forehead and it appears the boy was attacked, lost consciousness and then was buried alive."

WIFE DELAYING DOWLING TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—(AP.)—Postponement of the trial of R. C. (Dapper) Danny Dowling, motion picture dance director charged with kidnaping the actress-aviatrix who now is his wife, loomed today as District Attorney's investigators announced they had been unable to locate the wife.

Mrs. Dowling, the former Marjorie Crawford Wellman, is the state's star witness. Should Mrs. Dowling not be located before the trial is called today, the prosecutor's office announced, a postponement will be sought.

Mrs. Dowling caused the arrest of the dance director last April, when she charged he had abducted her from her home here and forced her to accompany him to Yuma, Ariz., in an effort to marry her. A month later they were married.

BRIBE RUMORS STIR AMBRIDGE

AMBRIDGE, Pa., June 5.—Ambridge Council has appointed a committee of four to investigate rumors of bribery alleged to have been circulated by a member of Council in connection with the election of a tax collector.

The appointment of a committee followed a statement by President of Council William N. Ansnutz, who said:

"I do not think it is right to permit the circulation of numerous rumors by another member of Council that bribes ranging from $100 to $200 have been taken in the election of a tax collector."

James McKee was chosen tax collector at the last election but did not take office. Subsequently Council by a vote of 6 to 4 elected M. B. Nadler to the job.

MAN SHORTAGE HANDICAP TO U. S. FLEET

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles on the condition of the United States fleet, written by an International News Service staff correspondent who observed the recent two months of maneuvers in the Pacific and Caribbean from the flag bridge and decks of one of the men-o'-war.)

By RALPH B. JORDEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Uncle Sam afloat is a keen old two-gun gentleman with lightning-like draw, steady trigger finger and accurate aim.

But he wants bigger and better guns and more men to shoot them.

In other words, the United States at present is in a high state of efficiency with what it has.

The officiers and men are trained to the minute and the ships are ready to do more than even their builders and the arms manufacturers expected of them.

But the admirals feel that a great number of their fighting craft are too far out of date and they say the ships which they have are badly undermanned.

The Pacific and Caribbean maneuvers indicated that the admirals are correct. On every ship officers were standing double watches and doing double duty and the same conditions applied to the men.

The naval building program now under way will bring modern men-o'-war to replace the antiquated craft to a great extent. But, ask the admirals, who will man them?

The high ranking officiers are anxious to increase enlistments speedily now so that when the new ships come into the line they can be taken over by trained crews.

A keen-eyed and weather beaten admiral told International News Service:

"A coach takes a long time to perfect each of his men in intricate plays and, unless they are at perfection, they can't win games, no matter how good they are individually or how fine their equipment is.

"The Navy is the same. It takes a long time to get the team work which is necessary to win battles.

TRAINING NEEDED

"Each man must be carefully trained. The engine room and boiler room forces must be trained to act correctly in any emergency, for an excited seaman second class can wreck the engines and boilers of a battleship. And in time of war this might mean going to the bottom under enemy gunfire.

"Men in the turrets, handling the big guns, must be trained for years before they are really efficient. The same is true of communications men and observers.

"At present we often have to put anybody who happens to be available in the foretops as observers. They can't spot fire accurately. But the observers have too many other things to do.

"And officers maneuvering ships must have years of training. A little guess work that proves wrong on the bridge of a ship maneuvering at top speed in formation may bring a disastrous collision."

("Give Us More Airplane Carriers in a Hurry" urge fleet officers in the next installment which will appear in an early issue, probably tomorrow.)

FREDDY'S WIFE TO SUE OVER 'DRUNK' JOKE

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, June 5.—"Freddy" Procter may think it is funny to pretend he is drunk while his wife is entertaining the United States Ambassador but his wife frankly admits that she does not see the joke.

Accordingly, International News Service learned today, Mrs. Frederic William Procter, the former Dorothy Stokes, of New York, intends to sue the 35-year-old heir to Cincinnati soap millions for divorce.

Procter has been married four times. It will be the third time he has been sued for divorce but the first time his sense of humor has been the basis for the suit.

'LUCKY FREDDY'

Procter is sometimes called "Lucky Freddy" by his friends. The lucky part comes from the fact that he won $150,000 in the Irish sweepstakes in 1932. He quite evidently has not been so lucky in love.

Mrs. Procter said today:

"Freddy's sense of humor is too much for me. Only last Thursday he came home while I was giving a cocktail party at which Ambassador Strauss and Counselor Marriner, of the American Embassy, were the principal guests.

"Freddy tripped on a rug and fell smack on his face on the floor, pretending he was drunk.

"The Ambassador helped carry him to a couch where Freddy pretended to be asleep and snored loudly.

"Such humor is all right if everybody knows the situation but some people present thought he was really drunk."

Mrs. Procter once owned a hat-shop in New York. She came from Easton, Pa. She and Procter eloped in 1931 and were married at Miami.

SECOND MARRIAGE

Later he married Marjorie E. Woodhouse. They were divorced in Paris in 1921. She later married Carter Leidy, former husband of Fifi Widener.

In June, 1927, Procter married Elizabeth Laing Foss. They were divorced in Paris in 1930.

Procter is living at a hotel here with his mother, Mrs. Sanford Procter. It is understood he plans to spend thes ummer in Normandy with his mother and his two children by a former marriage, one of which is an invalid.

Mrs. Procter was depressed by the outcome of her first marriage venture. She declared she planned to go to New York after obtaining her divorce and probably would re-enter business there.

The Procter apartment is one of the most luxurious and most expensive in Paris, and has been the sceen of many gay social affairs.

LAWRY REFUSES TO ASK LOAN

Burgess R. H. Lawry, of West Homestead, at a meeting of the borough council last night refused again to sign a resolution to borrow $10,000 to pay borough expenses until taxes come in. He declared the loan was unnecessary, and added that one reason for his action was that council had refused to show him the budget. He also vetoed the new millage rate of 11 mills.

Dr. W. J. McGill, a member of the finance committee, declared that the budget was offered to the burgess for inspection, but that the latter had not appeared interested.

Game Fish Season To Open July 2

HARRISBURG, June 5.—(INS.)—Because of the Sabbath fishing prohibition in Pennsylvania, the State Fish Commission today announced that the game fish season will not open in the state until July 2 this year, since July 1, the usual opening date, is a Sunday.

Pointing to waters well stocked with bass, pickerel, pike, Susquehanna salmon and muskellunge, the commission predicted that opening day will find thousands of fishermen invading lakes, creeks and streams in an attempt to snag banner catches.

Indian Priest, 157, Buries Self Alive

SIMLA, India, June 5.—(AP.)—Religious pilgrims reported today that the aged Shamanist abbot of a temple near Bareilly has been buried alive at his own request.

The abbot, who was reputed to be 157 years old, believed his life's work was over, and that to live on would be an affront to the dieties. Pilgrims reported he lay down in a grave and that faithful followers, after performing ancient ceremonies, covered him with earth.

ADJOURNMENT FIGHT PERILS PROGRAM

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—An all summer session confronted Congress today if administration leaders attempt to carry out President Roosevelt's demand for enactment of a six-point "must" legislative program.

A militant Republican minority in the Senate virtually served notice on the Democrats they would battle enactment of each measure on the program if adjournment were postponed beyond Saturday. Their threats indicated the bills would be debated for weeks unless the President agrees to some modification of the program and a fixed date of adjournment.

HOUSE 'GAGGED'

The program concerned the Senate chiefly, since the House is under a literal "gag" law. Armed with a new "rule," reminiscent of "Czar" Reed's day, a quarter century ago, House leaders will be able to pass any legislation they desire and as quickly as they desire. They showed their power by enacting a $1,178,000,000 unemployment relief appropriation after 40 minutes' debate—at a rate of $29,450,000 a minute.

The Senate started the President's new program by making his new silver bill its "unfinished business" after enacting the reciprocal tariff act. The silver bill could be passed in a few days, but with an unlimited calendar ahead, insurgent Democrats and the Republican opposition undoubtedly will debate it for days, if not for weeks.

FIGHT WAGNER BILL

Besides the silver bill, the President requested enactment of the highly controversial Wagner labor disputes bill, the equally controversial Wallace farm licensing act and his own new housing program. On top of this, Mr. Roosevelt wanted the billion-dollar unemployment relief appropriation enacted, along with another appropriation, yet to be determined, for the relief of drought stricken areas.

A group of Republicans and Democrats are determined to prevent passage of the Wagner bill, even at the price of prolonging the session of Congress for weeks. This group will fight passage of every piece of legislation, hoping to forestall action on the Wagner bill.

The Wallace act is facing defeat and the housing program also has numerous foes. It is being opposed as a "dangerous experiment" that might lead to far-flung consequences not readily perceived now.

Edna L. Bernstein Combines Old and Modern Styles

By PENELOPE REDD

The Wunderly Gallery presents a collection of more than a score of canvases by Edna L. Bernstein, of New York, which has just been shown at the Brooklyn Museum of Art. Mrs. Bernstein's exhibition is a series of intimate portraits of flowers. She differs from many of her contemporaries, who select flowers and still life subjects as pictorial properties which they invest with Freudian innuendoes. Indeed, her flower portraits have the innocence of old botany prints but the style is that of the adventurous modern mind.

Miss Redd

Her paintings are refreshing because they are genuinely feminine without being finicky. Her early studies with William Chase and other brilliant technicians have given her the poise of well-established craftsmanship. The years devoted to the demands of family life when she abstained from painting but increased her visual experience through her love of beauty particularized in her passion for flowers, served her art faithfully.

Four years ago, Mrs. Bernstein resumed her study with Winold Reiss. The long period during which she was dormant as an artist prepared her for today when she has blossomed forth quite literally into exquisite decorations.

Mrs. Bernstein has designed and will paint this summer a large mural decoration which will synthesize her discoveries of the loveliness of form, texture, and the color of the flowers she knows so familiarly.

To select anyone of the paintings for special notice is difficult since the group is so unified in quality. For example any canvas such as the "Gardenia," "Auratum Lily," "Narcissus," "Pink Poppy" or "Marigold," projects the generic attributes of the flowers as living personalities.

Mrs. Bernstein's exhibition will be on view at the Wunderly Gallery through June 16.

Skating Rink May Occupy Market House

A roller skating rink may occupy the second floor of the east unit of the Diamond Market, if Council approves an ordinance authorizing a lease to H. B. Moeser. Under the terms of the lease, the skating rink rental of $8,000 per year would be divided equally between the city and the Market Protective Association, a group of the stand owners, who at present lease the entire building from the city.

PARTY LEADERS ACT TO BALK M'LEOD BILL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Democratic leaders in the House took their first step today toward preventing a vote on the McLeod bank depositors pay-off bill and the Frazier-Lemke mortgage refinancing bill.

Under authority conferred by the House when it adopted a "gag" rule to smash a Republican filibuster, Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, majority leader, recessed instead of adjourned the House over night.

This has the effect of making Monday and Tuesday one legislative day. The effect on the maneuver is this:

Both bills can be called up Monday by virtue of the signing of petitions by 145 members — one-third of the House—providing seven legislative days intervene between the time of completing the petitions and next Monday.

By recessing, instead of adjourning, Byrns cut down the number of intervening legislative days.

Three such recesses would be sufficient, parliamentary experts say, to prevent a vote on the McLeod bill. The recess already taken places the Frazier-Lemke bill in jeopardy and one more would prevent a vote on it.

If Byrns carries out the apparent threat, a vote on the measures would be postponed until June 25, since the petitions can be called up only on the second and fourth Mondays of the month.

While the Democratic leaders insist they did not adopt the "gag" rule to kill the McLeod bill, sponsors of the measure argue this was one of the aims of leaders.

HOUSE SPEEDS ENACTMENT OF TARIFF BILL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Speedy passage of the administration's tariff bargaining bill was presaged today when Chairman Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, of the ways and means committee indicated that the House will accept Senate amendments.

By taking this course instead of sending the bill to conference, final enactment could be hastened. Doughton said:

"I don't think the Senate amendments are objectionable. We will have a meeting of our conferees today to decide on our course."

Under the administration's lash, the Senate passed the measure little changed from the form in which it was adopted by the House.

Republican Senators charged administration leaders with lack of good faith because of the defeat of an amendment proposing to exempt the present excise taxes on coal, oil, lumber and copper from the President's powers to change tariff under international agreements. They claimed Senator Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, promised to support the amendment but merely introduced it and gave no sanction in presenting it to the Senate.

Mark Wilcox, West Palm Beach, in the state's largest district.

Mrs. Hortense K. Wells, Tampa, state committee woman, was one of four candidates opposing United States Senator Park Trammell.

says Gary Cooper

[AN OLD GOLD SMOKER SINCE 1932]

Dear Mr. Cooper:—

The point you raise is important. Tampering with the natural flavor of tobacco never improves its smoking qualities. If the tobacco is right, it needs no artificial flavoring.

The big reason, Mr. Cooper, is simply this:—Old Gold uses only queen-leaf types of Turkish and domestic tobaccos—varieties notably free from bite. Aged at least 30 months, this tobacco reaches you as smooth and mellow as rare old wine.

That's why you can smoke Old Golds, day in and day out . . . without the slightest throat irritation.

Sincerely,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—The fact is, Mr. Cooper:

64 STUDENTS ARRESTED IN CELEBRATION

PHILADELPHIA, June 5. — (AP.) — Sixty-four students of the University of Pennsylvania, most of them clad in pajamas, were arrested early today as police brought another riotous "rowbottom" demonstration to an end.

Wholesale jailing of the leading celebrators was resorted to, the police said, as the only means of bringing order from the havoc caused by the students on city streets and in business places.

The "rowbottom" — reputedly named for the sound-sleeping student whose nocturnal roommate had to shout under his window to be let in during the early hours—began with water fights on the campus.

Soon the students were traveling noisily from block to block, halting street cars and buses, hurling milk bottles at the passengers, upsetting ashcans and strewing their contents about the streets.

Fire hydrants were opened, and several streets were flooded. Fraternity house windows were shattered by flying missiles. Tables and chairs were overturned in a grill room and a hotel lobby.

7 OF OIL CREW DIE IN BLAST

International News Service.

NORMAN, Okla., June 5.—Explosion of a dynamite magazine today had blasted out the lives of seven of eight members of a seismograph crew sounding geological formations for oil.

Two hundred pounds of dynamite stacked beside the roadway exploded accidentally, blowing the seven young geologists to bits. The eighth, W. L. Crawford, of Palestine, Tex., suffered shock.

The dead were David McLellan, Santa Anna, Tex.; Don McDonald, San Antonio, Tex.; Joe Fannin, May, Tex.; Lloyd B. Flood, Norman, Okla.; Herman Voigt, Perry, Okla.; Preston Barnes, Guthrie, Okla., and Vernon Weddel, Chandler, Okla.

Using heavy blasts of explosives, the group was taking seismograph soundings of geological formations in Northern McClain County for possible oil development.

All of the bodies were mutilated by the explosion. Windows were broken and partitions damaged in a house 200 yards from the blast.

FIREMEN SEEK INJUNCTION

An equity action has been filed in Common Pleas Court by J. H. Funk and a number of others against Braddock Township and the township commissioners to restrain the latter, police and employes from interfering with the members of Braddock Township Volunteer Fire Department No. 1.

The petitioners aver that the township authorities are endeavoring to prevent the members of the company from attending fires, have placed a "no trespassing" notice on the Municipal Building in Brinton road, and are preparing to tear it down. They also ask that the authorities be prevented from destroying the building.

It is alleged that a charter was granted January 4, 1930, to the Braddock Park Welfare and Fire Association and as a result the volunteer fire department was organized. They claim that this company has been the only recognized fire fighting body in the township.

DRIVER FLEES 3-CAR CRASH

Police today sought the driver of an automobile who abandoned his machine after it was involved in a three-car collision at Allegheny and North avenues early today, causing the serious injury of Elmer Carlisle, 50, of 2815 Midland street. Carlisle was taken to Presbyterian Hospital with a possible skull fracture.

Tracing ownership of the abandone machine to Fuller Brothers, Woods Run, police learned it had been assigned to J. Leasure, of 6 Cross street. Leasure told them the machine had been stolen. The other driver, uninjured, was L. Hoagland, of 1010 Liberty avenue.

POLICE BEAT 2 IN RAID ON CLUB

Fists and maces swung furiously in the New Twelfth Ward Republican Club, 416 Sixth avenue, early today, when two men defied a police edict banning music in clubs, cabarets and restaurants after 2 a. m., testimony in Central Police Court disclosed.

Wearing a large patch on his head, Fred Maher, 43, of 392 Beelen street, steward of the club, appeared before Magistrate J. W. McGowan along with Jerry McCollum, 37, of 216 Sweetbriar street, bartender.

FINED $25 EACH

Both had been treated in Allegheny General Hospital. They were fined $25 each on charges of keeping a disorderly house and assault and battery.

Patrolman Edward McCall testified that when he and Patrolman Francis Bassett entered the club about 2:45 a. m. to enforce the new order read at rollcall last night, Mayer told him:

"Your badge don't mean anything any more."

FLORIG TOSSES ONE

Lieut. Albert Florig testified that when he entered, Mayer swung at him. He grabbed Mayer and tossed him into the arms of Patrolmen Robert Foster and Fred Good. The latter had to use force to subdue Mayer, Florig stated.

An entertainer was singing when the raiders entered, Florig told the magistrate, and Mayer refused to stop the music. Florig refused Mayer's request to return a beer license, which he had confiscated, saying he had been unable to find a charter for the club, and the two prisoners couldn't produce any.

Mayer testified he had been drinking and didn't remember what happened. McCollum said he didn't know Patrolman Bassett was an officer as he didn't wear a uniform.

Under the new order, clubs must close at 1 a. m. Sunday, Lieut. Florig explained.

In other raids, shortly after midnight, police swooped upon three places in downtown Pittsburgh and arrested five men and two women, said to have been violating the state liquor laws.

Dorothy Carson, 22, of 213 First avenue, was charged with violation of the liquor laws and keeping a disorderly house, following a raid at the same address, in which two quarts of liquor and a half barrel of beer were seized, police reported. Her beer license was removed. She was fined $10 by Magistrate McGowan.

Magistrate McGowan discharged half a dozen defendents on the ground that police had not definitely proved sale of liquor.

Those discharged included: Sally Brown, 43 and Dan Radovich, 42, arrested at 212 Boulevard of the Allies; Sam Bell, 52, arrested at 101 Grant street; George McCord, same address, alleged proprietors and Andy Anedas, 40, of 441 First avenue and James McAvoy, Homestead, visitors.

A small quantity of beer, gin and whisky was seized, and Steve Szemer, 520 Second avenue was arrested at the latter address. He was held on charges of violating the liquor laws and keeping a disorderly house, police said.

Squirrel Hill police arrested a man and a woman and seized two cases of beer in a raid at Ellsworth Gardens, 5728 Ellsworth avenue, at midnight, they reported. Those held were Anna Barker, 36, charged with keeping a disorderly house, and Paul Cupps, 26, of 8402 Frankstown avenue, detained for investigation. The raid followed several complaints of nearby residents, police said.

MAYOR IMPOSES GAG IN POLICE PROBE

sions of immunity from political retaliation for members of the force who are to be called to testify at future hearings. The commission decided also to call Bell and Louis Leff, dismissed as inspector of detectives a few days ago, to appear.

INVITE PUBLIC AID

Though acknowledging that both had expressed standoff policies regarding competent and trustworthy public servants, the commission moved to ask specific removal of the gags that might cause city employes to withhold their testimony for fear of losing their jobs.

Director Bell's statement follows:

"I have no objection to anyone in this department giving testimony before the Police Research Commission and they are free to testify without fear of being dismissed on account of what they say, if they stick to the truth.

"I wish to say, however, that this does not imply that the people who may be called upon to testify are immune from dismissal, as I do not know who they are going to call and I am conducting an investigation of my own which may result in dismissals."

Following consideration of a letter from Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall in which Marshall asked for a hearing before the committee, former Police Inspector James N. Hoey, commission member, elaborated on a telephone conversation he recently mentioned as occurring between him and the department official.

TELLS CONVERSATION

He declared Marshall called him at his home Friday night, the day before the commission held its first hearing.

According to Hoey, Marshall said:

"I'm in the director's office and I want you to come down. I have something good for you."

Hoey said he voiced disinterestedness in anything Marshall might offer, only to have the superintendent object:

"But this is something very good, Jim."

Hoey's answer, he said, was:

"No matter how good it is, I don't want it. I don't want to work for you under any circumstances."

Then, he asserted, he hung up the phone.

Pending Marshall's recovery from an illness which he said prevented him from attending last week's hearing, the commission is proceeding with its investigations of the charges made by former Safety Director Smith against him and Capt. of Detectives Frank R. Boyd at the hearing.

Other members of the group who attended last night's conference were Miss Anna B. Heldman, Dennis J. Mulvihill, counsel for the committee, and Meyer A. Sanders, secretary.

Graf Crosses Sea With 18 Passengers

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 5.—(AP.)—The Graf Zeppelin, completing a fight from South America in 77 hours, reached its station here at 6 a. m. today. The big ship brought 18 passengers and 300 pounds of mail. Workmen immediately began to condition the Zeppelin for its second trans-Atlantic flight of the season, a cruise to Buenos Aires scheduled to start before the end of the week.

JEWISH APPEAL AIM OUTLINED

Leo Lehman, chairman of the United Jewish Appeal for German Relief, outlines the aims and purposes of the Pittsburgh campaign for $100,000 toward the organization's national goal of $3,000,000.

Mr. Lehman, in a radio speech, quoted from a letter to chairmen of the national drive from Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, New York, chairman of the National Christian Committee for German Refugees, saying in part:

"You are aware that the National Christian Committee for German Refugees, composed of representative citizens of both Protestant and Catholic communities, has been organized at the request of the High Commissioner James G. McDonald to arouse among Christian people an interest in the fate of the refugees coming out of Germany and to raise funds for their relief. Realizing that a considerable proportion of the refugees are Christians and are ignored by Christian charities and are almost entirely dependent upon money contributed by Jewish organizations, we want to bring to Christian people a sense of their obligation."

EDUCATOR WARNS ON SECRET 'RED' DRIVE

Duquesne Man Bares Plot to Wreck Government

American parents were warned that "there is an organized secret effort among American youth to discard present-day government in favor of foreign or communistic ideas," by Dr. Arthur L. Rayhawk, of Duquesne University, who spoke over WCAE last night.

Dr. Raynawk said:

"Agitators, capitalizing the depression, are whispering to our youth that American government has failed, that Communism would be better—'it will bring an easy life, no work, and lots of fun."

Despairing of influencing adults, these agitators, Dr. Rayhawk continued, concentrate efforts on youth, more easily attracted by promises, unable to recognize the essential futility of the agitators' proposals.

He warned:

"Parents must recognize the danger and get back of organizations combating communistic tendencies among youth. They must accept their own responsibility to make their children into good citizens. If they leave it to chance, great harm may be done.

"Do not pass the buck to school boards. They may not always be aware of the insidious activities. Compel them to be aware of them. After all, your children are the ones affected."

The speaker declared that, if we believe America an excellent place in which to live, it is up to us to make our children aware of it by word and deed—that instead of criticizing the government as a failure, parents should get out and take part in it.

He added:

"You are the American government. There isn't a thing that the people cannot get from their government if they want it. Our present governing bodies will give us everything that Communism can promise, and more, too. They do not work perfectly, it is true. But why discard the mighty useful American government because of occasional delays? Especially for the imaginary benefits of Communism?

"Communists are making inroads into our schools. We must realize that. It is up to us to counteract their efforts. Keep your children so interested in being Americans that foreign-made ideas will find no place to enter."

Dr. Rayhawk Tells Parents to Guard Children

Outlining what he considered the essential differences between Americanism and Communism, the speaker said:

"By Americanism is meant a firm support of the principles of government laid down by our forefathers, embodied in our Constitution and applied by our Congress and President.

"By Communism is meant the determination of certain groups, to have us discard, wreck and destroy the American system of government because it has not brought us all that they can promise."

Models on Exhibition

New Thrills Awaiting Junior Birdmen Here

Field Day Saturday Offers Variety of Features

New thrills for Pittsburgh youngsters were assured today in connection with the field day for Junior Birdmen of America at the City-County Airport next Saturday afternoon.

On exhibition will be the three types of flying models eligible to compete in Pittsburgh's first Model Plane Derby, to be conducted at Schenley Oval, July 7.

Arnold Smith, 19, of 2887 Beechwood boulevard, who is one of the best model plane builders in this section, is building the flying models to display at the pageant Saturday. They are an all-balsa glider, and a single and a double propelled glider. The models will be built to regulation.

Smith, though young in years, is well known for his scale model planes, which he has sold all over the globe. He estimates that he has built more than 600 scale model and 300 flying model plane in the last seven years.

One of the best-liked planes which Smith builds is the model of the wartime "ship" used by the late Col. William Thaw, who commanded the Lafayette Escadrille. Another is the red Fokker triplane used by the Baron von Richthofen, famous German ace.

Hundreds of boys and girls will flock to the airport from every conceivable direction. Some will go by automobile, many with their parents. Others will go by street car on a special arrangement between the Sun-Telegraph and the Pittsburgh Railways Company, details of which will be given in the Junior Birdmen column today.

The program, beginning at noon and lasting until 4:30 p. m., will include stunt flying by Army and civilian flyers.

JUNIOR PATROL MAIL BOX

Get plenty of sleep, fellows!

There have been some men who have thought what a wonderful thing it would be if we didn't have to sleep and could keep on working or enjoying ourselves 24 hours a day. They point out what a lot of his life a man wastes sleeping.

And there are some people who don't seem to need much sleep. Some of them sleep only an hour or two at a time and only four or five hours a day.

But such people are rare and often they are sick because they can't sleep. We all need sleep and when you are young and growing you need more than you will after you have grown up.

The smart boys and girls are glad without being told to go to bed and to get enough sleep. Nine hours should be enough if you are healthy. By the time you are 12 or more eight hours is considered enough.

It is hard, in fact, to set the exact time a fellow needs. But one thing is sure, sleep gives a human being and his mind rest that is needed. We can't really do without it. Men can go a long time—two or three days, perhaps—without sleep, but they must make it up somehow, and sleep more later. Soldiers defending the trenches sometimes stayed awake a long time. Doctors and nurses trying to save a life forget about sleep.

But always there is a penalty to pay. Going without sleep is hard for the body.

The healthy fellow gets enough sleep. Maybe you are reading an interesting book. Put it down and go to bed when bedtime comes. You will enjoy it more later on, after sleep, when your brain is clear.

Getting the right amount of sleep not only makes you feel better so that you can have more fun the remainder of the day, but it keeps you stronger and healthier. A good sleeper isn't so likely to catch colds and other ills.

Junior Patrol captains need to be on the lookout all the time for interesting things for their patrol to do. We know a fellow who organized a club to build furniture out of boxes and other wood scraps. How's that for an idea?

TRUCKING CODE EXTENDED

National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson has announced an extension of the time limits fixed in the trucking industry code for registration of vehicles, display of registration insignia, the election of members of national, regional and state code authorities and the filing of rates and tariffs.

Under today's order members of the trucking industry will be allowed 30 days from May 14 to register. 'For hire' members of the industry have 45 days from that date to file rate and tariff schedules. This is the same limit as set for the showing of registration insignias. The extension will also allow 60 days from May 14 for the election of state code authorities.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Things I Never Knew About A Fireman

That a fireman is a bigger man at a fire than the President of the United States. The law says his command at a fire is supreme.

That a fireman cannot go to bed in New York City until after 10 and never at any time during the day.

That a fireman pays (every month) the salary of the matron who cares for his bed in the dormitory, yet he can neither hire nor fire her.

That contrary to all belief a fireman does not get a kick out of breaking windows at a fire, he has to—ventilation.

That a fireman does not chop in a roof for exercise, he is a truckman and makes an opening to allow the smoke to clear so that the laddies with the hose can approach nearer the fire.

That a fireman has no excuse in missing the apparatus when it rolls on an alarm. He must be with the fire wagon or else explain.

That a fireman works on an average of 84 hours each week, the longest worked city, state or federal employe.

That the New York firemen have an association of their own, mutual benefit, social and death benefit. No officers allowed.

That Jimmie Chambers, the business secretary, is the only civilian within the portals when the smoke eaters hold their closed meetings.

That the Uniformed Firemen's Association belongs to the International Association of Fire Fighters, 750,000 firemen in paid departments throughout the country and Canada.

That the Firemen's Association is affiliated with the A. F. of L., yet if they attempted to go on a strike they would lose their charter.

That a fireman can stop a performance or dismiss an audience gathered in any building if there is in his opinion a fire hazard.

That 15 per cent of the New York City firemen are of Jewish origin—Irishmen predominate.

That the majority of firemen in New York City are requisitioned from the surface, elevated lines, the subways and express companies.

That firemen have to pay $1 year tax on an ice water cooler.

That every fireman must attend the fire school at least once a year. He better make a certain mark or better or there is a helluvalot of explaining. They may have to stay after school.

That the work the firemen do around the firehouse, polishing brass, scrubbing floors, etc., is called committee work.

That a fireman cannot leave the apparatus floor without permission.

That a fireman spends exactly half, if not more of his life in the fire house when he joins the New York Fire Department.

That a young man's chances for getting to the top of the ladder, in command, in the Fire Department are mighty small. The chief is appointed for an indefinite period. The last chief was in command for 20 years. The present chief is still a young man.

There are more men of medium height in the department now than big huskies. Brains are the requisite today.

That a lady must not be offended if she is taken hold of by a fireman attempting to rescue in a way that may be offensive. It is regulation. After she is safely placed on terra firma and has the situation analyzed she may be able to appreciate the reason for the particular hold by the laddie.

In a rescue one hand must always be free to guide the firemen down the ladder. The other clasps the one being rescued.

That when firemen in a building are surrounded by smoke they drop to the floor and follow the lead of the hose. Because it came in through an opening and that is their exit.

That the city promised to reimburse a fireman if his dress uniform is soiled or damaged at a fire. Then the Board of Estimate forgot to appropriate any money for the damage.

Every fireman must buy his own equipment. It costs about $400 for a complete outfit. The chief of the department may change the style of the regulation uniform when he chooses. Every fireman must have a new overcoat for next year.

That every year the Uniformed Firemen's Association gives an entertainment and dance for the widows and dependents of deceased firemen. Madison Square Garden is not big enough for all to attend at one time. Last year 50,000 tried to gain admittance. They come hours before the doors open.

That a fireman's widow is the only woman the men will have do their beds in the dormitories.

That the chief of the department may order every fireman on continuous duty if he thinks an emergency exists. The famous recall goes out and every man off duty, on vacation or special leave must return to his quarters at once. Five times last year the recall was sent out twice during the severe snowstorms.

That every Saturday morning when citizens are getting a special sleep the firemen are going through fire drills in the houses. This is done almost every afternoon also.

That whenever there is a fire the first thing the firemen do when they return is to wash the apparatus, take out the wet hose and stretch it to dry and replace it with hose ready for action.

That there are no pockets in a fireman's "trousers," hence the fireman does not have to pay street car fare. He would never get to the fire.

Film Comic Fights for Health

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—Hello! A letter from Lloyd Hamilton tells a swell story—a tale I'm sure Hollywood and the comedian's host of friends and admirers will be glad to hear. It reads:

"Dear Jimmy: At last I know I've pulled a smart move. I'm on a wonderful ranch belonging to Mrs. McCoy and her daughter. It's in Cherry Valley, just outside of Beaumont. I'm sure I came here just in time. I did not realize it, but I was a wreck—and for good!

"'m letting old Mother Nature and Sunshine do their work. My wardrobe is a pair of shorts. I had my head clipped, and if I was to cork up, I have a hunch I'd look like Jack Johnson. Now it seems like a bunch of dark clouds have rolled away and I'm myself again. I tackle the Gilman Hot Springs every other day. On my first treatment I couldn't stand the heat—my 'ticker' did the back-firing scenes from 'Faust'—but now, oh, boy! I look at those mud pools and defy 'em. Well, anyway—I just wanted to say hello and so long."

Here's luck, Lloyd—and lots of it!

* * *

To Pert Kelton goes the parchmen for the funniest and niftiest crack-back delivered in no uncertain terms to a lad-about-town. (She calls his one of the "dinner-check dodgers.") The chap breezed up to her with the line:

"Howya, Kelton? Incidentally, why do they call you pert, does it stand for Patricia?"

"No," flipped Pert, "Pert stands for PERticular!"

News notes from an old frayed cuff—Perhaps you've wondered, too: What becomes of all the disappointed beauty contest winners? . . . And Universal wondered the same thing. Oddly enough, there's a sequence in "Romance in the Rain," which will feature Roger Pryor, concerning former beauty contest winners, and so Universal is seeking all the ex-paraders for brief roles in the idea.

Another Universal item—Doris Kenyon and Adolphe Menjou have been set to co-star in "The Human Side, with Eddie Buzzell doing the directing.

* * *

* * *

Snooping around town. Walter Morosco dropped the idea of continuing as a supervisor and ten-percenter (an agent to youse). He joined the Eddie Small-Arthur Landau office . . . Earl Carroll was expected to be in town today and will set out for that GREAT PROBLEM—house-hunting! . . . Sidney Harmon, the footlight producer, is trying to interest Paul Muni in "Violence," Dore Schary's ditty . . . Crane Wilbur has dropped his megaphone and script-writing pencils for the grease paint and a role in "The Criminal Within" at Columbia . . . "Slipper" John Dillinger has inspired a flock of radio and maggags—and also the idea for the latest Laurel and Hardy fun film. Walter Long plays the tough guy and Mae Busch is his moll . . . S. Jay Kaufman telegraphs to say:

"Why don't you interview

Felix Ferry, European revue producer, in your town?"

Okay, S. Jay—we mark it down.

New Star

Your Theater And Mine

By KARL KRUG

Mr. A. Brady McSwigan, the boss of that festive spot known as Kennywood, brings a lump to my throat and a mist to my eye as he pens:

". . . knowing your love for the smell of printers' ink and that foul-scented paste pot, together with all the other near and dear accessories of a newspaper shop, it was always a contention of mine that you would return to the old grind—as a true disciple of Hildy Johnson of 'Front Page' fame.

"It's been some 'ime since the theater box office man was aired, the mastery of Ziegfeld and the ace showmanship of Harry Davis and Gene Connelly; the funny Panama hats Marc (Green Pastures) Connelly used to wear back in 1914 . . . By the way, Rosey Rosewell has a new supply of stories, the one about the old fellow being asked to attend a party being particularly funny . . . so drop in some day and we'll review the situation.

MEMORIES

Mr. McSwigan is probably not aware of it, but he almost brought on an attack of melancholia as he recalled those historical and absorbing events of yesterday. For instance, wouldn't it be great, if—

Florenz Ziegfeld could again open his musical plays in the Nixon.

We could see the immaculate John Reynolds greet the paying trade in the Alvin.

We could her Blossom Seeley warble "Melancholy Baby". (Even in "Blood Money.")

Jules Bledsoe could again sing "Ole Man River" as he did the night "Show Boat" was first seen in the Nixon.

We could listen to Ruth Etting singing "Harvest Moon" as she did during the premiere of the last "Follies' in the same theater.

AND STILL THEY COME

We could watch the late Gus Forbes walk away with a Sharp stock performance in the Pitt.

We could see a real burlesque show.

We could hear the blackface "Slim" Timblin doing his book-of-numbers sermon, using the telephone directory. (It's good to know Slim's still at it).

THE FEUD IS ENDED

When Florenz Ziegfeld was gathered to his fathers in a Los Angeles hospital it brought to a close a bitter, personal enmity that had existed for years and, one that was known and talked about from one end of Broadway to the other. It was the Old Master's feud with Earl Carroll, and is recalled, because some enterprising writer attached to the Paramount publicity payroll calls it a draw in the "Murder of the Vanities" press book.

It wasn't a draw, and until Mr. Carroll produces something that will top "Show Boat" it can never be a draw. The former Pittsburgh progam boy often challenged the supremacy of the late Father of the Follies, and he does it with his exquisite handling of the musical numbers in the screen version of "Murder at the Vanities' coming to the Stanley Friday, but he still has that "Show Boat" obstacle to hurdle before the score is even.

The fued is ended, but Mr. Carroll still has a target to shoot at. Perhaps he will get the range some day. I hope he does.

On Stage

Phil Spitalny, who used to conduct a theater orchestra here, will return as the head of his own stage unit, that will begin an engagement Friday in the Penn, where the screen feature will be Sylvia Sidney in "Thirty-Day Princess."

GLIDER TO TRY ATLANTIC HOP

By CHARLES L. FLICK
Universal Service.

BERLIN, June 5.—The world's first trans-Atlantic flight in a motorless airplane is being prepared today in Germany.

Prof. Walter Georgi, of Darmstadt Institute of Technology, who has just returned from a meteorological expedition in the South Atlantic, said:

"Our observations revealed that huge clouds cross the South Atlantic continuously, showing there are steady coast to coast winds blowing at the higher altitudes, enabling gliders to fly from Africa to South America.

"The first flight will be with an all-metal one-seater which will be towed about 3,000 feet by an airplane and then released, after which an air current would aid the pilot in gliding over the ocean.

"We are planning to use the steamer Westphalen, now stationed in the middle of the South Atlantic, as a glider airport."

Musical Film in Fulton Has Disney Sequence

By KARL KRUG

As badly a put together talking picture as it has been my misfortune to come across in quite a spell is the latest tenant of the Fulton. It is "Hollywood Party," a musical revue that has but one reason for existence—that being the Walt Disney sequence, "Hot Chocolate Soldiers," done according to the Silly Symphony formula.

Despite the presence of many of the biggest names on the M-G-M payroll, "Hollywood Party" just doesn't come off. There are, to be sure, a few musical interludes that may strike your passing fancy, but an atrocious job of assembling and cutting has practically the entire photoplay so muddled that it would be hopeless to attempt to untangle it.

A few fairly funny lines have been allotted to Mr. Charles Butterworth, but Jimmy Durante and Lupe Valez, have, it seems to me just about served their prpose as a co-starring team. Mr. Jack Pearl the last of the German comedians, never even gets started, while Laurel and Hardy go through an egg-breaking sequence with Senoita Valez that does manage to draw a few chuckles.

MANY LOOSE ENDS

There are more loose ends in "Hollywood Party" than a mystery story writer has dangling around at the beginnmg of his last chapter, but if you'll take my word for it, that "Hot Chocolate Soldier" number, with a score by the Messrs. Herb Brown and Arthur Freed, is the berries, as the old saying goes. Filmed in color, it is too bad that this exquisite little feature couldn't have sufficed for the entire photoplay.

Introduced by Micky Mouse, acting on the authority of Mr. Disney, himself, this interlude arrives as a pleasant and welcome surprise in the general hodgepodge of the wild goings on. The chocolate soldiers march away from the candy shop to give battle to the opposition gingerbread warriors, and there are candy cannon and peppermint stick battering rams used in the fray. The chocolate soldiers are finally victorious in their seige of the gingerbread castle, but only after as stirring encounter as the Disney technique has yet introduced.

ANSWER TO MR. DISNEY

Mr. Disney has long been considering a Silly Symphony of regulation feature length, but has hesitated to make one because he is uncertain whether he can hold an audience's attention with his animated puppets for an hour or longer. "Hollywood Party' should make up Mr. Disney's mind for him. What a difference it would probably have made if his ways and means of producing a photoplay had been utilized throughout the new film in the Fulton.

Players and Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Tex" Sherman, director of public relationships (press agent for short) with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus, coming to Exposition Park, North Side, tomorrow only, admits he's pretty good as a rodeo propagandist, at which he says he's more at home. Yet, "Tex" appears to be pretty fair as a circus P. A., too, judging by this excerpt from his typewriter:

"The Hagenbeck-Wallace circus has more stars this year than all other circuses combined, and the great array of stars makes this huge show the greatest since the days of P. T. Barnum."

You'll admit that's not bad for a modest chap who claims he's not really at his best until he gets to throwing adjectives around in behalf of a rodeo. Incidentally, there are some rodeo artists in the H-W entourage, including Buck Owens, winner of the all-round cowboy honors at Madison Square Garden last year.

Whisper—"Tex" says more good cowboys have been born in the East than in the West. As we, ourselves, know, one of the most noted, Tom Mix, is a native of Mix Run, near Dubois.

The South Hills Community Players are getting ready for the wind-up of their season, with the presentation of Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan," which will be staged in Washington School, Mt. Lebanon, tomorrow and three other nights, ending Saturday. In the cast will be James W. Macfarlane, Mrs. Marjorie Klein, Sallie Williams, James Snowden, Howard Eulenstein, Edward Blaine, Mrs. Anna Dickson and others. "Lady Windermere's Fan" was a dramatic mile-post of the Victorian era, for it was the means of turning opinion on Wilde from that of ridicule for his estheticism to one of recognition of a brilliant dramatist that never waned until the episode that put him into a position to write "Ballade of the Reading Gaol."

Wilson Ferguson, Jr., and Clayton R. Page, both of Pittsburgh, will be in the cast of George M. Cohan's "The Tavern" when it is presented by the Penn State Players at State College as part of commencement week activities Friday evening, June 8. C. K. Lucas Brightman will play the role originated by Cohan. Thespians of Penn State will present their annual musical production for the fourth and last time Saturday night. It is called "My Stars." Directors in charge of the two plays are, respectively, Frank S. Neusbaum and J. Ewing Kennedy.

A photoplay to be "shot" in Atlantic City will use four girls from among 100 whose photographs are selected as those of girls suitable for screen tests. Pictures must be mailed before midnight June 7 to David M. Thomas Pictures Corporation, Steel Pier, Atlantic City. Age (between 18 and 25), weight, height, color of hair and eyes, are required to be submitted with photographs. Screen tests will be made between June 14 and June 20, and actual production of the picture will begin June 25. The picture will be a screen version of a novel by George Boyle, "Convention Girl," in which leading parts will be played by Rose Hobart, Weldon Heyburn, Sally O'Neil and Robert Rawlinson.

EMPLOYES FACE PAYLESS DAYS

Unless Burgess P. J. Henney, of McKees Rocks, signs the 1934 budget ordinance, and pay checks are signed by Borough Controller D. J. Buckley, 60 borough employes will continue payless until next Thursday, it was indicated today. The pay has been held up since the first of the year.

There is enough money in the bank to pay the salaries, Borough Secretary George Gast said, but Buckley's signature is lacking. This is withheld, he said, until the burgess signs the budget.

In Which the Customers Do the Work.

"AS I often read your column to help me develop eyestrain," writes B. F. G., "I notice that you speak frequently of that celebrated broadcaster and horse fancier, Mr. Ted Husing. I have a new story about that Adonis of the Adenoids, and you might care to add it to your collection.

"Last summer, a little lady of the films was reclining on the restful sands of Atlantic City in front of the Ritz Hotel. Along came a young gentleman who flirted with her in a most gentlemanly manner. He was courtesy personified. So gallant was he, in fact, that it was almost ten minutes before he had his arm around the little lady's shoulders.

"He told her he was Ted Husing. Never having seen Mr. Husing, the young actress had no reason to disbelieve her companion. As a matter of fact, the actual Mr. Husing was at that precise moment giving a short description in a million words or so of a horse race in Saratoga. But the little lady didn't know that.

"She fell hard and heavy for this pseudo Husing. She permitted him to take her to dinner that evening, and to whisper sweet nothings in her shell-like ears. And the promises this man made. Oh, Lordy, Lordy!

"He was going to put her on the air from Coast to Coast. He was going to see that she replaced Garbo in the hearts, minds and shoes of America. He was going to make her queen of the land.

"This went on for a day or two, as we mercifully draw the curtain over the more harrowing details. And at the end of the second day, the phoney Mr. Husing disappeared . . .

"The final scene in our little playlet took place a few weeks ago in the Tavern restaurant. The genuine Mr. Husing—the one and only—was enjoying his customary dish of stewed herring when a friend approached him.

" 'Ted,' said the gentleman, 'I have a young lady with me who is very angry at you. She says you romanced her on the sands of Atlantic City last summer and then left her without so much as a sweet goodby. I think you should come over and apologize.'

"Mr. Husing looked aghast and, as you know, he is one of the best aghast-lookers in the business. He hadn't ever been in Atlantic City the previous summer.

"Ted arose.

" 'Take me to her,' he said, quietly. 'I'd like to know what this is all about.'

"The two men walked to a table in the front of the restaurant. There sat the little film lady.

" 'Margie,' said her escort, 'this is the man you were talking about. This is Ted Husing.'

" 'That is not Ted Husing,' she cried, angrily. 'How dare you bring me over an imposter?' " . . .

"DEAR Mark:" dearmarks Sid Weiss. "If you actually believe you've heard the last of the Scotch jokes, you underestimate your seven readers. At any rate, Beth Challis tells this one—and it certainly should be accorded a place in the finale.

"It seems that Sandy, madly in love with his missus, arrived home unexpectedly one day and found her in the arms of another man.

"Drawing his revolver, he shouted:

" 'Stand behind your lover, false woman. I'm going to shoot you both!' " . . .

"IF you'd care for my favorite gag," writes Ed Lowry, "it has to do with the cab driver who was suffering with a jumping toothache. It finally got so bad that he had to visit a dentist to have it extracted.

" 'Doc,' he cried as he seated himself in the chair, 'pull this tooth pronto. It's driving me nuts.'

"The dentist looked at the offending molar, and then walked away to prepare his instruments. When he came back to the chair he found the patient fast asleep. He nudged the cabby.

" 'Say,' he asked, 'do you want gas"

" 'Yeah,' murmured the driver sleepily. 'And see if I need oil, too.' " . . .

"YOU might add my new girl friend," writes Hugh Wedlock, Jr., "to your collection of the world's dumbest damsels.

"This baby heard a great deal about short wave reception. So she went out and bought a midget radio!" . . .

"I NEED a little help," requests S. S.," and I'm sure you won't fail me. I just don't know what to do. It's about my girl friend, you see. Ever since she became a nudist, she won't go out with me.

"The other day I invited her to a party—and all she said was:

" 'I'm sorry, but I haven't got a thing NOT to wear!' " . . .

"DEAR Mark:" advises Billy Glason. "I read the other day about a remarkable man who played the piano, and yet he had no hands.

"That's wonderful, of course. And yet he has nothing on plenty of guys I hear on the radio every day. They sing—and yet they have no voices!" . .

"A CERTAIN Hollywood director," state Howard Snyder, "has a habit of taking ambitious extra girls for long automobile rides on which his car never fails to stall on some lonely road. He meets with little success, however, since the gals prefer to hoof it back rather than submit to his insults. Among the cuties, he is known as:

" 'The heel that makes walking comfortable.' " . . .

Farce Ends Y. Season

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The fifth and final production of the season by the Playhouse of the Y. M. & Y. W. H. A. was given last night. It was a farce titled "Mars Over Venus," by David Cornman, a program note classifying it as "a comedy of almost no manners."

"Mars Over Venus" is by David Cornman, a diligent member of this enterprising Little Theater group, and in addition to having staged the production, Mr. Cornman played a part in his own work, appropriately that of a playwright.

It is a farce about an actor who likes the ladies, and finds himself with two wives because one of them did not get the divorce she thought she was to obtain, and, having failed, decides not to get it.

The parts were played by Hannah H. Goulding, Beatrice Lasday Hirsch, Herbe Hoffman, Beullah Lavin, Gilbert Milton, Betty Kantor, Sylvia Shapiro, Sadye Perlman, Jesse C. Cimberg and Mr. Cornman.

The technical staff included Mr. Cornman, Arnold S. Berke, Laurence London, Howard Snyder, Ruth Adams, Lida London, Earl Sacks, Lester Pearl, Sayde Perlman.

The single set, a modern living room and bedroom combined, was well executed.

The record of production of the group for the season includes "Rope's End," "The Dybbuk," "The Taming of the Shrew" in modern dress and modern adaptation, "The Devil's Disciple" and "Mars Over Venus."

Echoes From the Cabarets Of This Vicinity

By THE ROUNDER

According to Eddie Peyton, Harriett Hilliard and Ozzie Nelson, both of whom will appear in his Steubenville Pike night club tonight, have recently knotted. Peyton declares he's paying Ozzie $1500 for tonight's engagement, as compared with $500 he handed over to Bernie last fall. Connie's "Hot Chocolates," the next big show slated for Peyton's on June 13, 14 and 15 is the same unit that played the Pitt recently.

Judging from their tip-top appearance, that hospital rest of Betty Pope and Kay Reynolds of the Show Boat didn't do either any harm. They both have put on weight since they were injured in an automobile accident and, are looking better than ever. Oliver and Amdur, local dancing team, will open on the boat shortly.

A capacity crowd turned out for the opening of Fred Sander's casino, Cliff Mine, Saturday. Only a 10 or 15 minute drive from Sewickley, his new spot is attracting a high type of night clubbers. Included in his floor show, were Billy and Betty, adagio team, a line of six blondes, and Frank De Forest, master of ceremonies. Trombette's Orchestra, which furnished the dance music, will continue to play at the rendezvous every night.

By the end of the week, Lew Mercur's Villa Royale will have its liquor license and Billy Starr, former supervisor of drink concoctions at the Marlborough-Blenheim and Shelburne Hotels, Atlantic City, will be mixing 'em there. Diane King, the young lady who warbles those love ditties at the Villa, is also known as Mrs. Paul Reider, wife of Pitt's ex-football star.

If the Decoration Day crowd was any indication, the Hi Hat Club Patio is well on the way to recapturing its former popularity. Manager Henry Foreman characterized the crowd as the largest ever seen at the Patio.

Those four girls who left the Tent Club for the Paramount Theater, New York City, a few months ago, made their first local appearance since their return at Bill McDonald's Walrose Night Club last night. With the four, Gay Sergen, Jeannie Bushey, Evaline Baker and Madelyn Strain, are Virginia O'Baker and Armeda Wardell, the hat check girl at the former Tent Club. The six have danced together at many of the local night spots and on the Stanley stage.

the Girl with a CAMAY COMPLEXION

It's not in your palm, but in your face that people read your fortune.

And the peach-bloom complexion that comes with Camay is something that ought to be yours.

So get yourself a Camay Complexion. Before your own eyes, as you look in your mirror, you'll see a prettier woman. For your skin will have a smoother, clearer texture.

Then the Soap of Beautiful Women will be your soap. For a few weeks of Camay makes any girl glad that she has a skin to be proud of.

A CAMAY COMPLEXION AND ANOTHER BEAUTY CONTEST WON!

Beauty Contests are silly things—when you think of a lot of "bathing beauties" and publicity seekers parading and posing before the beauty judges' stand.

Yet you and every other woman in the world are in a life-long Beauty Contest. Each day puts your beauty to the test. Every friend you have, every new man you meet, is a judge of your charm. And if you have a Camay Complexion, so much the better for you. For compliments and admiration are the rewards for the girl who is pretty.

A young instructor of dramatics says of Camay, "Its lather fluffs up so richly and rinses so readily that I can always feel sure my skin is thoroughly cleansed."

Try Camay and convince yourself! For if you don't, you'll be missing the perfect soap—the soap that can be a boon to your beauty!

"He compared my skin to the petals of a rose—and then he told me how much he cared for me."

CAMAY BUBBLES ARE BEAUTY BUBBLES

Camay's lather is a beauty lotion in its finest form. Each drop of water mingles with the pure white soap in a shower of fragrant, jewel-like Beauty Bubbles—freshly made each time you cleanse your skin.

And this is true of Camay—and only Camay. For Camay is made by its own secret blending process—of the most delicate oils. Because of its careful blending and pure ingredients, Camay is the perfect beauty soap!

Weight Reduced From 180 to 137

"Wonderful," She Says

Here's to-day's story of a woman who knew she carried too much fat and decided the right way to get rid of it—just a few words that wise fat folks should heed—worth reading.

"I use Kruschen Salts to reduce. It's wonderful. Take it daily and eat what I want and still lose. I did weigh 180, now 137. Want to get down to 125." Mrs. Leonard Bass, Ft. Atkinson, Wis., Feb. 6, 1934.

When you take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water—you not only lose in weight but you put healthy activity into your whole body—you feel younger and look it—get it at Sun Drug Co., or any drugstore in the world.

MUSICAL SHOWS :-: 'Red Poppy' Premiere :-: ON AIR TONIGHT

Favorites Of Past Billed

Brief reprieve from the whirl of nightly jazz and "anything-for-a-novelty" programs which fill the air lanes currently will be provided tonight in two distinctly refreshing features.

The first is Victor Herbert's perennially-charming "Sweethearts;" the second, "Cinderella," the childhood story, in modern dress with music—both delightful bits cherished from the past.

Engaged specially for the production, James Melton and Lucy Monroe have been cast in the romantic leads of the Herbert operetta, to be offered over WCAE at 10 p. m. They will be supported by Nat Shilkret's orchestra and the "Beauty Box" players.

Dialogue of the Noel Coward variety and an original musical score have been prepared for the "Cinderella" performance, slated for KDKA at 9 p. m. Alice Mack will portray the tiny ragged maiden, with Charles Sears as her Prince Charming.

* * *

RUSS BALLET

Another treat for the dialers will be the first of two weekly broadcasts constituting the American premiere of the modern Russian ballet, "The Red Poppy." The work, to be played by the NBC Symphony orchestra under the direction of Frank Black, has been given a full hour on tonight's and next Tuesday's schedules beginning at 10 p. m., with Alexander Troyanovsky, Russian ambassador to Washington, billed to speak on the final program.

* * *

WJAS becomes Columbia focal point tonight for network transmission of Ozzy Nelson's music—and Harriet Hillard's songs—from Eddie Peyton's club at 12. Nelson's engagement here, a one-night stand, is part of a 10-state tour being made currently by the maestro.

* * *

TWO SHOWS MOVE

Two listing changes effective today put the Ray Perkins WCAE show on the air at 9:30, with the Yacht Club Boys in the guest spotlight, and Dick Himber's auto rhythms in WJAS's competitive spot.

Announcement of the appointment of Dudley Mecum, former pianist for Don Bestor, as representative of the KDKA Artists Service Bureau, has been made by station officials. Simultaneously, by the way, comes the word that the bureau is on the look-out for new talent.

Globe Trotter

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

I've just learned that I've been doing an injustice to a certain group of staunch citizens. I have been prattling about the hot weather and in the prattling I expressed the desire for the cool breezes and instead today comes a burning post card from a swimming pool operator. The message starts off by referring to me as a certain member of the Simian family and says they have been waiting for this kind of weather since last year, and that I am not going to get a free ticket for swimming. It ends up with:

"Down with Louie, the sunshine killer; come on in, the water's fine."

And to make me feel worse, they put it on a post card.

I got a letter from Klondike today. Klondike is the famous Alaskan malamute who was on the broadcast with his mistress, Jean Dempster, not so long ago. Klondike writes that June 3 was his fourth birthday and during the hot spell he wishes he was with his brothers and sisters who are pulling sledges for Admiral Byrd.

At last I have an answer to that question about moulting canaries.

The writer does not think there is any way to stop them from moulting altogether, but keeping the bird in a cool place away from draught helps keep the feathers in.

When it gets warm, the bird naturally has to shed some of its clothing.

Weak, Rundown, Skinny Folks Add 5 Pounds in Week . . . OR NO COST!

Here's a new, easy, natural way to add 5 lbs. in one week or it doesn't cost you a penny. Thousands of thin, rundown folks have tried it and are amazed at the quick results it gets in bringing back health and weight.

Kelp-a-Malt, the new natural mineral concentrate from the sea, absolutely free from drugs, is the richest natural source of vitality essential body minerals known.

Doctors know now essential these minerals are and how often they are woefully lacking even in the most carefully devised fresh vegetable diets. Unless your system gets the proper amount of these minerals, many of them needed in only the tiniest quantities, your food fails to nourish you—fails to build rich red blood, firm flesh and sturdy muscles. This lack of mineralization results in the failure to digest starches and fats.

Kelp-a-Malt, made from a luxuriant sea plant from the Pacific Ocean, combined with diastatic malt extract, comes in delicious, pleasant tasting tablets. 6 Kelp-a-Malt Tablets contain more iron and copper than a full pound of spinach or 7½ lbs. of fresh tomatoes, or 3 lbs. of asparagus; more phosphorus than 1½ lbs. of carrots; more calcium than 6 eggs or a pound of cabbage, more iodine than 486 lbs. of spinach or 1660 lbs. of beef; besides many other vitally needed minerals.

Kelp-a-Malt's FOOD IODINE is one of the most important minerals needed by the body and the most difficult to obtain. The blood, liver and vital glands of the body require definite amounts of iodine and without it the whole system is upset. Assimilation (the conversion of food materials into firm flesh and energy) is retarded and you fail to gain normal, healthy weight.

Try Kelp-a-Malt for a single week. Watch your appetite improve, firm flesh appear instead of scrawny hollows. Feel the tireless vigor and vitality it brings you. It not only improves your looks, but your health as well. It corrects sour, acid stomach, Gas, indigestion and all the usual distress commonly experienced by the undernourished and the underweight disappear. Contains no yeast—doesn't cause bloating.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

Prove the worth of this amazing weight builder today. Two weeks are required to effect a change in the mineralization of the body. At the end of that time, if you have not gained at least 8 pounds, do not look better, feel better and have more endurance than ever before, return the unused tablets and every penny of your money will be cheerfully refunded. Kelp-a-Malt comes in packages of 100 Jumbo-size tablets, which are 4 to 5 times larger than ordinary size tablets, and cost only a few cents a day to use. Be sure to remember the name—Kelp-a-Malt Tablets—original and genuine kelp and malt tablets. There is nothing else like them so don't accept imitations or substitutes. Get Kelp-a-Malt today.

Stage Stars Exploited In Radio

By AIRCASTER

Helen Menken, who stepped cautiously from the stage into the radio scene as a guest dramatic lead in WJAS's "Big Show," has just been officially adopted into the microphone family and possesses her first protracted air contract, which calls for her weekly dramatic offerings over an indefinite period.

This means that the exploitation forces will begin digging up intimate gossip and personality stories about the titian star who has spent almost her entire career back of the footlights—starting in 1906 when she was four years old, and climaxing her success in the theater this season in "Mary of Scotland." As always happens, when a stage celebrity goes radio, Miss Menken will be heard of and written about more within the next few months than during all the time she gave luster to the theatrical world.

There is one pathetic angle, however, that the exploiters probably will overlook, because it has been, for many years, something of a secret. Miss Menken told of it last week in speaking of the one great sorrow of her life—a sad circumstance which, paradoxically, has been largely responsible for her brilliant acting and eloquent, expressive gestures. She said:

"My parents never have seen me act and never will, although they are here in New York and I spend most of my leisure time with them. Neither will they attend my broadcasts. I cannot coax them to the studio any more than I could induce them, during the 28 years of my stage life, to the theatre. That is my sorrow."

The reason is that the parents of the actress are incurably deaf—and mute.

'SPIKE' HAS OWN TALE OF FIGHT

International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 5.—"Don't that dressing robe knock your eye out? And these here silk pajamas—boy!"

But the flamboyant accroutrements were small compensation to Edward (Spike) O'Donnell, erstwhile beer baron as he surveyed his hospital room, tapped the cast on his hip.

In fantastic, illuminating, and even scorching language, the dapper Spike gave his version of the melee, a version that differed somewhat from that of spectators, but gave the O'Donnell clan a clean sweep over their adversaries. The effusive Spike said:

"I was taking the family home from Sunday dinner in the Loop, and was driving along minding my own business when a car of hoodlums sideswiped me.

"I saw they thought they was tough and I got out of the car and made for them, but I slipped on the curb and busted the hip."

And then Spike, with paternal pride, related how his son, Pat, 17, waded in and chastised "three or four or five of the hoodlums" and put them to rout. Spike sighed:

"It looks like six weeks in the mending home for me, and that's tough, because I was getting ready to go to London and teach those bobbies how to handle crooks."

BUILDING WORK UP AGAIN

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, June 5. — For the third consecutive month, April building operations in Pennsylvania increased over the corresponding month a year ago, the Department of Labor and Industry reported today. The April total also showed an increase over March, 1934.

Reports from 72 municipalities of 10,000 population or more showed issuance of 2,415 permits for construction work to cost $1,672,999, as compared with 1,987 permits issued in April, 1933, for work costing $1,593,373.

Lower Merion led all communities in increased building activity for the month. Cost of work there increased $103,752 or 584.1 per cent this April, as compared with April, 1933.

'SQUIRE' DOUG GETS MONOCLE

International News Service.

LONDON, June 5.—Douglas Fairbanks, the effervescently acrobatic American movie star, has acquired a monocle, it was learned today. For strictly utilitarian purposes, however, and not for what the British call swank.

Excessive exposure to studio lights, Fairbanks explained, has affected his eye to the extent that he needs an eyeglass for reading. Whether only one eye was affected by the "Kleigs" or whether Fairbanks reads with only one eye, was not explained.

Fairbanks was described by friends as living like an English squire in a country estate at North Mimms, near Elstree, where his latest picture, "The Private Life of Don Juan," is being filmed.

WARDS OF OLD JUVENILE COURT FORCED TO SELL LIQUOR

CHAPTER III.

"Oh, I want you to want to take care of me. Anything to please a gentleman!" Susan answered airily. But under her lightness ran the sudden thought that Wallace really would take care of a woman if he loved her. His wife would be able to lay all her burdens on his broad shoulders, knowing that he would bear them. There would never be any shameful scenes for her such as the scene in Mr. Dillon's dreadful little green-carpeted cage that afternoon. Wallace's wife's charge account would be paid up on the tenth of every month. She would have the dignity and the peace that a full pocketbook brings with it.

Synopsis

Susan Broderick and her aunt, Lutie, who had seen more prosperous times, order a pillow at Hart's department store, where the family had a charge account for years. They are summoned to the office of the manager, Mr. Dillon, who informs them the account has been discontinued as it had not been paid for five months. Susie and Lutie leave in embarrassment. Lutie goes home by trolley, but Susan prefers to walk. En route, the latter meets her fiance, Wallace Steffen, rising young banker. Susan and Wallace are distinctly different types; he is the sheltered, meticulous type while she is the kind who loves to walk in the rain and go without gloves in the winter. Tucking his car robe around Susan, Wallace says he will take care of her whether she wants him to or not.

Now Go On

"Any gentleman, or just me, Susan?" he asked her as the car rolled out into the roar and light and movement of Fifth street and took its place in a long line of automobiles that trailed out behind a trolley car like the tail of a comet.

"Just you, Wallace. Nobody but you."

For a year and a half she had done everything she could to please and attract him. She had made a business of it, almost; learning to play bridge with him, doing her best to be interested in the things he told her about the bank. Things about second mortgages and real estate values and properties in escrow. Grooming herself with great care every Tuesday and Friday and Sunday nights for his eyes, walking around the Country Club golf course with him on occasional Saturday afternoons to watch him play, going to the moving pictures to see "westerns" with him when the only kind of picture she really liked was a love story done in luxurious settings.

'Destiny to Marry'

But that, according to her Aunt Edna Broderick, was a girl's great job in life. To attract the man she wanted and lure him into marriage. Only Aunt Edna never used so ordinary a word as "job." She said "destiny," instead . . . "A woman's highest destiny, Susan, is to marry the man of her choice." Susan could almost hear her saying it now above the singing sound of Wallace's automobile tires on the snowy pavement.

"Of course, I do." She smiled at him sidewise, a smile that said that she liked him a great deal. "More than just a little bit."

They had left the tall downtown buildings behind them and were in a region of small houses and neighborhood stores. At a corner where a little stone church stood, its lighted windows cutting golden rectangles into the darkness, he stopped suddenly and turned off the engine of the car.

He turned in his seat to look at her. "Just how much, Susan?" he asked, and before she had time to answer, he took her in his arms and fastened his mouth on hers. He smelled pleasantly of cleanliness and tobacco and shaving lotion, and the sleeves of his Oxford gray overcoat were as warm as the arms of a big overstuffed chair as he held her. She leaned back in them with a great feeling of security and comfort. How solid he was, how reliable, how safe!

Declares Love

"Susan, I'm crazy about you." His voice, murmuring into her ear, had a tense trembling quality that made it sound utterly unlike Wallace's ordinary voice, which was deep and quiet. "I'm going to marry you, dearest"—then suddenly he straightened away from her as a sudden thought struck him.

"You want me to, don't you? You really do care for me a little, don't you, Susan? You're sure of yourself?"

"Why, Wallace, you know that I never even see any man but you," she said. "I've never cared the least bit for anyone else."

She might have added that he was the only man she had ever known well, with the exception of the men in her own family. Long ago there had been boys who had danced with her at class parties and asked if they might come to see her, but her father and the rest of the family had put their foot down and said, no, she was far too young to have young men callers. Particularly the kind of young men who came to the North Side High School from the little middle-class homes that surrounded it for blocks.

"You'll meet young fellows of your own class later on," her father had told her.

"Men who are in your own walk of life," Aunt Edna had added. "The sons of our friends. The right kind of young men."

And when she was 19 Susan had fulfilled their prophecy by meeting Wallace Steffen who was certainly the "right kind" if ever there was a right kind. For several Sunday mornings she noticed that he looked at her very often from the choir loft of Saint Paul's church. She had glanced back at him whenever his eyes were turned away, and decided that she liked his appearance very much. After six or seven Sundays he had been

GUNMAN STEALS PANTS, AUTO

A well-dressed man who took an automobile salesman's pants and the automobile which he was demonstrating to him last night, was being sought by Baldwin Township police today.

The "prospect" called at the Smith Chevrolet Company, 3109 West Liberty avenue, Dormont, and asked the salesman, Wallace Ritchey, for a demonstration. He asked Ritchey to drive out Glass Run road, Baldwin Township, to give his wife a ride in the car.

In a lonely section of the road, the "prospect" pulled a revolver which he concealed in a newspaper and ordered Ritchey to stop and get out. Ritchey complied and walked into the woods where the gunman robbed him of small change and told him to take off his pants. The man took the pants and fled in the car. Ritchey walked to a nearby house.

The stolen car was recovered in Hays a short time later. The revolver and an extra set of license plates were found inside, police said.

SURVEY ASKED ON TROLLEYS

Councilman William A. Magee has proposed that Council ask the Traction Conference Board to prepare a report on the traction problem to include "experimentation" with fares and investigation of the Duquesne Light Company power contract.

A resolution to that effect has been referred to the Committee on Service and Surveys in Council at Magee's request.

Other subjects suggested for the report include possible conversion of some trolley lines to bus operation, what constitutes a fair rate of return on the property of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in view of reduced popularity of trolley service, and the relationship between the railways company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company.

Heat Wave Also Has Good Points, Drys Up Red Ink

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Some folks think the heat wave was started by Gen. Johnson and Clarence Darrow.

Mr. Darrow will go down in history as the egg who was laid by the Blue Eagle.

The general denies this. He claims that Darrow hatched himself.

Anyway, it's hotter than a lion's breath all over the land. Last year's paint is blistering on the barns.

Crops are withering and corn is popping on the stalk. Ponds are evaporating.

YOUNG MOTHER PAROLED IN RUM TRIAL

Woman Blamed Relief Organizations for Plight in Court

A 24-year-old mother who blamed her plight on "slow and inefficient" welfare organizations was found guilty of violating the liquor laws in Criminal Court today and was paroled for one year by Judge W. H. McNaugher.

She is Mrs. Isabel Collett, striking-appearing brunette, of 1435 Conroy street, McKees Rocks. Her stepfather, Jesse Hamill, tried on a like charge, was acquitted, but ordered to pay th costs.

Th young woman gave information to Judge McNaugher which led him to order the arrest of two men alleged to have operated a still on the second floor of Mrs. Collett's home.

An hour later county detectives brought in Joe Toteno on a liquoro charg. Another man was being sought.

A constable and detectives had found the still, they testified, when they entered the house with a searchwarrant on a hunt for alleged stolen goods, February 20.

The young mother testified she suspected "something was going on upstairs" but she got her first floor rent free and needed it for the sake of her 2-year-old child.

She grew bitter at what she termed "inefficient" relief organizations, saying failure to obtain help forced her to "do something like that."

Judge McNaugher denouncing men who would "use a woman for a blind in illegal liquor operations," declared he was familiar with welfare work and felt sure the young woman could obtain help, if deserving.

Postoffice Ladder Breaks, Man Hurt

When a ladder on which he was hanging an awning on the Third avenue side of the postmaster's office in the Federal Building broke, John D. Emchek, 41, of 170 Marsden street, janitor, fell 15 feet to the sidewalk. He was taken to Marine Hospital suffering from a possible skull fracture.

D. CUPID VICTOR OVER DIPLOMA

She is Mildred M. Cole, 46 Meade avenue, Bellevue. Mildred is to marry John D. Ranshaw, chemist, of 212 North Third street, Neville Island, this evening in the home of the Rev. Herbert B. Hudnut, pastor of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church. Rev. Hudnut will officiate.

Attending the wedding will be relatives and several of Mildred's high school friends.

Mildred is certain that she's a good cook and knows about sewing. She will graduate from Bellevue High School, June 14.

CITY TO URGE RAMP AID

The Allegheny County Authority will be asked by City Council to include in its requests for federal aid the construction of the postoffice ramp, street widening and under-pass at Seventh avenue and Bigelow boulevard.

This is in accord with the effort of Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston to obtain a grant of $600,000 from the federal government to add to money which the city might spend in an effort to straighten out the traffic tangle forseen in the vicinity of the new postoffice.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

A sad wire this morning from Vice President O'Hara tells me of the death of a good friend, Father O'Donnell, of the great Notre Dame University. What a fine, plain, human man. What Rockne did with 'em when they got those football suits on, this man did with 'em while they was off the field. And turned out many "all Americans" in the game of life.

Will Rogers

Some good news in the papers, however. It rained in the Middle West. Farmers are learning that the relief they get from the sky beats what they get from Washington.

Yours,

WILL.

HAY OPPOSES MAYVIEW MOVE

Welfare Director Southard Hay today attacked Councilman P. J. McArdle's moves affecting the City Home and Hospital at Mayview.

One of McArdle's plans would compel new employes of the institution to have been residents of Pittsburgh for at least six months, and the other would put back in the store business at Mayview Mrs. Margaret Harvey, who recently was ordered out of the concession there.

Hay said today:

"I am very much opposed to both of those plans. The concession at Mayview has been a source of aggravation for years. It was a loafing place, and Supt. J. S. Hammers had no authority over it.

"As to requiring employes at Mayview to be residents of the city, it just won't work. The idea is to get the best qualified people you can for the positions."

RIORDAN AGAIN BARES ABUSE OF CHILDREN

27 Persons Convicted Of Morals Offenses Against Them

Further disclosures of the shocking conditions surrounding foster home wards before establishment of the present Juvenile Court were made today to the County Commissioners by Chief Investigator Leo Riordan.

Revelations included:

1—A record of 27 court convictions for immoral abuse of wards.

2—Evidence that some wards were compelled by their foster parents to sell intoxicating liquor.

3—Charges that some caretakers habitually used profane language and cursed the children.

4—Economic conditions in 218 homes showed that the foster children were boarded as a means of increasing the family income.

5—Children were let out to tubercular families.

FINAL REPORT

Riordan's report today was the final one on the situation that existed under the County Court's administration of the juvenile ward maintenance system prior to the establishment of the present Juvenile Court, of which Gustav L. Schramm is judge.

The report was a summary of preliminary findings that shocked the county early in 1933 and that proved the most important factor in the creation of the present Juvenile Court.

The report covered the investigation of 631 juvenile ward homes. In the immoral abuse of wards, the investigation developed its most sweeping indictment of the old system. It showed that 41 arrests were made in these cases, that 28 court trials resulted and that 27 convictions were obtained.

MANY FOUND ILL

Three hundred and twenty-seven wards were found to be in various degrees of poor health. Of these, the investigators reported 234 required immediate and special medical attention. In 64 homes the caretakers or members of the family were discovered to be not in good health.

The investigation determined that in 218 homes economic conditions indicated that wards were taken to increase the family income and money received for the board of the children was "stretched" to fit the caretakers' families. Health records show children in these homes undernourished.

In 55 homes the wards definitely were not furnished sufficient or nourishing food.

CLOTHING INADEQUATE

In 77 homes the supply of clothing was found to be inadequate. In others children were oversupplied to the extent that some of them sold clothes to others. Caretakers complained of favoritism and treatment in general in applying for clothes.

Squalor and hardship was the lot of many of the wards. Living quarters in 144 homes were characterized as unsatisfactory.

Two hundred and sixty-eight children were found with unsatisfactory school records. Some were reported to have been kept from studying by work imposed on them by caretakers.

VOTE-BY-MAIL' HELD ELECTION GUARD

System Would Bring Honest Ballot, Creator Says

[Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles on voting by mail.]

Today, in the average election, it is estimated that less than 30 per cent of the people vote. Seventy per cent may "gripe" at conditions between elections, but doesn't record its convictions in the one way likely to have any effect—the ballot, keystone of representative government.

How to assure clean government, honest elections? Take the machinery out of the hands of the political machine, says Alonzo P. Ingram, creator of the vote-by-mail plan.

Entrusted to the government mails, with stiff penalties for misuse of the vote, politicians may think twice before meddling with popular verdicts, he believes. Once out of the hands of the mailman, the ballot becomes the guarded property of election officials, stored in locked vaults until time for counting comes. And counting must be done in the open, under the system proposed, which is now before President Roosevelt for his approval.

One of the virtues of Ingram's plan is that it eliminates standing in line for hours to vote in a crowded, unsanitary polling place. Women rebel at existing conditions even more than men. But the latter, busy at their offices, have no time to wait for hours, either. The result is that 70 per cent fail to vote at all.

Another advantage is the time allowed for study of the candidates. It is admitted that today few persons know more than a few of the names on the average ballot. Ingram's plan permits time for study in the home, for family conferences, and while it might leave the family open to influence, this disadvantage can be no greater than under present methods, the creator of the idea explains.

If the vote-by-mail system should be adopted by the various states, men and women—and their grown children—will cast their ballots right in their homes. They may even face a penalty if they fail to vote.

Jail Employes Get Vacation With Pay

A request for vacations of two weeks with pay for 36 keepers and five matrons in the Allegheny County Jail was approved today by the County Salary Board. This is the first time these employes have had vacations with pay.

The action necessitates the appointment of four temporary keepers for 18 weeks and one temporary matron for 10 weeks.

Sentence Youth for Passing Bogus Money

Earl Gibson, 23, of 1632 Fifth avenue, was sentenced by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar to serve four months in jail when he pleaded guilty of passing five counterfeit $10, Federal Reserve Bank notes. He was arrested May 4 after attempting to pass a spurious note in the store on Logan street.

CLOSED BANK PAYS DIVIDEND

A dividend of 23 per cent was paid to depositors of the closed Pittsburgh-American Bank and Trust Company today. This is the third dividend, making a total of 43 per cent paid to date.

In a report accompanying the payment, William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking, announced that his department has been able to liquidate 51 per cent of loans; 86 per cent of securities and 23 per cent of mortgages at a cost of less than three-fifths of a cent for each dollar on deposit, or less than one-quarter of 1 cent per deposit dollar per year.

A total of 2,562,038 payments to depositors of the state have been made, according to Dr. Gordon's report. The total amount distributed or in the process of distribution, according to the report, is $66,264,047.

M'NAIR'S VETO OVERRIDDEN

City Council by a unanimous vote has overridden Mayor McNair's veto of the ordinance cancelling existing contracts for welfare coal. The Mayor in his veto message had criticized NRA price fixing, and declared that the Federal government should pay contractors who were caught by rising prices. It was pointed out in Council that the contracts are no longer operative, relief how being furnished by state and Federal agencies.

McNair Manor Removal Balked by Mayor

The status of McNair Manor, "brain-child" of the Mayor as a solution of Pittsburgh's housing problem, was something like that of an orphan today, although a new lease of life in its temporary home on city property appeared likely.

Building Supt. George E. Evans yesterday ordered the Biltwell Construction Company, legal owners of the manor, to remove it from city property, the temporary 90-day permit having expired.

Mayor McNair, with fond "paternal" feeling, was not quite so harsh.

He said:

"Oh, I have extended the permit for another 90 days."

Evans, however, had not been consulted. He confessed:

"Of course, if the Mayor orders me to do it, I'll have to extend the permit, I suppose. I'll talk to His Honor about it."

RWD EMPLOYES WORKERS OFF RELIEF ROLLS

Executive Defends Act, Says Welfare Labor Exhausted

Disregarding state relief work regulations which reserve RWD jobs for persons on welfare rolls, RWD officials today were assigning work to persons not registered on relief lists.

According to Philip H. Lantz, assistant RWD administrator here, labor available through the welfare offices in some districts has been exhausted and it is now necessary to turn to other sources in order to fill jobs.

He cited the Ohio River boulevard project and the improvements on the Catfish Run and Natrona Heights roads as instances where RWD authorities had to choose between leaving the work uncompleted and stretching the rules that govern the hiring of men.

Lantz said he decided on the latter after discarding a suggestion of county officials that RWD employes be transported to job sites where local relief labor is depleted. The proposal, he declared, is impractical, since funds are not on hand to pay for transportation.

With this month's appropriation from the State Emergency Relief Board considerably decreased, the local RWD office does not expect to add to the list of projects in operation unless Congress before adjournment approves the measure involving the expenditure of $1,322,000,000 on a federal work program.

Commencement Exercises for 734 at McKeesport

TUBE CITY HIGH GRADUATES 734

A record class of 734 students was graduated from McKeesport High School at exercises held this morning. Supt. of Schools J. B. Richey awarded diplomas.

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday evening in the World War Memorial Field adjoining the high school. Dr. Bernard C. Clausen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Pittsburgh, delivered the address. The high school choir sang and the school band played.

Gene Austin Sues Maestro for $100,000

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—(AP.)—Ted Fio-Rito, orchestra leader, was sued for $100,000 yesterday by Gene Austin, also an orchestra leader and singer of popular songs, who charged Fio-Rito with inducing Johnny Candido, his "highly trained accompanist," to leave him.

FUND EARMARK PLEA TO PWA

Public Works Administration officials in Washington today had before them a request that 32 million dollars in public works funds be earmarked for projects planned in Allegheny County.

Gov. Pinchot and County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern asked the officials yesterday to earmark the funds allotted to the county until pending litigation is settled.

Before the funds are obtained, the State Supreme Court is expected to rule as to whether counties can issue bonds beyond the amount of their indebtedness.

Secretary Ickes was not in Washington, but Gov. Pinchot and McGovern were told the request would be brought to his attention upon his return.

3 COMMUNITIES PROTEST CITY INCINERATOR

From Mt. Washington, Beechview and Duquesne Heights today came to City Council a demand to reject the proposed Sawmill Run boulevard site for a city garbage disposal plant. The demand was backed by a petition bearing 7,800 names.

Residents of those communities, whose homes dot the hillside flanking the valley known as "Seldom Seen," the site tentatively selected for the disposal plant, met last night in the South Hills High School. They adopted a resolution informing Council that odors, smoke and dirt from the plant would destroy the section as a residential community and cause "irreparable damage to their homes." They asked for a public hearing.

FIVE SCHOOLS NEARBY

Elmer E. Harter, president of the Beechview Civic League, presided and said:

"If the city is successful in placing a garbage disposal plant in the section now known as 'Seldom Seen,' it will soon have a new name—'Always Smelled.'"

Five schools in the region adjacent to the valley would be exposed to the fumes, according to Mrs. E. A. Schroeder, Beechview Civic Leader.

A study of incinerator systems in Cleveland, Baltimore, New York and Cincinnati revealed that all give off odors at times, according to C. V. Starrett, of the Buhl Foundation, which built and maintains Chatham Village, on Mt. Washington. This opinion is contrary to that of Pittsburgh engineers, he said.

BOARD FILES OBJECTION

Other speakers included Dr. John M. Frederick, J. D. Conway, president of the Mt. Washington Board of Trade, and the Rev. Henry E. Nicklen, pastor of the Beechview Presbyterian Church.

Meanwhile Council continues to receive numerous other protests.

The Board of Public Education has asked Council to put the plant in some industrial district where there would be no menace to the health of school children.

Three schools, according to a letter from the Board, are near enough to the proposed site to be threatened by odor and smoke if the plant were put there.

They are the Prospect Junior High School, and the Whittier and Snodgrass elementary schools.

ENGINEER REVERSES SELF

Norman S. Sprague, engineer, whom the city paid $1,000 for a report on incinerator locations and who originally recommended the West End site, appeared in Council to declare that other sites are preferable, particularly one on the North Side near the Western Penitentiary.

J. F. McClurg, representing the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, offered seven industrial sites. They were: Edison street, North Side; Preble avenue and Branchport street, North Side; Liverpool street and Leeds way, North Side; Twenty-seventh street and the Allegheny River; Brady street and Second avenue; South Nineteenth and Merriman streets and South Twenty-fourth and Sidney streets.

Salvation Army Drive Nears End

Officers of the Salvation Army today asked the public to respond to the drive for $108,500 for carrying on work in the Pittsburgh district which closes the end of this week. Leaders asked the public to aid in the drive, and if not contacted by workers to send donations to the Army Headquarters, 425 Boulevard of the Allies. Figures announced today showed that last year the Army aided 203,449 persons, and furnished 371,410 meals to needy men, women and children.

SPEAK UP, SISTERS :-: Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance :-: By MARION BRUNOT

Girl Can't Make Up Mind Which Man to Love

"When far from the lips that you love, Make love to the lips that are near..."

It's been that way with Soft Hearted Peg . . . Her one-time fellow lost his job, and left for other climes, enlisting in the C. C. C. Like plenty of other girls she promised she would be faithful, and although he gave her all the leniency in the world. Telling her to go out with whom-so-ever she desired. Yet he scarcely expected to lose her.

He had confidence. Masculine conceit, if you will, and now that she is playing around with an OLD FLAME, she writes to me, saying she is caught in a RIP-TIDE.

Miss Brunot

This old beau wants her to BREAK entirely with the one who is away working, but Soft-Hearted Peg does not know whether she should do so.

She says she is not still in her 'teens, and should know what she is doing. But even so, has turned this problem over and over, and each side comes up evenly.

And all I can say to her is, she had better linger a little along an indefinite path. For she isn't sure. That is her trouble. A girl isn't really in love when this affection only affects her when she's with the man. If he can go away, and she becomes engrossed in a one-time flame, and begins wondering whether it is he, instead of the other whom she cares for, well, I can't say anything else but that I think she is in love with LOVE, and no man.

And that brings in no end of trouble. Cupid has a way of doing damage as well as good. He often hurdles us right over into the field of imaginary heart affliction. And it all ends badly.

ED IN DOUBT

Dear Miss Brunot:

I have often wondered what it was I was missing in the papers, but I know it was a department just like yours. I like the way you answer letters. Not only the way you give true, sensible advice, but also because you give your advice straight. You aren't afraid to say what you think.

I have ben going with a girl for the last six months. I told her in the beginning not to go with me in a big way, because I could not care for her. I told her we could be just good friends and let it go at that. But she goes and falls in love with me.

Last month she moved to another town, and the first time I went to see her, I met her cousin who lives in the same town. She was very jolly and full of life, which was just the opposite from my girl. I studied her, and found out she was just my type. And exactly the girl I had been looking for. The way she acts, I believe she likes me, too.

BREAKS WITH GIRL

But I navr get a chance with her, as my girl is always around. The other night I went over to my girl's house, determined to make a date with the cousin But wasn't able to make the grade. My girl and I took her home and when I saw I wasn't going to get to talk to her at all, I was disgusted. Even mad And grabbed her hand, and she said she probably wouldn't see me again.

I then took my girl to her home again, and broke up with her then and there. She has taken it hard, and wonders why. As I never told her I cared for her cousin. I don't know whether I did right. But I was so darn mad, I just thought I'd let the both know what I could do.

I am not well enough acquainted to pursue the cousin. And yet I care for her. Please tell me what to do. ED.

"Off with the old, and on with the new," Ed. That's what has happened...Of course you were rather honorable when you told your girl that there would be nothing serious between you..Yet the trouble was, that you KEPT GOING to her home..Where such occurs, one of the two young people are liable to get hard hit.. You'll have to curb your temper and not be rude..That is no way whatsoever to gain the cousin..You were right however to say you were going to QUIT seeing the girl for whom you care nothing.

In time, you may chance to meet the cousin somewhere, and then the way will be clear for you to make a DATE with her..Do not be too hasty. The chances are, she wouldn't want to step in, and take her near-relative's boy friend.

TROUBLE IN FAMILY

Dear Miss Brunot:

I am an orphan. Having no mother..I have been trying to be a mother to my sisters and brothers since I was thirteen. I have supported my sister, and received a dirty deal in gratitude. And now we haven't spoken for over a year. Also I have kept and supported my brother and his wife. Lately he has gotten a job, and taken his wife away, and now neither one of them speaks to me.

I don't know what in the world could be the matter. I am good-natured, and people take advantage of me every time. I would like to continue my friendship with my brother, and his wife. Should I go to him, and ask him why he acts the way he does? Or had I better wait for him to come to me?

I will wait an answer in your Speak Up, Sister column.

P. Q.

By all means, take your first opportunity to see your brother, and have a talk with him. It may be that your sister has caused the trouble. I cannot go into details in advice to you, you do not explain what you mean by the DIRTY DEAL from her.

People who have done wrong sometimes try making trouble for those who have been right. It is a way they have of attempting to CLEAR themselves in others' opinion . . . If you have always done your duty, and been amiable and kind, you have no conscience troubling you, at least.

Perhaps, sister, you took your responsibility too hard, and assumed a dictatorial role that your family resented . . . I am just suggesting this . . . as a possible fault that you might remedy . . . I hope everything comes out all right . . .

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

SILENCE ELOQUENT, FAY KING'S ADVICE TO JUNE BRIDES

By FAY KING

Many young couples are now busy preparing for their June weddings. Each marriage should be a happy, lasting one.

Bring to each day good humor. Make every effort to make each day a pleasant one. As the days are, so will be the years.

Don't bother to remember anniversaries. Counting the years of marriage, or age is not so good as forgetting them in the happiness of just being together. One keeps younger in forgetting "how long ago."

Beware of talking. We all talk too much, and out of turn, at times!

Silence can be more eloquent than words. Quiet is always restful and soothing. The contentment of companionship does not depend upon endless chatter.

Live only in today and make it a pleasant today!

By ADELE GARRISON

Threat of Cold Water Revives Avis

Mad Lillian gone too far in her jibes about the apparent swoon of Avis Arlen, which she patently deemed a simulated one? From a sudden, indefinable tensing of Hugh's muscles, a tightening of the lines of his face, I feared so.

After all, I reminded myself, only a woman can see through the wiles of another of her species. Men, especially chivalrous, high-minded men, are generally so eager to help banish any distress, mental or physical, from the women of their acquaintance, that they are easily fooled.

And I have noticed that they especially resent—consciously or subconsciously attribute to cattishness—any attempt on the part of women they know to enlighten them as to the foibles of other women, even if those foibles are being used to befool them.

But Avis Arlen herself "upset the lentils" in Lillian's slangy phraseology. As she heard Lillian telling Hugh to put her down on a couch, so that Lillian could throw cold water on her, "spoiling her makeup but bringing her to," she straightened herself abruptly in Hugh's arms and faced Lillian with eyes and cheeks flaming—for once startled out of her saccharine, cooing manner.

AVIS REVIVED

"Oh! Oh! How despicably cruel you are!" she exclaimed, while Hugh looked at her in amazement.

"No; I'm only a wise old bird that's seen many a fledgling like you try that stunt," Lillian retorted, not unkindly. "I wouldn't have called your bluff with the threat of cold water, only that I'm getting a little tired of this 'reeling and writhing, and fainting in coils' stuff. Three times this visit is enough."

"It isn't three times," Avis began sullenly, then as she felt the nip of the trap into which she had stepped she threw her hands over her face, then with a dramatic gesture took them away and, clutching Hugh's coat, buried her face against him and burst into a paroxysm of sobbing.

"Oh, Hugh! Please don't believe all this," she gasped between sobs. "I didn't really faint, as she says, for I could hear what you were saying, but I was so weak and sick that I could not stand up or open my eyes. Please, Hugh, won't you say you believe me? I couldn't stand to have you think so meanly of me. And I do want to tell you what frightened me. I think you ought to know."

GOES TOO FAR

Lillian threw up her head alertly, as might a wild animal sniffing danger.

"Sorry if I misjudged you, Avis," she said briskly. "But we're all apt to make mistakes. I beg your pardon if I've hurt your feelings. Better bring her over here, Hugh, and let her lie down, if she's feeling ill."

But Avis only clung more tightly to Hugh, and with a twitching of my lips I saw him furtive, embarrassed glances toward Lillian and me. I guessed that he was somewhat nonplussed by this limpet-like attachment of the sobbing irl.

"You won't leave me with them will you, Hugh?" I heard her murmer. But Hugh's reactions must have surprised her. She had overplayed her hand by using the plural pronoun. Hugh patently would listen to no criticism of me even co vaguely veiled as this.

"You have an entirely wrong slant on this," he told her with brisk decision. "Mrs. Graham is your hostess. She made no criticism of you, and I know she is only too anxious to aid you. Come over to the couch, as Mrs. Underwood suggested."

Correct Manners

Note of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I received a wedding gift from the girls in my office and the card was signed with the names of all the girls who contributed. Will it be proper for me to address the envelope to the head girl of the office, and what would be the correct way of wording the card of thanks? C.

Since each girl signed her name, you should write a separate note of thanks to each kind contributor to this wedding gift. Thank each one first for the thoughtfulness, the generous plan for this gift, and then chat with each one about the gift, its beauty, how you plan to use it in your new home. Don't send a "card of thanks" . . . write a note of thanks.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Getting to Bed Before Midnight

One of my readers inquires whether there is any truth in the statement that an hour of sleep before midnight is worth two after midnight. This is commonly believed but has no scientific basis.

Dr. Copeland

Recent experiments conducted at Colgate University show that although most individuals sleep more lightly during the second and succeeding hours, they are more relaxed than during the first hour of sleep. These investigators believe that how well a person sleeps is more importat than the length of his sleep. No doubt you have experienced this and have noticed that after a short nap in which you have been thoroughly relaxed, you awaken quite refreshed.

I cannot overstate the value of sleep. It is essential to proper growth and development and is a definite necessity for good health, steady nerves and strength to combat mental and physical strain.

Proper sleeping habits should be acquired in early childhood. Though most mothers realize that every growing child needs an abundance of sleep, too often little attention is given this matter. Sometimes it is quite a task to convince the child that sleep is essential to good health, but if the habit is acquired in early childhood there will be no need of persuasion.

Bear in mind that irregular hours lead to restless sleep. The child, like the adult, will have great difficulty in falling asleep if permitted to stay up late and if he is not taught the importance of routine, regular bed hours.

A warm bath taken before bedtime is often helpful in inducing sleep. The house should be quiet and free from outside disturbances. The bedroom should be properly ventilated. It should be so arranged that in cold weather the room is kept warm but airy and fresh. Overheated rooms as well as cold bedrooms are a hindrance to restful and beneficial sleep.

Avoid eating large meals before going to sleep.

If necessary, a warm drink, such as milk or cocoa, is beneficial and soothing to fatigued nerves and often prevents insomnia. But never resort to the use of so-called "sleeping powders." They are habit-forming and harmful in the end.

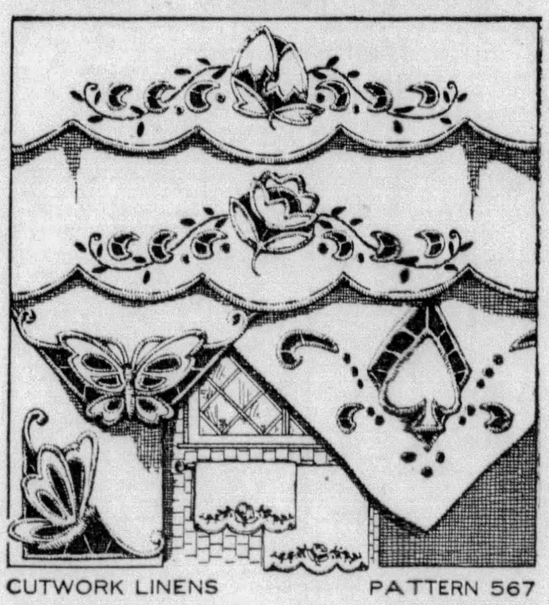
The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Teacher must urge the beauty students to be lovely in their own way, not to try to be carbon copies of a Garbo or a Crawford. They must, naturally, conform to the fashions of the moment; it's fun dancing along in the parade of pulchritude. But something more than smart attire, burnished hair and the high-lighted finger nails is necessary if a woman is to have a truly distinguished appearance. It is difficult to express exactly what we refer to; it may be called chic or charm or manner. It is an element that is created in the mind and it has tremendous powers of attraction. If a girl has good taste in dress, conversation, deportment, her beauty problems are cut down 50 per cent.

Light leathery fringes over the forehead impart charm to the youthful face. Sometimes the older woman can get away with it. Except for silky bangs foreheads are uncovered. That means that the skin surface must be as smooth as satin, not a wrinkle-ripple on the cutaneous premises. To keep tissues firm, a heavy massage cream must be used every night. Ironing with an ice cube firms the under fibers. Lifting the eyebrows stamps in cross lines, Pulling the eyes together makes frown gullies. Too bad one can't do with one's face what one pleases, but it is best not to indulge in these beauty destroying habits. Time doesn't help matters. Time is not any woman's friend.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



CUTWORK LINENS — PATTERN 567

This collection of small cutwork motifs is just the thing for that small gift that still should be something lovely. They lend themselves to guest towels, scarfs, tray cloths, doilies, pillows and, of course, to a bridge cloth, besides many other articles. Since cutwork—just buttonhole and stem stitch—is easy to do, these motifs make it possible to make a great variety of those small linens that are so necessary in a household.

Pattern 567 comes to you with a transfer pattern of two 2½x9-inch towel ends and the back edge, four 5-inch square bridge motifs, four 2-inch ones for napkins, two 4-inch butterfly corners, one and one reverse 3½-inch butterfly corner; detailed directions for doing cutwork; illustrations of all stitches; suggestions and yardage requirements for a variety of uses.

Send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) for this pattern to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

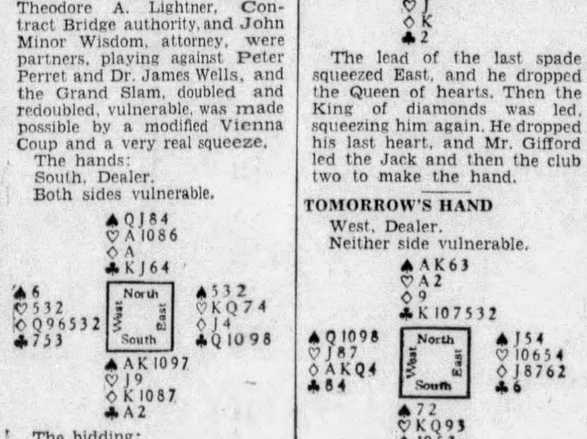
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Turning Defeat to Victory

One advantage in playing Grand Slams that lies with the Declarer is that the length of the trump suit and the "fit" of the high honors held in the two hands often make possible squeezes or coups that turn apparent defeat into victory.

It was so in the accompanying hand, which was played recently in a Rubber Bridge game in New Orleans, La. Alexander Gifford, a classmate at Yale of Theodore A. Lightner, Contract Bridge authority, and John Minor Wisdom, attorney, were partners, playing against Peter Perret and Dr. James Wells, and the Grand Slam, doubled and redoubled, vulnerable, was made possible by a modified Vienna Coup and a very real squeeze.

The hands:
South, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass

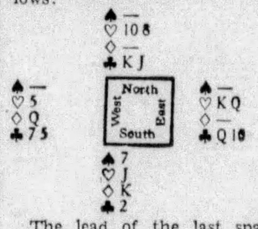
Mr. Wisdom, who sat North, was certainly not unduly pessimistic in his bidding. He must have had supreme confidence in the playing skill of his partner.

West opened the five of diamonds, which Dummy won with the Ace. Mr. Gifford went to his hand with the Ace of clubs and then trumped a small diamond in Dummy. When the Jack fell from the East hand, he thought he saw a chance for a coup and squeeze. Returning to his hand with a trump, he ruffed another diamond, and Ten, in Dummy, and then ran out all his trumps, after first cashing the heart Ace.

Just before the last trump was played the holdings were as follows:



The lead of the last spade squeezed East, and he dropped the Queen of hearts. Then the King of diamonds was led, squeezing him again. He dropped his last heart, and Mr. Gifford led the Jack and then the club two to make the hand.

TOMORROW'S HAND

Keeping Cabbage Fresh

To have cole slaw for more than one meal and to do the cabbage job all at one time, cut the cabbage in very fine, thin pieces, put in cold water and keep in a jar in a cool place. Then it can be taken out when needed.

He knew the butter flavor secret

When Josef was chef to the Vanderbilts forty years ago, he declared the canvas-back duck to be the greatest delicacy in the world. But it must be treated with the utmost respect, said Josef. So he basted it with butter, which he prepared with a labor of love. For many long minutes he whipt this butter to a marvelous creamy texture. Only in that way could Josef be sure that the delicate, delicious butter flavor would be released at once and in full to mingle with and enhance the flavor of his proudest dish.

. . . now YOU can enjoy this secret . . . the matchless INSTANT FLAVOR of... Chiffon WHIPT PURE Butter created by KRAFT

● You really taste butter for the first time in your life when you taste this new Chiffon Butter. The instant it touches your tongue you savor all the delicate creamy flavor of freshly-churned butter.

Known until now by only a few epicures and skilled chefs, this secret of improved and instant flavor has been studied, perfected and made available to you by Kraft.

Starting with the finest selected and pasteurized cream, the great Kraft creameries add to the customary churning a scientifically developed operation in which the butter is properly whipt. This distributes the butter flavor and aroma elements more completely and uniformly through every bit of the butter. They are more instantly released when the butter touches the taste buds on the tongue.

Take home a pound . . . two pounds . . . of Kraft's new Chiffon Butter, and let your family enjoy the matchless, instant flavor praised by epicures.

Spreads easier

● Chiffon Butter spreads more easily, more smoothly, than ordinary butter—yet keeps its form in warm weather. Easy to make sandwiches with this delicious butter.

Creams more quickly

● Chiffon Butter creams in much less time and much more easily than ordinary butter. Saves time and work in making sauces and cakes. And the Chiffon Butter flavor makes all good foods taste better.

Economical

● Chiffon Butter is economical, as you will appreciate when you see the big Chiffon package—nearly a third larger than the usual half pound of butter package—because this butter is whipt!

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Although their wedding won't take place until Monday afternoon in the Liggett home, Sewickley Heights, Betsy Liggett, daughter of the Sidney S. Liggetts, of Sewickley, and Harlow Wheeler Culbertson, son of the John D. Culbertsons, of Sewickley, went for their marriage license yesterday.

Betsy, a debutante of the past fall, will be a young bride—she's only 20, and her husband-to-be, 23.

Although their wedding will be small, it will be of marked social importance. Laura will be her sister's only attendant, and John D. Culbertson III will be his brother's best man.

Elizabeth Odell to Wed Philip Chabot Smith

Another Sewickley girl will be a June bride—young Elizabeth Lawther Odell, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Owen Davies Odell who'll wed Philip Chabot Smith, of London, England.

Elizabeth has named June 30 as the date for her marriage, to take place in the Sewickley Presbyterian Church, of which her father has been pastor for more than a decade.

And of course her father will officiate at the wedding service, to take place at 5:30 o'clock.

Selly Odell will be her sister's maid of honor, and Mrs. Roger Robb, of Washington, the former Mary Cooper, will be matron of honor. Doris Smith of London and New York, sister of the bridegroom-elect; Mary Fry, of Richmond, Va.; Dorothy Jarvis, and Susan Potter O'Neill, both of Sewickley, will be bridesmaids.

Wilhelmina Coyle Will Be Honored

Honoring pretty Wilhelmina Coyle, daughter of the Dickson K. Coyles, who'll wed Falconer Jones, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the summer home of her grandmother, Mrs. William Steinmeyer, at Bemus Point, on Lake Chautauqua, June 22, Mrs. Alfred C. Davis, aunt of the bridegroom, will give a luncheon and also the rehearsal dinner on June 20 in her home at Ashville, on the lake.

Place Homelike In Atmosphere

The Federation of Girls' School Societies supports this attractive home, which is homelike in atmosphere. The building, surrounded by smooth lawns and shaded by old trees, stands on a knoll near Harmarville. And it is gay with colorful chintzes and boxes of blooming geraniums at the windows.

Press Club Hears Victor Kolasinski

The Women's Press Club went to Hawaii, Japan, China, India, Palestine, Italy, France and Switzerland by a rather unusual means yesterday afternoon. Victor Paul Kolasinski, of the United States Lines, with the assistance of Mrs. Sally Paris, described the lure and beauty of these countries, he sketching in crayons all the while.

Mr. Kolasinski worked with amazing and fascinating rapidity and with a pleasing sense of color and line appreciation, interjecting touches of humor both in his drawings and his remarks.

The club elected its nominating committee's ticket, headed by Mrs. John F. Collins, Jr., as president.

Club Women Are Dance Pupils

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

One of the most interesting, even surprising, and certainly least talked-about activities of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club this season has been its senior dancing class. It is doubtful if there is another quite like it.

The class was conducted for club members and their husbands and was under the direction of Miss Adelaide Hunter, who taught her pupils the very latest steps. Can you imagine serious-minded club presidents and their equally dignified husbands taking time to learn the tango and doing it very beautifully? The men represent a variety of professions in which they are as prominent as their wives are in the club world.

Among the "pupils" have been Mrs. C. G. Eicher, a past president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Allegheny County Medical Society, and Dr. Eicher; Mrs. T. M. Stahlman, former president of the Congress of Clubs and Club Women, and Dr. Stahlman, and Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Goldthwait. Dr. Goldthwait is a fellow at the Mellon Institute and Mrs. Goldthwait is president of the forum and a past president of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club.

Mrs. Alvin Loeffler, one of the club's leading vocalists, and Mrs. J. P. Boore, an accomplished pianist, were others in the class and two of the club's secretaries were enrolled. Mrs. G. S. Monks, chairman of the American home; Mrs. S. A. Johns, Travel League chairman; Mrs. Guy Burrell, the nurse who presides at the club's social center in Castle Shannon, and Mrs. Carl Cappell, the club pianist, were among other devotees of terpsichore.

Gossipy Chat

If you're a child—that is, if you are under 15—your entry in the Sewickley dog show June 23 in the show ring, Allegheny Country Club, will be sure to receive a prize.

For every boy and girl who enters a dog will receive a box of candy. What's more, children exhibitors won't have to pay any entry fee.

And then for the "real" prizes for children. There'll be a silver-plated cup for the best boy "handler" and one for the best girl "handler." And a prize of $1 for the second best boy and girl.

There's just one restriction—the children must own the dogs they exhibit themselves, or their families must.

For gownups there are 14 ribbon degrees to be conferred. First there is the rosette for the outstanding entry of the entire show. And an 18-inch, silver-plated platter accompanies the rosette.

Then follow for each class blue, red, yellow and white badges. And next purple and white, blue and white, dark green, purple and gold. The purple and gold award signifies the best of each breed; the dark green means special prize.

The remaining ribbon colors will be rose, brown, light green and gray. These will be given for additional and non-regular classes.

You get that "home again" feeling when you're at The Taft. This great modern hotel spares no effort to make you comfortable. Located in Times Square — New York's center of all business and social activities. 2,000 rooms, with bath, from $2.50.

PARIS, June 5.—(Universal.)—Former King Alfonso of Spain, who has just returned from Cannes with his daughters, the infantas Maria, Christina and Beatrice, will officially honor several American hostesses with visits to their homes, bringing his daughters with him, as soon as his brief period of mourning for Count De Caserta is over, it is officially announced.

Among the American hostesses expected to take the lead in entertaining him at the American Country Club and elsewhere are Mrs. Henry Symes Lehr, widow of the famous cotillion leader; Mrs. Henry Harjes, widow of the late Morgan partner, and Mrs. Henry S. Downe.

When questioned whether the former Queen intended to accompany Alfonso, a member of the former monarch's family remarked:

"But they are so rarely together!"

Freddy Proctor, good-looking young soap heir, introduced a new formula for greeting an ambassador at his own "at home." Because he stopped in at some one else's "at home" the other night before arriving at his own, Freddy appeared after all his guests, including American Ambassador Strauus and Councillor Theodore Marriner, had been greeted with apologies by his pretty wife, the former Dorothy Stokes.

Freddy, one of the most popular members of the sporting set here, is still celebrating his $150,000 win the Irish Derby sweepstakes last year, while Frank of the Ritz bar, who sold him the ticket, is still groaning.

A chic young Chicagoan, formerly the wife of Ernest Byfield and now Mme. Raymond Tartiere, has gone in thoroughly for the simple life. Another Chicagoan behaving similarly is Erav Morris, son of the former American ambassador to Sweden, who has 'given up partying here with his family and is in a sylvan retreat in England, writing a novel.

BONNETS FOR HORSELESS BUGGY RIDES

By PRUNELLA WOOD

MAYBE YOU think a madcap is always a slightly daft maiden with a charm of her own and a feckless way of sliding through trouble that would mire any more sedate sister. Well, it might be, at that—but it might also be one of those batty little bonnets that one of our designers has turned out for the pleasure of motorists, especially those who go for rumble seat riding. Next to the ditherings of feathers and bow-knots hailing from St. Tropez, these models take the spotlight as something cute as it is absurd—and one has to admit that they are practical and, what is more, becoming.

Here we have three of the 1934 motor bonnets sketched and ready for a loop around the country. They might be headed for the June boat races or just getting three coiffures into safe keeping for a ride through the night to some rustic restaurant. For the secret stunt of these madcaps is to hold hair and hat itself in the face of rushing wind, let the powder and false eyelashes fall where they may!

* * *

AT THE TOP we have a natural linen model with bow and strings under the chin made of self-material lined with scarlet. The large sketch shows the hat securely tied on; the tiny view shows the strings wound about the crown, as it may be worn between hurricanes.

Center, quite a stylish bonnet is shown. It is made of navy organza stitched severely and trimmed with a bright posy and a veil which is worn over the hair and tied around the neck as an anchor and hair net during working hours, while it floats off the back in a Merry Widow manner when the bout is over. It is really a very chic little affair which does not look in the least earnest or utilitarian. Any blue tailleur could adopt it thankfully.

* * *

THE THIRD hat sketched is made of beige linen tweed and it has a visor brim of black patent leather. The back is cut off sharp so that one may loll comfortably while the car pounds along at top speed, and of all things—the ribbons that pass over between crown and brim may be the colors of Alma Mater! All a girl has to do is remember which day she is rooting for the Crimson, and which for the Blue, changing her bonnet strings without fail.

It may be madness, but the designer calls it love of her craft. It is something new, anyway, and for the nonce it has its place in the scheme of novelty gadgets which are in good taste.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Synd., Inc.)

The top model may have been inspired by baby's sun bonnet. Center, one is reminded of the Empress Eugenie. Right, was it a Salvation Army lassie who contributed to the style?

Makes Good Salary

That had been the beginning. And here, at last, was the moment they had been moving toward ever since that time!

"You know what sort of life I have to offer you, Susan," he said to her presently when they were driving along once more under the glistening trolley wires. "I'm making $400 a month at the bank now, and we'll be able to do almost anything within reason on that. A hundred a week is a great deal of money for two people—"

"I'll never spend a penny of it in Hart's store," thought Susan as his voice ran on in her ear. "I'll never go into the place again so long as it stands." She could feel her cheeks grow hot again as the thought of Mr. Dillon's office came back into her mind.

"—and I have some money put away," Wallace was saying. "The first thing any couple ought to do is buy a house, establish a home. Today I heard about a house that I'd like to buy for us. It's out in the Country Club dusbdivision. A lot of people are moving out there lately."

Susan and he had often driven through the allotment on Saturday afternoons. It consisted of a half dozen wide streets that wound through the fields near the links. The houses that were going up there were not large, but they were all picturesque and gay-looking, Queen Anne cottages and Mediterranean villas on a tiny scale. The sort of homes that young couples bought and paid for on the installment plan, giving bridge parties and cocktail parties and Sunday night suppers in them, serving drinks made of bathtub gin and salads made of tuna fish masquerading as chicken.

Pictures Future

On Saturday afternoons all the young husbands, Wallace among them no doubt, would come home early to get in 18 holes of golf when the weather was good. And when it was bad they would get together in somebody's living room to listen to football games over the radio. That was the way Wallace spent his Saturday afternoons now, Susan knew, and that was the way he would go on spending them all the rest of his life in all probability. Wallace never did unusual and amazing things. There was nothing about him to startle and waylay. Everything about his life seemed to Susan to be as well-ordered as the three evenings a week that he gave to her. . . . But wasn't there something comforting, somehow, about that sort of person? The sort of person whom you could always lay your fingers on? Whom you could always rely on?

"I heard about the house through the bank," Wallace went on. "A young couple bought it a year or so ago but they can't go on paying for it, so they're giving it up. The fellow lost his job, and he and his wife are leaving town. Rotten break for them, isn't it?"

"It's dreadful for them" Susan lifted her head from Wallace's shoulder. "I'd hate to live in it, wouldn't you? I'd feel as if we'd profited by their misfortune when we bought it, somehow. By their hard luck—"

"That's foolish, sweetheart," Wallace broke in crisply. "You can't stop to think about things like that in business, Susan. They have to let the place go, and we want to buy one. That's all there is to it. The bank holds the mortgage on it, and I can get it for a song. We'll go out and look at it Sunday afternoon. They want to sell the carpets and the draperies, too."

RAIN PREVENTS FIRST GAME OF BUC-RED SERIES

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Fans Pull for Suhr Rally. Slump Would Be Costly. Bucs' Best Run Producer.

Pilot Big Brave Factor. Pitt Coach Going Abroad. McLarnin Plans New Try.

As the Pirates began a seven-game western trip today, the home fans were hoping to find in the early returns from the battle front some evidence that Gus Suhr's first batting slump of the season would not be a protracted one. Their concern about Suhr was due to the fact that in three straight games he had failed to hit safely. That is most unusual for Gus. In the Pittsburgh club's 37 previous games there were only four in which the slugging first sacker was held hitless, and at no time did he go through two games in succession without delivering one or more safe blows.

Gus Suhr

It's a serious matter when Suhr gets out of his hitting stride, for in the all important matter of run production he has been the most valuable man on the club. Gus knocked in 40 of the Bucs' 212 runs up to date, and the closest approach to that mark on the team is Cookie Lavagetto's 29. The only man standing between Suhr and the National League leadership in base cleaning is Chuck Klein, with 43, and in the American League the only players who have pounded in more tallies than the Pirate first baseman are Lou Gehrig with 50, and Zeke Bonura with 46. A hitter like Suhr is not to be stopped for long, but the Bucs can ill afford to have him slumping for even a brief spell, and it's to be hoped that the Cincinnati series will see him coming right back with his winning punch.

STENGEL MAY TRADE SMYTHE FOR STARR

When the Brooklyn club got Pitcher Harry Smythe from the Yankees through the waiver channel, many fans doubted that there was any serious intention of keeping him. True, Smythe's record of 21 victories against eight defeats for Baltimore last year had suggested big league possibilities, but the willingness of Joe McCarthy to part with the southpaw when the Yanks needed pitching strength urgently, and the willingness of the remaining American League clubs to let Smythe pass from that circuit, did not betoken an early fulfillment of the left-hander's major league promise.

It appears now that Casey Stengel grabbed Smythe only for trading purposes. According to Flatbush reports, Casey has his eye on Ray Starr, discarded by the Cardinals, Giants and Braves, but now pitching impressively for Donie Bush at Minneapolis. Stengel thinks Starr has attained major league stature and aims to get him in a deal that will involve the transfer of Smythe to the Millers. The Dodgers sorely need another regular slabman. At present they can count only on Van Mungo and Ray Benge as bonafide starters.

INFLUENCE OF M'KECHNIE SPURS BRAVES

A close study of the Braves leads Frank Graham, veteran critic, to conclude that the secret of the unexpectedly strong showing the Boston club is making in the National League race is not so much the ability of the players as the skill and the inspirational qualities of their manager. Bill McKechnie is held to be the real power behind the drive because he makes the Braves think they're good and they outdo themselves to prove it.

Bill McKechnie

On paper, the New Englanders do not appear overly formidable. Many of them were tried elsewhere and found wanting. In McKechnie, however, they have a manager so adroit in handling men that he has them in a frame of mind where they believe in themselves. That counts for a great deal in baseball, as in anything else. Quite as important, under the Wilkinsburg man the Braves play smart and alert baseball, and while they sometimes beat themselves out of games by making mechanical errors, very few defeats are due to their not knowing what to do with the ball or how many bases to take at a time. So fine is the Braves' belief in themselves that they insist they would have been sure bets for the pennant if they had not lost Rabbit Maranville. That may be stretching things a bit, but as long as they believe it, it's all right with McKechnie. In fact, Bill gave them the idea in the first place.

SUTHERLAND TO VISIT MOTHER OVERSEAS

Barring unforeseen delays, Thursday will find Jock Sutherland getting down to the serious business of temporarily forgetting about the big football game with Southern California, which is to be played at the Pitt Stadium on October 13 as one of the greatest gridiron features ever staged in Pittsburgh.. Two days hence the Pitt coach will be on the high seas, bound for Scotland on his biennial visit to his mother.

Jock expects to do little during the following six weeks but see a lot of Cooper Angus, his native town. However, he is counting on being back in Pittsburgh by the end of July, ready to begin preparations for the 1934 football campaign. While in Scotland, Sutherland will continue informally his work as chairman of the Nationality Groups of the Cathedral of Learning. As head of the Scottish committee, he hopes to be able to arouse interest in that part of Pitt tower among his Scottish friends.

RETURN BOUT IN AUGUST M'LARNIN'S AIM

Though Gene Tunney, Bernard Gimbel and others have told Jimmy McLarnin they shared the opinion of Judge Tom O'Rourke that Jimmy was entitled to the decision over Barney Ross, their criticism of the verdict has not led McLarnin to make any wild claims. The former welterweight champion, after thinking the thing over for a full week, admits by bemoaning the showing he made that he was clearly defeated. He says he didn't hit Ross one solid punch during the entire fight; that Barney was too fast and too smart to be nailed by the kind of blows fired at him. McLarnin realizes now that those blows were all telegraphed; that he was swinging like a chap beating off flies.

Jimmy McLarnin

Jimmy admits he made a mistake in remaining idle a year, and in boxing only about 26 rounds in two and a half years, and says he has found out that a fighter can't perform so infrequently and hope to retain the necessary timing, speed, stamina and judgment of distance. The dethroned champion is aiming to get a return match with Ross for late August or September in New York and means to be in the right shape this time, planning to take part in one or two other matches in the meanwhile following his return from his proposed trip to Ireland. His opponent in one of these bouts probably will be Bep Van Klaveren, the Hollander.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—(AP.)—Given a fair share of the breaks, Johnny Goodman, tow-headed Nebraska amateur, believes that he has a better than 50-50 chance of retaining the National Open golf championship. The 72-hole test begins here Thursday.

Back 24 hours after a six-weeks' golf trip to England with the American Walker Cup forces, Goodman listened carefully today to reports that Gene Sarazen said he couldn't repeat and that betting men had made him a 20 to 1 shot, and then spoke his piece. He said:

"In the first place I have my game pretty well in hand, even though I didn't handle a club all the way over on the boat. I'll be back in top form once I go all the way around this golf course. You know I haven't been over Merion since the amateur championship in 1930.

"Now for Gene Sarazen and the betting men. Any golfer, and this goes for Sarazen, has to be lucky to win an open championship. Sure it takes good golf—four hot rounds, to be accurate—to win. But you can't overlook the matter of breaks.

"I'm perfectly satisfied to match my game with other fellows here, and if Lady Luck has her hand on my shoulder as she did at Chicago last year, I believe I have a swell chance of coming through again.

"As for the betting men, I don't care how they rate me."

Goodman and W. Lawson Little, Jr., the barrel-chested Pacific Coast star who won the British amateur title 10 days ago, arrived at the club yesterday and played 13 holes in the twilight. They drove well, Little's tee shots being consistently about 40 yards in front, but otherwise they were rusty from the nine-day layoff.

After Johnny uttered his rebuttal to Sarazen and the betting men, Little shook his head and said:

"No, Johnny, I think you're wrong. In the first place, there are 30 amateurs in the field against 120 professionals. That makes us four to one shots to begin with. Then we amateurs don't have the finessee in club handling the pros do.

"No sir, with the exception of Bobby Jones, there isn't one amateur in this country as good as any one of the top notch pros. We don't have a ghost of a chance of winning."

Believe It Or Not (Reg. by U. S. Patent Office) By Ripley

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: LEAP YEAR—The length of the solar year is 365 days, 5 hours 48 minutes and 46 seconds. To take care of the fractional surplus there is a leap year every four years, excepting centenary years not divisible by 400. That is why 1900 was not a leap year and 2000 will be one. Eevn this arrangement is not without an exception. It still leaves a surplus of 26 seconds annually, and for that reason the year 4000 is scheduled to have only 365 days.

CINCINNATI, June 5.—Rain today prevented the opening battle of the four-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Cincinnati Reds. A doubleheader is scheduled for tomorrow.

IN FOURTH PLACE

George Gibson's team is in fourth place, but the Buccos are only two steps removed from the crest, so that the Pittsburghers have a real incentive for showing well at the home of the Reds.

The Boston Braves, holding forth in the fifth position, are just one-half of a game below the Pirates, the five favorites for the flag being bunched in a remarkable huddle.

Benny Frey on the slab.

The Reds are a strong favorite to win the cellar championship in the present race, but it would not be well for the Pirates to hold them too cheaply. Despite their skimpy total of victories, the Rhinelanders have a lot of fight.

LINDY WITH TEAM

Fred Lindstrom, injured outfielder, was with the Buccos when they reached town last night. Fred is likely to rest up during the present series, but his injured hand may be O. K. to permit him to play when the club goes to St. Louis late in the week.

The Buccaneers stopped off in Springfield, O., yesterday to battle the Springfield nine of the Mid-Atlantic League, a Pirate farm organization. A thunderstorm broke up the proceedings at the end of five innings, with the Pirates out in front, 7 to 5.

City Schools Hold Track Meet Friday

The twentieth annual track and field championships of the City Senior high schools will be held in the University of Pittsburgh Stadium on Friday afternoon, starting at 3 o'clock.

C. Lawrence Walsh, supervisor of athletics in the department of hygiene, will be director of the meet, while William S. Haddock will serve as referee. Officials will be represented by the members of the high school coaching staffs.

The final sectional meet of the Pittsburgh grade schools is being held at the Oliver High School field this afternoon. The meet is for North Side schools.

TED DAILY GETS GRID POST

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 5.—(AP.)—Two Fayette County High Schools have engaged new athletic directors, Ted Daily, former University of Pittsburgh football star, going to German Township at McClellandtown and George (Doc) Adams, a graduate of W. & J. being engaged by the board of the Georges Run school.

Daily succeeds Harry Davis and Adams takes the place of R. W. Bankirk. Both will coach football and teach classes.

Daily won football letters at Pitt in 1930-31-32, playing left end. He weighed 165 pounds, stood 5 feet 9 inches and was rated as a good pass receiver and clever defense man who made up in aggressiveness for what he lacked in weight. He never was out of the lineup for an injury.

U. S. BOWLERS TAKE LEAD

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP.)—Bowlers from the United States, Canada, Sweden and Germany took the alleys last night as the fourth international championship tournament got under way and honors temporarily at least rested with the Americans.

The Stroh team from Detroit, A. B. C. champions, piled up a total of 3,876 pins in four games to lead their nearest rivals, Canada, by 270 pins. Sweden's second team was fourth and last with 3,426.

The highest individual score of the night was rolled by J. Norris, of the Detroit outfit, who put together games of 185, 244, 206 and 203 for an 838 total. His teammate, W. Reppenhagen, rolled 822. The only other score over 800 was turned in by J. Murray, of Canada.

LOCAL TENNIS BODY ANNOUNCES LIST OF 13 TOURNAMENTS

HEAVY PROGRAM ON TAP FOR DISTRICT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The first official list of tournament events ever compiled by the Pittsburgh Tennis Association was released by Chairman Howard J. Burgwin, of the sanction and schedule committee, today. Thirteen conclaves directly under the supervision of the local net body are noted on the roster, in addition to which there is mentioned the Western Maryland classic, which, though technically under the rule of the Middle Atlantic States L. T. A., actually draws most of its patronage from Western Pennsylvania.

The line-up of competition begins with the Stanton Heights invitation men's singles affair, already under way on the North Aiken lot, and, as if to render the Heights organization the alpha and omega of the pastime hereabouts the season's card winds up with the Stantonian invitation men's doubles get-together, September 20 to 23. Between times there will come such traditional gatherings of the racquet clans as the Western Pennsylvania championship, the Pittsburgh 'Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh public parks championship, the West Penn and Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' championships, the Beaver County championships and invitation meetings at the Fox Chapel Country Club and the Allegheny Country Club.

SCHOOL PLAY CARDED

Quite as interesting as the landmarks above called to attention are the Interscholastic Tennis Conference singles melee, beginning Friday f thois week at Shady Side Academy, and the Edgeworth Club invitation men's doubles tourney from July 27 to 29. Incidentally, the Edgeworth Club and the Fox Chapel Golf Club are seekers after P. T. A. membership, according to word from President Bob Schmertz. Their applications will iwthout doubt be acted upon favorably at the association executive committee powwow on Thursday.

The tournament slate, minus the Allegheny Mountain championships and the Harvard Cup session for the Allegheny County scholastic crown follows:

May 28 to June 10.—Stanton Heights Golf Club invitation men's singles tournament at Stanton Heights Golf Club.

June 8 and 9—Interscholastic Tennis Conference singles championship at Shady Side Academy.

June 16 to 24—Forty-sixth annual Western Pennsylvania championships at Stanton Heights Golf Club. Men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

June 30 to July 4—Allegheny County championships at Westinghouse Club. Men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

July 7 to 14—Fox Chapel Country Club invitation men's doubles tournament on grass at Fox Chapel Golf Club.

July 16 to 18—Western Pennsylvania junior and boys' singles championships at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

July 17 to 28—Pittsburgh parks championship, under auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at Frick, Schenley, Highland, West, Riverview, Olympia, South and North parks. Men's and women's singles.

July 27 to 29—Edgeworth Club invitation men's doubles tournament at Edgeworth Club.

August 13 to 18—Western Maryland championships at Women's Civic Club, Mountain Lake Park, Maryland. Men's and women's singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

September 1 to 8—Beaver County championships at Ambridge, Pa. Men's singles and doubles.

September 10 to 16—Allegheny Country Club invitation men's singles and doubles tournament on grass at Allegheny Country Club.

September 20 to 23—Stanton Heights Golf Club invitation men's doubles tournament at Stanton Heights Golf Club.

ENTRIES CLOSE TODAY

Entries for the Interscholastic Conference titular tilting close tonight. They may be filed with Capt. W. A. Palmer, director of athletics at Shady Side Academy, Sterling 2400, till then. Each conference school is permitted one entrant. Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, will serve as tournament referee.

Stanton Heights men's singles jousting will be resumed tomorrow at 5:30 p. m. with Dr. John O'Loughlin, West Penn premier, engaging Charley Lockhart, former Princeton ace and present University Club mainstay, in quarter-final combat. The survivor of the morrow's skirmish will meet Paul Barber, of Belmont, in the semi-finals for right to tangle with Frank Broida, another Belmonter, in the final on Sunday.

DAVIS, GRIDIRON LEADER, DIES

Parke H. Davis

He would have been 63 years old July 16.

A player at Princeton, 1890-92, coach at Wisconsin 1893, at Amherst 1894 and Lafayette 1895-97, he maintained a close contact with the game until his death and was the outstanding historian of the sport.

Davis served on the rules committee from 1909-1915 and had much to do with the evolution of the modern game. Among innovations with which he is credited are the division of the game into quarters, numbering the players, abolition of inter-locked interference and creation of the end zones.

He was author of the articles on football in the Encyclopedia Britannica, author of a glossary of football terms and for years had kept the records and written a history of the game for the Football Guide.

Davis was one of the college strong men of his day, a member of the Princeton tug-of-war team in 1889, and a leading college boxer. He once engaged John L. Sullivan, then the heavyweight champion of the world, in a friendly sparring match.

He was born at Jameston, N. Y., July 16, 1871, and was educated at the Universities of Princeton and Leipzig, taking a bachelor's of arts degree from the former and a master's from the latter.

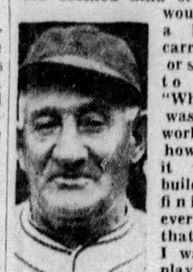
While coaching at Lafayette, Davis met Miss Elizabeth Detwiller, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. John Detwiller, and they were married in 1898. She survives along with a son, John Detwiller Davis, at home, and three daughters, Miss Elizabeth V. Davis, New York City; Mrs. Thomas Porter Robinson, Exeter, N. H., and Mrs. A. Donald Grosset, Scarsdale, N. Y.

Honus Says:

By HONUS WAGNER
FORMER STAR, NOW COACH OF PIRATES.



Honus Wagner

To the Sports Editor:

The other day I was watching a building going up and I followed one worker with my eyes. He was doing as much as any other fellow but what he did seemed kind of futile. He would pick up a board and carry it 25 feet or so. I thought to myself, "What if he was the only worker there, how long would it take the building to be finished, if ever?" With that in mind, I watched one player in the game that day and noticed he just stood in the outfield for two innings without anything to do and then a ball came his way and he caught it. Then I wondered if a single individual counted for much, after all, and I decided that he did, because everybody fits in. One worker isn't enough to build a building, or one player to play a whole team, but they are important and they shouldn't get discouraged.

Regards,
HONUS WAGNER.

THREE BATTLES CARDED FOR CITY LOOP

Three attractive games are on the City League baseball program this evening, contests that should prove well worth the time of the sandlot fans.

Battling to overtake the league-leading Book aggregation, Homewood and Parmelee are to meet at the Homewood playgrounds.

Manager Dinty Moore, of Parmelee, intends to work Buzz Isherwood, and the Verona boy, who for many years toiled as a member of the Homewood club, will take a big delight in trying to stop his former teammates. Bruce was scheduled to work the game at Mt. Oliver last night for Homewood, and it is likely that Manager Bill Dalzell will give him the slab assignment.

Some weeks ago, the J. J. Vaughans traveled to Olympia Park to meet Books, and the game nearly finished in a riot. This evening the Vaughans will attempt to reverse that close decision and hand the Mounties their second defeat of the season. Harp Vaughan may not have the best club in the league, but it certainly has the spirit.

The third game finds Dormont meeting Beltzhoover at McKinley Park. This game should please the South Hills fans. Manager Bill Hite is getting good results from the McKinley Park outfit, and Dormont has a tough evening ahead.

One of the best games of the North Side Twilight League is scheduled for Pleasant Valley Field when the Knapils meet the Ottie Cochran club. The Cochrans are playing great ball. Last evening they defeated Ingomar, 6-3, to take first place.

Homewood nosed out Mt. Oliver, 3 to 2, at Mt. Oliver last night in the only City League encounter played. Lyndora, of Butler, defeated the Canadian Clowns, 10-3.

The South Hills Junior American Legion team, county champion last season, opens its season at Dormont High field this evening when it opposes Braddock in a Section II game. In Section I, Pitcairn plays at Swissvale.

SCHOOL NINES OPEN PLAY FOR TITLE

The Oliver and Westinghouse High School baseball teams will clash today on the latter's field in the first of the annual three-game series for the City League title.

The second game will be played on the Oliver field, Brighton road, either Thursday or Friday, and a third contest, if necessary, will be played on a date and at a site to be selected later.

Peabody made possible the inauguration of the title series by defeating Schenley yesterday, 7 to 6, thus erasing the Bellefielders from the Section I title race. The score by innings:

Peabody	2 2 0 0 1 1 1	7	7	2

Miss Marble Found To Have Pleurisy

PARIS, June 5.—(AP.)—Alice Marble, United States tennis star, who has been confined to American Hospital since her collapse at Roland Garros Stadium May 24, is suffering from pleurisy, her physician, Dr. Robert Dax, said today.

Dr. Dax said her condition was improving daily, but that she requires the utmost care, that her sailing may be delayed another two weeks and that she will not be able to play tennis again for at least six months.

Trainer Suspended On Doping Charge

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP.)—H. G. Woods, a trainer, has been ordered suspended indefinitely charged with having violated the Illinois Racing Commission rules dealing with the stimulating of race horses.

A saliva sample taken from Copain, trained by Wood, after a race at the Aurora track May 15, showed traces of a stimulant when analyzed. Wood is the first to face discipline in Illinois on the charge.

CARNERA MADE CHOICE OVER MAX BAER

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP.)—That sleeping fistic giant, Max Baer's battle with Primo Carnera for the heavyweight championship, awoke with a jolt as the first definite odds named the huge Italian a 7-to-10 favorite.

With the 15-round battle in the Madison Square Garden Bowl only 10 days off, Jack Doyle, best-known of all fight betting commissioners, chalked up his slate today for the first time and the odds came as a shock to the faithful. He will take your money either way, of course. He will put up $7 against your $10 if you pick Carnera; $11 against your $10 if you bet on Baer.

HORNSBY HAILED AS NEW 'MIRACLE MAN'

ROG HAS MADE BROWNS FLAG CONTENDERS

Associated Press.

The miracle man of the major league campaign is none other than your old friend Rogers Hornsby, baseball's stormy petrel extraordinary.

He started the American League season with a bunch of fellows named Joe. Today, perhaps by sheer force of the Rajah's indomitable spirit, the St. Louis Browns are the big-league sensations of the year.

A complete lull in activities yesterday gave baseball observers an excellent chance to check up on Hornsby's accomplishments with a team almost universally consigned to the lower regions of the standing in pre-season forecasts.

TEAM HITTING WELL

The "hitless Browns" of a year ago are walloping the ball to fine effect; the fielding has held up remarkably well despite some infield tinkering necessitated by the failure of young Alan Strange to hit and the presence of an untried rookie, Harland Clift, at third; and the pitching has been good enough to allow the club to cash in on its increased power at the plate.

Perhaps the Rajah's greatest single feat has been his handling of Rollie Hemsley, who "played-boyed" himself out of jobs with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Chicago in the National League. He has been the Browns' regular catcher from the start and now is leading the league in hitting with his healthy .414 average. The last batch of averages showed three other members of the club over the .350 mark. Deb Garms, who recently has supplanted Bruce Campbell in the outfield, was around .400, and Ray Pepper, slugging fly-chaser, and Frank Bejma, now installed at shortstop, in the .350's.

As a team, the Browns are hitting .282 compared with their .253 mark of a year ago when Sam West, at .300, led the regulars. More important, however, has been the team's run-scoring ability. They have tallied 215 runs in 39 games. If that sort of run-production continues the Browns will score around 860 runs this year as against only 669 last year.

IN FOURTH PLACE

Today Hornsby's men are in fourth place, only three games out of the lead. Since May 8, when they had won only five of their first 16 games, they have captured 15 decisions in 23 games, just under a .667 gait.

BENEFIT BOUTS HELD OVER

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Ted Yarosz vs. Pete Latzo, 10 rounds, and seven 6-round bouts (Mike Ray benefit show), Hickey Park, Millvale.

Young Peter Jackson vs. Kid Azteca, 10 rounds, and Luis Carranza vs. Davy Abad, 8 rounds, Los Angeles.

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Time and the elements wait for no boxing show, not even a benefit, and, as a result, they'll put on that Mike Ray benefit card at Hickey Park, Millvale, tonight. It was scheduled for last night, but a downpour which picked its spots throughout the district shortly before starting time caused a postponement.

Ted Yarosz and Pete Latzo are the main-bouters, the latter being the former welterweight champion. In addition to their 10-round shindy there will be seven six-rounders. With the exception of General Burrows and Jimmy Columbo, the boxers weighed yesterday afternoon and will not reweigh today.

A large number of fans showed up before the postponement was announced, and many others kept the telephone busy inquiring whether or not the bouts would go on.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Johnny Pilc, who last week fought a good battle against Anson Green at Hickey Park, boxes Billy Ketchel a third time in one of the four 10-round bouts at Philadelphia, June 15. Johnny Jadick meets Eddie Cool, Jimmy Smith boxes Ken Overlin and Benny Schwartz meets Bucky Jones in the other bouts.

Jimmy Williams, former all-round Negro athletic star of Rankin High School, is training for a return to the amateur boxing rings. In high school he won his letter in baseball, boxing, track, cross-country and basketball. He is a lightweight.

Peterson Regains Heavyweight Title

LONDON, June 5.—(AP.)—Jack Peterson, Welsh heavyweight, last night regained the British Empire championship by stopping Len Harvey in the twelfth round of a scheduled 15-round match.

PITT COACHES ALSO DOCTORS

Dr. H. C. Carlson is head coach, Dr. George Kowallis is his assistant and former freshman coach, and Paul Zehfuss is freshman coach and will get his degree at the commencement exercises tomorrow.

Dr. Carlson attended the University of Pittsburgh medical school in 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920. During 1919 and 1920 he was freshmen baseball coach, earning his education. He passed on the aid given given him when he had the opportunity, for it was with his support and backing that Dr. Kowallis, Pitt star in 1924-25, 1925-26 and 1926-27, went into medicine.

After finishing his playing career, Kowallis became freshman basketball coach during the seasons of 1927-28 through 1930-31. Now he is assistant varsity coach as well as assistant to Dr. Carlson in the University's Student Health Service.

Zehfuss followed in Kowallis' steps on the varsity squad, being a teammate of Charley Hyatt starting with the 1927-28 campaign. He became freshman coach at the start of the 1931-32 season, and sent a number of good men to the varsity.

Epsom Stage Set For Classic Derby

LONDON, June 5.—(AP.)—The Derby, greatest of English flat races, will be run over the famous course at Epsom Downs tomorrow amid the familiar scenes that always mark this prime cockney holiday of the year.

The picnic indeed already has begun. The Downs are thickly studded with the caravans and other temporary dwellings of hundreds of gypsies, showmen and other hangers-on.

313 Golfers Enter British Open Event

LONDON, June 5.—(AP.)—Densmore Shute, of Philadelphia, will defend his British open golf title at Sandwich June 25, against a record entry of 313, including eight North Americans.

Ninety-nine amateurs, 49 of them from foreign countries, will compete with the pros for the coveted title. Americans who will go after the title include Gus Moreland, Bill Melhorn, Gene Sarazen, Joe Kirkwood, Charles Lacy and MacDonald Smith.

Bellevue Athlete Captain at Army

ROSS ACCORDED BIG WELCOME

CHICAGO, June 5.—(AP.)—Mamma Rasofsky always said her boy, Barney, would be a great man some day.

Her dream came true, as Barney Ross came home yesterday to receive one of the most tumultuous welcomes in Chicago's history. He came home not just a world boxing champion, but as a triple title holder, to be greeted by Gov. Henry M. Horner, Mayor Edward J. Kelly and the multitudes.

More than 3,000 persons gathered in the train shed at the Union Station, overflowed into the lobby and out in the plaza, to greet the 24-year-old Jewish lad, who a week ago had conquered Jimmy McLarnin in New York, becoming the first boxer to hold both the lightweight and the welterweight championships of the world simultaneously.

At the City Hall, Ross scored a knockout as a speechmaker. He said:

"I'm beginning to appreciate the spirit of Irish good will. I won the welterweight championship a week ago this night in New York from an Irishman with the good name of McLarnin. I was met at the station by 100 policemen with Ireland written all over their faces. Now I am receiving cheerings words from the Mayor blessed with the name of Kelly. I am almost ashamed I licked an Irishman, they are great people and sportsmen. None better."

Carnera Sparmate Scouts Max Baer

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 5.—(INS.)—Corn Griffin, the boxer extracted from the United States Army by Charles Harvey and who has been giving Primo Carnera his best boxing lessons here for his title bout with Max Baer at the Garden Bowl on June 14, returned to camp early this morning after a mysterious absence.

When pinned down to the facts, Griffin admitted he had made a trip to Asbury Park to give Max Baer the once-over.

In the opinion of Corn, the Californian doesn't look so well. In fact, Griffin intimated that he would have little difficulty in whipping the movie star himself.

Carnera again was out on the road early today and went about eight miles. He is still weighing about 270 pounds.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 5.—(INS.)—Max Baer is going to do some practicing in avoiding a long left jab in preparing himself for his title test with Primo Carnera next week. It was that constant jabbing to the face that discouraged Jack Sharkey and paved the way for his knockout by Primo last year, and that's something for Maxie to think about.

BIG FIGHT ON AIR

NEW YORK, June 5.—The Primo Carnera-Max Baer heavyweight championship fight in the Long Island City Bowl next week will be broadcast by radio, it has been announced by the promoters.

PIRATES' CAMP SITE NOT SET

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Pittsburgh Pirates have not as yet made up their minds as to whether or not they'll train at Paso Robles, Cal., again next year, where they've done their conditioning for the past 11 years, but they'll do so before the end of the present month.

So said President William E. Benswanger last night when queried about the matter, following the receipt of a telegram here from the Paso Robles Athletic Association, asking for suggestions as to other major league teams that might be seeking training sites.

Benswanger said that the Paso Robles people had not been informed definitely either way about the Pirates returning next year. He said several other propositions have been made to the Buccos, including offers from other points in California, Florida, Alabama, Texas and even Cuba and the Bahamas.

It is unlikely that beer will be sold at Forbes Field, although under a decision rendered in Philadelphia yesterday by Judge Harry S. McDevitt, in granting the Philadelphia Athletics a license to sell beer at Shibe Park, the beverage may legally be sold.

Prior to the advent of prohibition, the Dreyfuss interests did not permit the sale of beer, the late Barney Dreyfuss believing the sale of beer did not make the park more attractive or lend more dignity to the game.

CHILLYSAUCE

The Reds are averaging a wee bit better than one victory a week. The big race started seven weeks ago today and the Cincy entry has won nine games. There's a lot of static somewhere, Mr. Crosley.

The Pirates during the next three days will attempt to keep the Reds' record intact. On the other hand, the Buccos have been known to make a sour showing against pushover teams.

Joe Cronin derricked his star lefthander, Earl Whitehill, in the ninth inning right after the Yanks had made their first hit of the game. Many of the 70,000 crowd booed the boy pilot of the Senators.

A writer asked Cronin why he acted as he did, inasmuch as Whitehill was so close to a record. Joe replied that winning ball games was the big idea as compared with setting individual records.

The scribe then sought Whitehill and asked for an expression. Whitehill said he was beginning to get tired and that his boss had made a smart move. There is one big advantage in having a manager around the infield—he can see when a pitcher is losing his stuff.

The Senators had only one run and the single came on top of a pass to put the winning marker on the sacks. The relief pitcher came through to make the strategy look fine.

Cronin's method of handling pitchers had a lot to do with his spectacular flag triumph of his first managerial year. He yanked pitchers right and left when they began to tire and he always had a fresh one handy.

Twenty thousand fans saw the Los Angeles and Hollywood clubs battle in a Memorial Day double-header at Wrigley Field, Los Angeles. The Angels, however, have made such a runaway race of the Pacific Coast League competition, the attendance is likely to fall off.

WOMEN PLAY AT CHURCHILL CLUB TODAY

By TOM BIRKS

The Churchill Valley Golf Club holds its second women's invitation tourney of the season today, and judging from the long list of starting times already allotted, a large field of golfers will compete.

There will be a meeting of the National Public Links championship committee at the Fort Pitt Hotel this evening at 8:30 o'clock. J. D. O'Neil will be in charge.

After knocking at the door for a period of three years, only to be denied by Kiski, Turtle Creek Union High School annexed the Thomas S. Arbuthnot golf trophy, emblematic of the Interscholastic Golf Conference championship, by defeating Sewickley, 14 to 1, over the links of the Fox Chapel Golf Club yesterday afternoon.

Turtle Creek, which defeated Connelly, city champion, in the semi-final round, was an overwhelming favorite to win, despite the fact that Sewickley had thrown a bombshell into the scholastic golf ranks by defeating Kiski in the other semi-final.

Al Ford, playing No. 2 for Sewickley, saved his team from a shutout when he won the first nine from Richter, of Turtle Creek. Richter took the second nine and the match. The summary:

Turtle Creek	14	Sewickley	1
Blaskovia	3	Trudell	0
Richter	2	Ford	1
Yurigan	3	Sirianni	0
Nonnenberg	3	Peters	0
Varhula	3	Patterson	0

Joby Connors, West Penn Caddie Masters' and Assistant Professionals' Association champion, gave par a sound kicking about in the pro-amateur tourney staged by the association at Churchill Valley yesterday, scoring a fine 70, with rounds of 37 and 33. He and his amateur partner, J. W. Stence, led the field with a best ball of 66.

Tony Moranto, of Wildwood, and J. J. Dorney and Reese Marks and Dr. Ray Smith tied for second place with 68's.

In the Traffic Club's tourney at Chartiers Heights yesterday, E. E. Cole and W. H. Billings tied for low gross honors with scores of 80. Low net awards went George Ramstacker, Arthur Gustafson and E. N. Smith.

Mrs. Glenn R. McClintock, wife of a prominent Pittsburgh business man, recorded a hole in one while playing week-end golf on the Prospect Rock golf course, Mountain Lake, Va. Mrs. McClintock scored her ace on the 120-yard No. 5 hole. The Pittsburgher was playing in a foursome, which included her son. Homer, when she accomplished the unusual feat.

Two Pittsburghers Irish Draw Winners

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 5.—(AP.)—Two Pittsburghers were among the 1,800 lucky holders of tickets in the draw for consolation prizes in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes. They are L. F. Printy, Bouquet street, and "Balling Brook," Kincaid street.

Brown Gets Win Over Johnny Risko

WASHINGTON, June 5.—(AP.)—Nate Brown, of Washington, last night won a decision over the veteran Johnny Risko, of Cleveland, in a 10-round fight that featured resumption of legalized boxing in the District of Columbia.

Fifteen thousand people turned out for the fight card, the first outdoor show in Griffith Stadium. Many political notables were present, including Attorney General Cummings, Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, and First Assistant Postmaster General W. W. Howes.

JOHNSON ON MOUND

EAST LANSING, Mich., June 5.—(INS.)—Walter Johnson, manager of the Cleveland Indians, pitched the entire nine innings of an exhibition game yesterday to win from Michigan State College, 14 to 4. He collected three hits and allowed the collegians four hits.

DENVER GIRL GOLF LEADER

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—(AP.)—Phyllis Buchanan, defending champion from Denver, won the medal honor with a par 77 in the qualifying round of the eighth annual women's trans-Mississippi golf tournament yesterday and will celebrate her twenty-third birthday today in a first round match with Mrs. J. V. Richardson, of Creston, Ia.

Miss Buchanan toured the hard-baked Blue Hills Club fairways in 38-39, par on each nine, and was a stroke better than Aniela Gorczyaca, of Fort Worth, Texas state champion the last two years. Miss Gorczyca beat par by three strokes on the back nine, with a 35, after blowing herself to an indifferent 43 going out.

DAY IS NAMED DEPUTY FOR SOFTBALL

Entries are due to close at midnight tomorrow, which means that any letters postmarked up to that time will be included among the eligibles. As soon as the entries close, the bracket pairings will be drawn up for the opening round robin of seven weeks' play, consisting of one game a week for each team, with the playoffs to follow.

Sporting good houses have endorsed the tournament and are urging their mushball and baseball league teams to enter. A. G. Spalding and Brother, through Manager A. C. Couch, has sent out a circular letter to all of the teams enrolled under its banners to this effect, and Barney Racusin, of the Electric Sporting Goods Company, formerly Wagner & Traynor Co., has polled his teams similarly, while the Treman-King organization, through Manager Young, has acted in like fashion. Honus Wagner Company is lending the same co-operation, feeling that this tournament will put the new sport across in a big way.

From Phil Rosier, of Chicago, president of the National Softball Association, comes word that 5,000,000 players now are enrolled under the banner of the sport throughout the country and twice that many will be in the ranks before the season ends, the movement to standardize the various games of mushball, kittenball, playground and other varieties under a single code having proved tremendously successful.

DEADLINE TOMORROW

Throughout the state of Ohio mushball has given way to softball, and in Illinois upward of 3,000 teams are playing in the Chicago American's tournament.

Less than 48 hours remain to get your team in line. Do so now. Mail or bring in your entry blank, and do not send your registration fee until you receive registration cards for your players.

STOCKS RALLY AS OUTLOOK BRIGHTENS

NEW YORK, June 5.—(AP.)—Stocks staged another rally today under the spur of technical factors and the expectancy of bullish Washington developments.

Gains of fractions to two points were recorded by leading equities. Some short covering and outside buying was reported. This was said to have been based partly on the theory that the market had been "oversold" and at least a momentary recovery was overdue. Prospects of a settlement of the threatened steel strike and an announcement of NRA policy revisions also aided the recovery. Trading expanded in the first two hours, but the activity died down after noon.

Grains, a little heavy at the start, received support on reports of government relief buying. Breaking of the drought in some of the crop districts was also not thought to have been in time to check the damage. Wheat and corn got up two cents a bushel. Cotton firmed with the cereals. Silver improved. Sterling steadied in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were dull and slightly mixed.

Word that Gen. Johnson had proposed the use of the automobile strike settlement method in the steel controversy was received with interest. Hopes for a compromise were believed to be much brighter.

Some buying in the metal group was attributed to rumors that the government would soon resume the purchase of silver on a large scale, and that, in the event general business conditions weaken further, the domestic gold price may be tilted as much as a dollar an ounce. These, however, were characterized by some analysts as principally the result of "wishful thinking."

There was much guessing on the make-up of the commission which will administer the new exchange control law and the opinion was expressed that one or two members of the body probably would be men not especially unfriendly to Wall street.

WHEAT CLOSES ABOVE DOLLAR

CHICAGO, June 5.—Big late gains in prices swept the wheat market up today to nearly the extreme allowable limit.

Official reports indicated that although moisture had been received over considerable areas the drought as a whole had by no means been broken.

abov ystrday's finish, July $1.00 3/4-7/8, corn 2 5/8-2 7/8 up, oats 2 7/8-3 cents advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

INDUSTRIALS SHOW LITTLE CHANGE

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University

NEW YORK, June 5.—Industrial activity showed little change last week. The general impression one gets, however, is that the underlying trend was downward and that steadiness in the averages was due to a mixed condition. Preparations to anticipate strikes and drought results brought increases here and there.

The upturn in steel production was probably to be explained in this way. And the gain in railway carloadings was chiefly due to increased shipments of ore, coke and coal.

Certainly little significance attaches to the small rise in the adjustable index of automobile production. It is too apparent that retail sales have been lagging and that dealer inventories are ample.

In fact, General Motors has announced price cuts on low priced models which show the pressure of competition.

It has been difficult to see how, with debts and unemployment marking a great depression, we could expect to ride stream-lined to prosperity.

RETAIL TRADE SPOTTY

Retail trade continued spotty, with hot weather and summer clearance sales stimulating some business, but drought and business uncertainty retarding. The May volume of department store sales is estimated at only 5 per cent over last year, although prices average fully 15 per cent higher.

The volume of bank checks drawn on individual accounts now averages lower than a year ago.

Weekly commodity price averages again showed a small rise, which again was entirely due to drought (which has not been relieved to any important extent) as affecting grain and food prices. Zinc, tin, hides, cocoa, silk, and wool were lower.

It is notable that many finished products are weak as compared with raw materials, and that therefore profit margins are under pressure. One notable case is seen in the spread between cloth and raw cotton and the automobile price cuts tell the same story. This means that demand is weak as compared with supply pressure.

Incidentally, we can now see how futile is the idea of a "Commodity dollar" and the notion of stabilizing prices according to an index of the average. The "average" is up, and this would call for an increase in the value of the dollar, according to the theory. But whom would that help? Grain is up because of drought, while rawals, hides and textiles are down!

PRICE FIXING ABANDONED

One new factor in prices is found in the changed "code" practices. The revised steel code considerably weakens the steel price monopoly and may lead to redustions. Price fixing in the "Service" codes seems to have been abandoned. In general, the futile attempt to "create" purchasing power and boost prices seems to be breaking down.

Meanwhile the administration's scheme to inflate prices by depreciating the dollar is in abeyance. In fact, the government is now undertaking to sell long-term bonds, and, as usual when the debtor comes to the creditor for more loans (it now talks conservatively.

The new bond issues total about $800,000,000, and as they are "tax exempt" they may be taken by banks and institutional investors—especially as the banks are now under the government's thumb and have to support its credit. The isues are designed to take up about $520,000,000 in short-term notes and certificates, and appear to add about $300,000,000 to the public debt.

We will remember, however, that they are payable in "59 cent dollars," and the administration which issues them has not only repudiated bond clauses in the past, but is now toying with the idea of "broadening the metallic base" and a "more equitable" money from the debtors standpoint.

As to the business outlook, it remains cloudy, with more than seasonal declines ahead. Huge relief expenditures will be made. These, however, are not bsiness. They are debt.

We are going to pull through, but only by tightening our belts and resorting to a square deal.

Auto Schedules Call For 300,000 In June

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION has shown little change with the start of the present month. Some decline in output took place in May, but current schedules show only minor deviation from those in force at the end of last month.

Tentative schedules provide for a production of about 300,000 cars this month in the United States and Canada. Manufacturers are keeping a close watch on retail sales and any pronounced change be reflected immediately in changes in output.

The production of automobiles in May has been estimated at 325,000 units. This compared with the peak for the year of 378,983 units in April and 227,899 units in May, 1933.

* * *

Exceeds Output Of Last Year

IF THE ACTUAL output this month conforms to schedules of 300,000 cars, it will greatly exceed June of last year when production reached 260,645 units, the high for 1933.

It appears quite likely that production for the present quarter will reach 1,000,000 units.

The extent of the recovery in automobile output this year can be seen from the fact that production in the first five months of about 1,466,000 units exceeded output for the entire year of 1932 when 1,431,494 cars were made.

The five month's production this year also is 72 per cent of the entire 1933 output. If June output comes up to expectations, production for the first six months of the year will be about 1,766,000 units, a new high since 1930.

* * *

Retail Sales Trend Erratic

THE TREND OF retail sales has been erratic. Some weeks have been highly encouraging while others have shown declines. In most cases the variations have been small. Sales during the past month have been at about the same level is in April.

Dealers stocks are at the high for the year, but they are not regarded as excessive. While the automobile trade has not come up to all expectations, it has had an exceptionally good record so far this year.

The Thin Man

By DASHIELL HAMMETT

"I'll tuck him in," I said and loosened his tie.

Alice leaned on the foot of the bed. "If you want to. I've given up doing it."

"Where'd he pass out this time?" she asked with not much interest. She was still standing at the foot of the bed, brushing her hair now.

"The Edges,' " I said.

"With that little Wynant dame?" The question was casual.

"There were a lot of people there."

"Yes," she said. "He wouldn't pick a secluded spot." She brushed her hair a couple of times. "So you don't think it's clubby to tell me anything."

Alice sighed. "I can't remember when he had muscles." She stared at her husband until I took off the last of his clothes and rolled him under the covers. Then she sighed again and said: "I'll get you a drink."

"You'll have to make it short; Nora's waiting in the cab."

She opened her mouth as if to speak, shut it, opened it again to say: "Righto."

Like Everybody Else

Presently she said: "It's none of my business, Nick, but what do people think of me?"

"You're like everybody else: some people like you, some people don't, and some have no feeling about it one way or the other."

She frowned. "That's not exactly what I meant. What do people think about my staying with Harrison with him chasing everything that's hot and hollow?"

"I don't know, Alice."

"What do you think?"

"I think you probably know what you're doing and whatever you do is your own business."

She looked at me with dissatisfaction. "You'll never talk yourself into any trouble, will you?" She smiled bitterly. "You know I'm only staying with him for his money, don't you? It may not be a lot to you, but it is to me—the way I was raised."

"There's always divorce and alimony. You ought to have—"

'In Love With Girl'

Nora made a place for me between her and Dorothy in the taxicab. "I want some coffee," she said. "Reuben's?"

I said, "All right," and gave the driver the address.

"She sent her love to you."

Nora said: "Stop being nasty."

Dorothy said: "I don't really like him, Nick. I won't ever see him again — honestly." She seemed pretty sober now. "It was—well, I was lonesome and he was somebody to run around with."

I started to say something, but stopped when Nora poked me in the side.

Meet Macaulay

"I don't want to stir things up," I said, "but I think he's really in love with the girl."

Nora poked me in the side again.

"I ought to be."

"I heard a new story about the gnome tonight," Nora said in the manner of one who did not mean to be interrupted, and explained to Dorothy, "That's Mrs. Edge. Levi says . . ." The story was funny enough if you knew Tip. Nora went on talking about her until we got out of the taxicab at Reuben's.

Herbert Macaulay was in the restaurant, sitting at a table with a plump dark-haired girl in red. I waved at him and, after we had ordered some food, went over to speak to him.

"Nick Charles, Louise Jacobs," he said. "Sit down. What's news?"

"Jorgensen's Roseben," I told him.

"The hell he is!"

I nodded. "And he seems to have a wife in Boston."

"I'd like to see him," he said slowly. "I knew Roseben. I'd like to make sure."

"The police seem sure enough. I don't know whether they've found him yet. Think he killed Julia?"

Macaulay shook his head with emphasis. "I can't see Roseben killing anybody—not as I knew him—in spite of those threats he made. You remember I didn't take them very seriously at the time. What else has happened?" When I hesitated, he said: "Louise is all right. You can talk."

Warned About Quinn

"It's not that. I've got to go back to my folks and food. I came over to ask if you'd got an answer to your ad in this morning's Times."

"Not yet. Sit down, Nick, there's a lot I want to ask you. You told the police about Wynant's letter, didn't—"

"Come up to lunch tomorrow and we'll bat it around. I've got to get back to my folks."

"Dorothy Wynant."

"You know Quinn?" Macaulay asked me.

Macaulay grinned. "I hope you keep his acquaintance like that—social."

"Meaning what?"

Macaulay's grin became rueful. "He used to be my broker, and his advice led me right up to the poorhouse steps."

"That's sweet," I said. "He's my broker now and I'm following his advice."

Macaulay and the girl laughed. I pretended I was laughing and returned to my table.

Dorothy said: "It's not midnight yet and Mamma said she'd be expecting you. Why don't we all go to see her?"

Nora was very carefully pouring coffee into her cup.

"What for?" I asked. "What are you two up to now?"

It would have been hard to find two more innocent faces than theirs.

"Nothing, Nick," Dorothy said. "We thought it would be nice. It's early and—"

'All Love Mimi'

"And we all love Mimi."

"No-o, but—"

"It's too early to go home," Nora said.

"There are speakeasies," I suggested, "and night-clubs and Harlem."

Dorothy started to say yes, but stopped when Nora made another face.

"That's the way I feel about seeing Mimi again," I said. "I've had enough of her for one day."

Nora sighed to show she was being patient. "Well, if we're going to wind up in a speakeasy as usual, I'd rather go to your friend Studsy's, if you won't let him give us any more of that awful champagne. He's cute."

"I'll do my best," I promised and asked Dorothy, "Did Gilbert tell you he caught Mimi and me in a compromising position?"

She tried to exchange glances with Nora, but Nora's glance was occupied with a cheese blintz on her plate. "He—he didn't exactly say that."

"Did he tell you about the letter?"

"From Chris' wife? Yes." Her blue eyes glittered. "Won't Mamma be furious!"

"You like it, though."

"Suppose I do? What of it? What did she ever do to make me—"

Nora said: "Nick, stop bullying the child."

I stopped.

Go to Studsy's

Business was good at the Pigiron Club. The place was full of people, noise, and smoke. Studsy came from behind the cash register to greet us. "I was hoping you'd come in." He shook my hand and Nora's and grinned broadly at Dorothy.

"Anything special?" I asked.

He made a bow. "Everything's special with ladies like these."

I introduced him to Dorothy. He bowed to her and said something elaborate about any friend of Nick's and stopped a waiter. "Pete, put a table up here for Mr. Charles."

"Pack them in like this every night?" I asked.

"I got no kick," he said. "They come once, they come back again. Maybe I ain't got no black marble cuspidors, but you don't have to spit out what you buy here. Want to lean against the bar whilst they're putting up the table?"

We said we did and ordered drinks.

"Hear about Nunheim?" I asked.

He looked at me for a moment before making up his mind to say: "Uh-huh, I heard. His girl's down there"—he moved his head to indicate the other end of the room—"celebrating, I guess."

I looked past Studsy down the room and presently picked out big red-haired Miriam sitting at a table with half a dozen men and women. "Hear who did it?" I asked.

"She says the police done it—he knew too much."

"That's a laugh," I said.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S FIRST ADMINISTRATION—OPENING OF THE PANAMA CANAL

In the Presidential election of 1912, Republican Progressives backed Theodore Roosevelt, the Conservatives President Taft; this split paved the way to the victory of the Democratic candidate, Woodrow Wilson. His first administration is most memorable for the preserving of the American neutrality in the first period of the World War and the opening of the Panama Canal, one of the greatest engineering feats.

Cut across the Isthmus of Panama, the canal has a length of 44 nautical miles from deep water of the Atlantic to that of the Pacific, (minimum depth 41 feet); it has cost the U. S. about $400,000,000 (see map above).

The ships pass the canal in steps by three pairs of locks with clearway of 110 feet width by 1,000 feet length. Due to efficient sanitary measures, the local diseases as yellow fever and malaria have been greatly reduced in the Canal Zone.

The Panama Canal's value in American coastal navigation, that between America, Asia and Australia, the possibilities opened for the west of our country are incalculable. (U. S. History)

UNITS IN WHICH WE MEASURE LIGHT

One candlepower is the strength of a light equal in intensity to the standard candle, made and burned according to specifications. One lumen is the quantity of light falling on one sq. foot area of a sphere of 1 foot radius from a light source of 1 candlepower in the center of the sphere. Such a sphere having area of 12.57 sq. feet(4x 3.1416x radius²) the total quantity of light produced by 1 candlepower is 12.57 lumens. 1 foot candle is unit of intensity of illumination obtained on 1 sq. foot plane area at 1 foot average distance from 1 candlepower.

Helen MacKellar as Blanche Amory, John Drew as Maj. Pendennis and Brandon Tyman as Arthur in "Major Pendennis," by Langdon Mitchell, from Thackeray's novel.

HISTORY OF PENDENNIS

The history of Pendennis, one of the most popular works of W. M. Thackeray (publ. 1850) is simple in plot but a masterly study of character development of Arthur Pendennis.

Arthur, a spoiled, brilliant boy, is attracted to Actress Emily, daughter of tipsy Capt. Costigan, who, finding Arthur not rich, breaks their engagement. Arthur, idle at the university, brings himself and his mother into financial difficulties, from which they are saved by Laura Bell, who helps start Arthur on a literary career. Both go through sad experiences until they finally are married. (English" Literature)

DERIVATIVES OF HYDROCARBONS—ALCOHOL—GREAT SERVANT, BAD MASTER

Hydrocarbons of the methane series having one or more H atoms substituted by OH give alcohols. The most important alcohols:

Methyl alcohol (methanol, wood alcohol, CH_3OH) is very poisonous, causing blindness or death, contained in denaturated alcohol, often in bootleg liquors. It is used as a solvent, disinfectant; obtained by retort distillation of wood or by cathalytic union of CO and H.

Ethyl alcohol (ethanol, grain alcohol, C_2H_5OH), solvent, disinfectant, used in making dyes, lacquers, medicines, ether, chloroform, etc. It is won generally by fermentation of glucose by yeast.

Degree of intoxication (alcohol poisoning, above) can be determined by chemical analysis of body fluids. Death occurs if alcoholic content reaches over ½% in blood. (Chemistry)

ASSASSINATION THAT STARTED WORLD WAR

Archduke Francis Ferdinand, of Habsburg, heir to the thrones of Austria and Hungary, and his wife, Sophie, visiting Sarajevo, Bosnia, were murdered by Gavrilo Prinzip, a Servian student, June 28, 1914.

Suspecting the Servian government of instigating the crime, after a harsh ultimatum, Austria declared war on Servia. Alliances of both countries drew almost all of Europe into the conflagration. Main combatants were: Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, Turkey, the Central Powers, against France, England, Russia, Italy, Japan (later also the United States), the Allies.

The assassination at Sarajevo was not the cause but only the ignition spark to the explosion due to unsatisfactory settlements of previous disputes (Franco-Prussian War, 1871: Russo-Turkish War, 1878; Balkan Wars, 1912-1913) besides efforts of small nationalities in and around Austria toward linguistic and economic unification and rivalry for expansion of trade (Bagdad railroad constructed by Germans into the Orient, crowding out German interests from Morocco by France, etc.)

THE KIDNEYS—FILTRATION PLANT OF BODY

Kidneys, chief organs of excretion, contain millions of minute tufts of blood capillaries (glomeruli) surrounded each by a capsule, each the beginning of a tortuous renal tubule, having the power to eliminate waste from blood (urea, creatinin, uric acid, etc.), excreting the waste fluid of the body.

Albumen appears in fluid when kidneys are inflamed (infection, also in heart disease). Wastes are then retained, causing dropsy, uric poisoning (uraemia).

Tests for albumen should be made semi-annually; frequently during infectious diseases, colds. (General Science) 96-III-A

The News Reel Audience

We like to soak up our public opinion in the news reels theaters.

They're the best thermometers of who the people like. But the barometer registers neither rhyme nor reason. If the public is for you it is for you. Subject to change without notice.

The other day we heard the audience cheer a gorilla. We grabbed our ears to make sure we weren't turning the wrong dials. There wasn't any real clue for the cheering. The mugg had 15 shootings to his credit earned by his earnest habit of stepping into banks and balancing the books with a machine gun.

When his pan flashed on the screen they applauded him. Now, why did they do that? Doesn't Horatio Alger mean anything anymore? All we know is they cheered and rooted for him. Possibly

Two years ago they hissed the temperance lecturers. Now, those sincere individuals get some light applause. Looks like you have to die to get into the parlor.

The good, old ostrich swallowing the orange breaks about even. They don't cheer. And they don't hiss. Launching of submarines and boats are received in neutral silence. Maybe we had better launch 'em two at a time. The cat swimming the river and the hen mothering the puppies have been played too often. We've seen 'em so much we could almost do it ourselves.

Mr. Hoover also meets with diminutive approbation in his rare appearances before the camera. That's an improvement for Herbert. During the 1931 campaign the audience turned on the steam.

Speeches of prominent European premiers read from Babylonian tablets are passe. Nobody is political minded when Babe Ruth is at the bat. Motorcycles climbing the Rockies would be more exciting if all the passengers didn't escape. Whats' the good of roads if guys don't stay on them?

We are about washed up on three-year-old dancing classes. If you have two left feet why insist on setting them to music? Mr. Roosevelt always gets a good reception. But the eight strangers in his cabinet should never have left the wax works. The audience doesn't know them and salt won't change the flavor. Rookie firemen jumping into nets can cancel future bookings. They're washed up.

We once saw a picture of ourselves in a news reel. That's 14 years ago. And it's still once.

New Housing Proposals

Congress Should Approve Promptly the President's Home Modernization Plan

Recognizing these fundamentals, President Roosevelt, in his admirable message to Congress on home modernization, suggested a program for giving relief in the one direction where it could effectively be accomplished.

The chief executive pointed to the need of improving the quality of housing, especially for low income groups, in the United States.

He went further and proposed a specific plan for substituting economically sound activities for the existing stagnation of private initiative in the building trades.

The President proposed to enlist private capital and private enterprise to help carry forward the impetus initiated by the federal government in its public works program, which will reach a peak in the autumn.

To end the paralysis of timid private leaders, the President proposed that Congress appropriate a fund of three hundred million dollars to insure against loss a percentage of new mortgage loans.

The aim would be not only to help finance new construction, but also to advance funds for modernizing obsolete dwelling places.

The President's conception is more than a technical financial plan.

IT REPRESENTS A VISION OF IMPROVED SOCIAL CONDITIONS AND RISING LIVING STANDARDS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Save Chatham Village

Its Attractiveness Would be Marred by the Proposed Garbage Incinerator.

Wretched judgment has been shown in the city's plan to build a garbage incinerator near the Sawmill Run Boulevard.

The site is only a few hundred yards distant from Chatham Village, the Buhl Foundation's beautiful community of homes on Mt. Washington, and the village would certainly suffer from the fumes of the incinerating plant.

The promoters of the plan ridiculed this objection, and said that in other cities garbage incinerators had been constructed even in the vicinity of hospitals without giving offense.. But inquiry has shown they were wrong, and that the proximity of the incinerator to the hospital to which they particularly referred is a serious nuisance and makes necessary at times the closing of all windows facing in the direction from which the garbage smoke comes.

Charles F. Lewis, director of the Buhl Foundation, doubts if the Foundation will proceed with the proposed million-dollar development of an additional section of Chatham Village if there is to be a municipal garbage-burning plant directly below. The abandonment of the plan to build more homes would be a misfortune for Pittsburgh, for Chatham Village is a real civic asset.

A Worth-While Cause

The Campaign to Improve the Minor Judiciary System Will Require Hard Work

The Legislative Council of Western Pennsylvania, representing women's organizations with combined membership in excess of 50,000, has addressed itself to a worth-while cause in undertaking to have the state constitution and statutes changed to permit radical changes in our minor judiciary.

Indorsing suggestions that have repeatedly been made by the Sun-Telegraph, the Legislative Council advocates, among other things, the abolition of the offices of justice of the peace and alderman, as at present constituted, and the substitution of a system of minor courts in which the judges shall be men learned in the law. Salaries are to be paid instead of fees.

Probably everybody who takes the slightest interest in civic affairs is aware of the abuses that have grown up under the squire and constable system. "J. P." has come to mean "justice for the plaintiff." The greed for fees has led to the abuse of authority of squires and constables; it has resulted in much petty litigation that would have been amicably settled otherwise if it had not been to the selfish advantage of the squires and constables to have warrants issued and suits entered.

But while the public is conversant with the evils of the system and, in our opinion, would welcome the changes that the Legislative Council proposes, it would be unwise to assume that the council will have fair sailing in its campaign.

The squires and constables are among the most astute of our practical politicians. They are solidly organized. They are closely in touch with the Legislature and individual legislators. And depend upon it, they will fight desperately and leave no step untaken, to preserve their lucrative jobs and the enjoyment of the power and authority they now exercise. They will be aided in their fight, moreover, by some of the most influential figures in both of the major parties.

The women have set a hard task for themselves, but a noble one. More power to them!

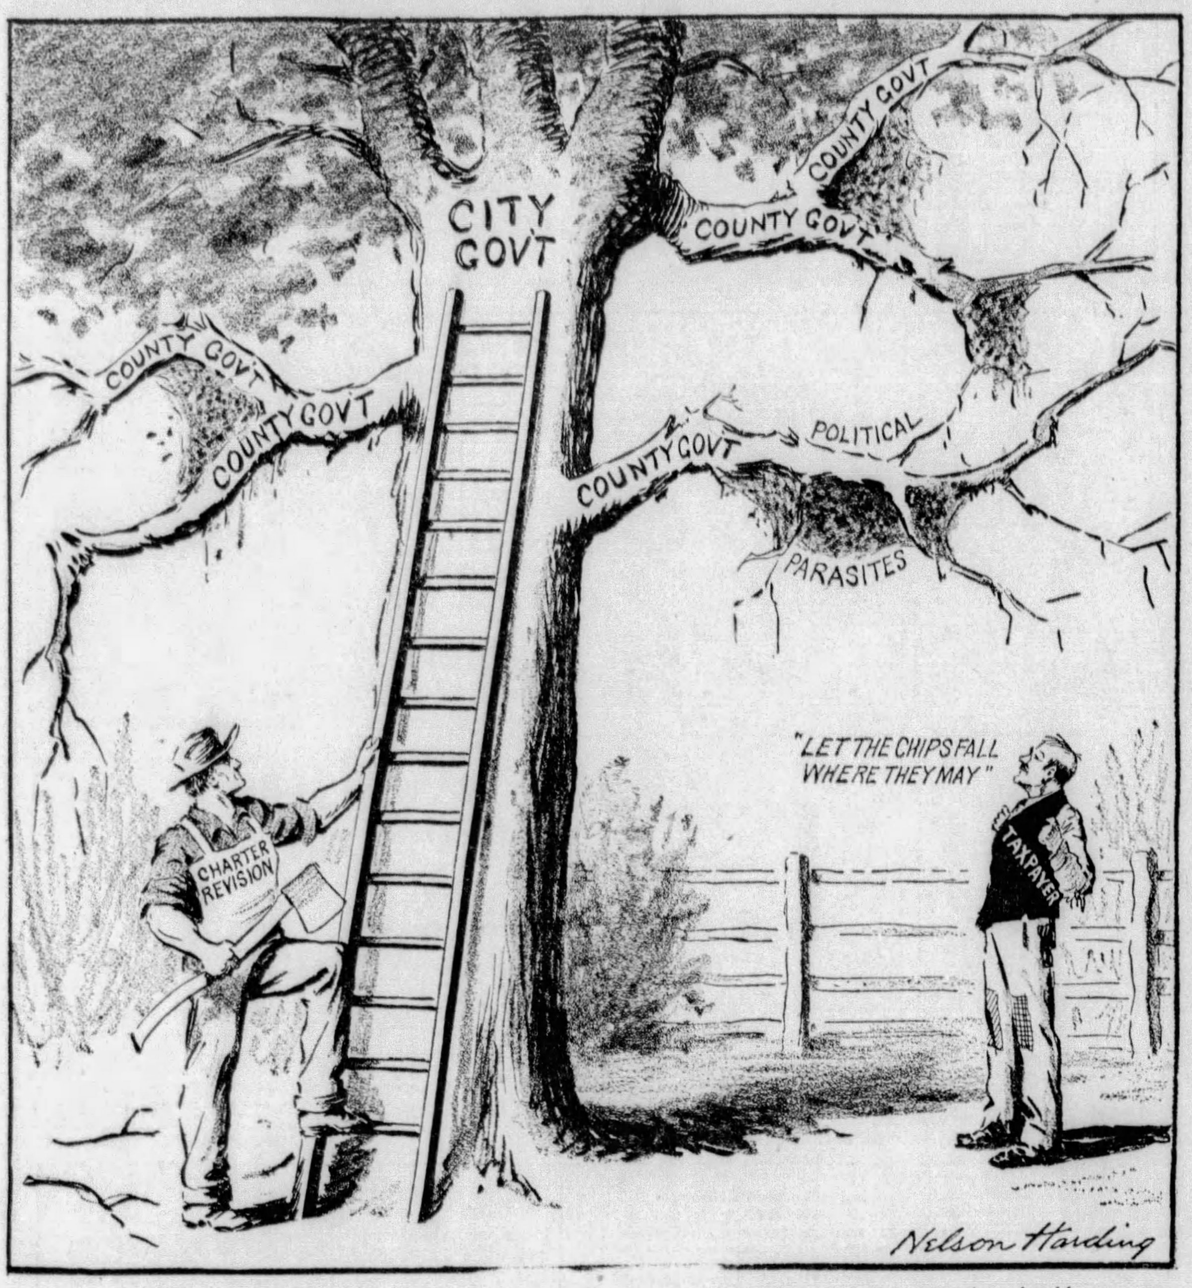
Off With the Deadwood

By Nelson Harding



Woodman, do not spare dead limbs,
But lop them all away.
Employ the keen-edged ax, and let
The chips fall where they may.

The bare and hollow branches should
Be severed at a blow;
They are decayed and useless limbs,
Where fruit will never grow.

CALIFORNIA DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

LOS ANGELES, June 5.—The important money Hollywood set zooms blithely from one fad to another. Once it expressed its grandeur in bathing pools bottomed with life sized mosaics of its stars. The bigger the star, the bigger the pool. Then it turned to cement floored tennis courts. And hilltop castles.

Next came individual golf courses and polo. Now the ranch is the thing. So much so, a gentle real estate up-swing is on. A ranch is any out of town area from 25 to 300 acres. Wastelands cluttered with rocks and brambles are landscaped into majestic domains. The verb "to be" becomes transitive, ending in a direct object.

There's a wholesomeness about this outdoorsiness that has cut off much wild goings-on of more compact living. It has promoted exploring lost trails, afoot and horseback. Also wood-chopping and other excellent simplicities.

Too, the ranch roundups leave many fine mansions vacant. I saw an $80,000 dream today for $14,000. The lot originally cost $18,000.

Our chauffeur went into a dither last sundown, stopped the car, got out and, as though looking for some mechanical difficulty, opened the door to whisper: "Mae West!" Surely enough, the human barometer of the boudoir sat in a salmon pink roadster alongside the entrance of her town apartment, The Ravenswood. She was reading in somewhat studied indifference a green edition. Success haloes irresistable attraction. I've passed Mae West with only casual, quickly forgotten glances perhaps a dozen times around Broadway. But out here my head turned and jaw dropped in an open-mouthed gawk.

The Boston has been caught up in the contagion of California camaraderie. Always he trots impervious to overtures of his fellows. But today he unbent toward Sadie Murray's Scottie, a New York City slicker that actually holds a lighted cigaret in its mouth. In front of the hotel they rush at each other like two honey bear cubs, chewing ears and coyly backing away for fresh encounters. For the first time in 12 cloistered years the Boston has found canine companionship. But somehow at this late day it suggests E. Berry Wall going into a Maypole dance.

Antonio Moreno is away out front as the most popular of the Beverly beaux. Invited everywhere, he flits from party to party, beach to beach, gracious and abundant in the superfluities of small talk. He is the ever constant cavalier, ready to squire dowager or debbie. To his legion of friends he is "Tony," sunswarthy, wax-mustached, debonaire and, like the dilettante of Michael Arlen's stark tragedy, "gulping excitement as an antidote for melancholy." Pagliacci in plus-fours.

A waiter captain today asked Irvin Cobb if he would have a nut-sprinkled hamburger called "nutberger." Reflecting a moment, he replied wearily he would not but they might bring him oysters with whip cream.

One big city touch here is pleasantly missing—the taxi. Especially in the outlying districts. The length of flashy Hollywood boulevard the other evening I saw but one, the flag down and featuring a nodding driver. Everybody here owns at least one car and I beheld one 19-car garage in the Bel-Aid area, completely filled, too. Thus surpassing Ziegfeld in his heyday with six Rolls-Royces in a row. Distances here are too great for the fixed meter. Almost everything, like playwright Bob Sherwood's hat, is 20 minutes away. Only the plutocrat can afford the taxi.

I like the yarn pinned on Gene Markey when he first came here, an unattached dashing bachelor. Three matrons invited him to dinner one evening. He pleaded a week-end on a ranch. Tete-a-tete in a dance place the same night with a ravishing blonde, he glanced around to find all three hostesses had also brought their dinner guests out dancing and were at surrounding tables. Looking about wildly, he stood up and screamed: "I was never in California in my life!" And fled.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

The Art of Relaxing

The American man will have to learn to PLAY, again.

If there are two things, which no American he-man seems to know anything about, they are leisure—and women!

All the professional "advisers" are busy at this moment devising new ways for the Tired Business Man to amuse himself in the extra spare-time which the NRA code will force upon him. But, thus far, no "adviser" has had the originality to suggest anything between cross-word puzzles and some way of acquiring more "efficiency" for making money. Hohum—and a couple of hums!

* * *

After keeping his religion, his culture and his esthetic tastes in his wife's name for all these years, the question of what a man will do with his newfound playtime is no light and airy problem. Any woman who has known what it is to have 175 pounds of masculine restlessness lashing around the house on a golf-less Sunday or a stormy week-end, looks forward to the prospect with shuddering foreboding.

* * *

Leisure, to the American businessman, has been too long—just the interval in which to work up more pep for dollar-chasing; a chance to get "glorious" on Saturday night, sleep it off on Sunday morning and golf up more energy on Sunday afternoon. Or a chance to lie in bed until noon, read the comic papers and gorge a heavy dinner.

* * *

It is astonishing that the masculine brain has not become completely paralyzed on one side from lack of exercise. And, in lots of cases, it has! It is just as good as NEW! Never been USED!

The American man is probably the only man in the world who doesn't know how to RELAX. Or to enjoy himself. When he is not making money, he feels that he is just marking time. His capacity for enjoyment has been so dulled that he never believes that he has had a "good time" unless he has a headache, a hangover or a painful case of sunburn.

* * *

An Englishman gets more fun out of lolling in the bottom of a punt with a book, or out of taking tea and crumpets al fresco on the banks of the Thames, than we do out of a week-end jamboree. A Frenchman can amuse himself for hours just sitting under the awning of a sidewalk cafe, sipping an apertif and watching the colorful crowds. An Italian gets more thrills out of a concert than we do out of a prize fight. But an American can't be STILL! He's got to "speed it up!" Put "pep" into it! Make it snappy!

* * *

If the American woman doesn't want to have a wild menagerie of restless animals on her hands, she will have to teach her men how to PLAY. She will have to find some new "toys" in the way of avocations to absorb their excess vitality.

What men need, in this country, is not more efficiency, but more capacity for LIVING. Not more productive skill, but more talent for relaxation—more enthusiasms and more avocations.

* * *

Happy the man who has a passion for something besides dollar-chasing. For gardening, for fishing, music, books, for inventing, sailing—even for puttering around the house or collecting butterflies!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Why Do Some Peddle; Why Do Others Believe Tall Tales?

For six weeks she wrote a daily letter. In each letter came fresh details of her tragedy. A sordid, heart-rending story of a deserted young wife, an invalid baby—hunger, loneliness, sickness and despair in a strange city, and cruel and relentless persecution.

No matter where she went, her husband's malicious lies followed her. He was rich, powerful, the only son of a wealthy widow who coveted the baby girl. If she would give up the baby—?

But of course she wouldn't. And so the torture went on. If she got a new job, found new friends, he saw to it that she speedily lost them both. From city to city she was hounded.

At last, in desperation, she had turned to me. Would I help her? Of course I would. I'd prove to her that she isn't friendless. I'd write to my women friends. But they beat me to it. They, too, had heard her pitiful story and were determined to "show that horrible man up."

So, for a few weeks, everything was in a Delightful Stew. Then a small, icy doubt began to stir. I wondered. I investigated. Yes, it was just as I had expected! For the 18,452nd time, someone had made a sucker outta me.

The Frightful Tragedy wasn't a tragedy at all. The lady wasn't deserted, starving or persecuted. The "monster" proved to be a meek mousey and most miserable little man who hadn't the slightest idea what she was All About, but was quite willing to support her if she'd only send her address. And the "sick baby" was a husky little lassy who lived with Grandma and hadn't seen her Anguished Mamma in two years.

IN SHORT, THE WHOLE THING WAS AN ELABORATE FANTASY INVENTED BY A NEUROTIC YOUNG WOMAN TO GIVE HERSELF IMPORTANCE AND PUBLICITY.

What did my influential women friends do when I told them; showed them the proofs? They did nothing. To the contrary, they refused to believe me, branded me as a heartless monster and continued to sigh and seethe over their Current Martyr.

Is this a true story? It is. And it is happening in every city in America. Every newspaper writer, social service worker or clubwoman comes across not one but scores of such cases, male and female.

They don't start by "peddling awful lies." The trouble commences when the liar is a youngster, discontented with the shabbiness of his lot, sorry for himself, wishing feverishly that "something exciting would happen"—trying to find escape and satisfaction in day dreams.

Yes, to a certain extent. But never have children known such diseased discontent as in this age of mad speed, maudlin movies, trashy magazines.

In a short time our infant Munchausen is hinting to the kid next door that "his dad and mom aren't REALLY his—he's a 'dopted child—MAYBE STOLEN!" Whereupon, he immediately gets publicity beyond his wildest young dreams. And immediately goes in for Bigger and Better whoppers.

So the fantasy starts, innocently enough. But once well launched upon Romantic Roles, the spinner of tales speedily seeks more exciting roles.

Nothing arouses popular interest in America as quickly as a Badly Mangled Martyr. But, if you're going to be a Martyr, you MUST have a Villain. So the fantasy expands to include some perfectly Innocent Bystander. And presently there's another Front Page Story of Frightful Abuse, Pitiful Suffering, etc., etc. And somebody (unless he has a mighty smart attorney) has to ante up.

But why do people believe 'em? Because they want to. The Average Listener is also bored with life—hungry for excitement and power. Pass up a golden opportunity to be the star actor in a seven-reel mellerdrammer? NOT A CHANCE!

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

SOUTH AMERICA has been the haven of those hawks of adventure, the soldiers of fortune, ever since rifles began to crack down in El Gran Chaco two years ago. The curious and sanguinary little war between Paraguay and Bolivia drew them like flies. Revolutions in Peru and Chile lured them southward to the lands where the tropic sun blazes over endless green jungles and along white strands where the blue water rolls up in silver ribbons.

Machine gun men, rifle experts, artillerymen and plain fighters eased themselves with as little publicity as possible from New York and New Orleans and winged southward, restless as wild geese. It mattered little which side they fought on as long as the fighting was good and the pay reasonably secure. Behind them in the stretches of recent time were the exploits of the most celebrated of all American soldiers of fortune, General Lee Christmas, and of that other doughty soul, William Walker, who dreamed of setting up one Central American state out of the little, quarreling republics.

And all this recalls the odd tale of a soldier of fortune who got the tropics out of his blood long ago and who came finally, as so few ever do, to settle down in a humdrum job in a great city. For the most of them the end is grim and unhappy. Death in battle. Death by disease. Death in prison. Or broken men, living at the last on charity or on the thin gleanings they were able to earn with weakened vigor and discontented spirit.

Participates In War In Brazil

CAPT. CLIFFORD M. HAWKINS is getting along in years now, but when he was a young buck, with the red blood storming in his veins, he was the hero of a true story which matches anything in the lively pages of Richard Harding Davis or O. Henry. Capt. Cliff Hawkins was the third officer of the steamship El Cid of the Morgan line—a brisk kid—back in 'ninety-three when the Brazilian Admiral, Mello, took a notion to take the Brazilian Government apart. The Admiral revoluted high, wide and handsome, taking the greater part of the Brazilian Navy with him, and leaving President Peixoto and the government in a bad fix.

The President sent agents to New York in a hurry to buy up ships and guns, and one of the ships they bought was the El Cid. Third Officer Hawkins stayed with the ship and went to the war with as tough a crowd of hombres as ever were recruited under any flag.

They were horny-handed, hard-eyed sailors and beachcombers from Whitechapel and the Bowery to the Barbary Coast and Tahiti; black men, yellow men, white men, 400 of the roughest, toughest scrappers that could be picked up. But the prize exhibit of the outfit was a dynamite gun, which had been invented by an American army officer named Zalinski. The gun was a tube 40 feet long which fired a six foot cartridge of dynamite containing 400 pounds of the stuff.

The captain who had been signed to command the Nictheroy, as they had renamed the El Cid, decided he didn't have any real taste for South American revolutions, so young Hawkins was elected to the command and away they went to Brazil, with Capt. Cliff on the bridge. He took the Nictheroy into Rio harbor just as Admiral Mello, the rebel, showed up with his battleship, Aquidaban.

Hawkins knew that his ship wouldn't last five minutes against the big guns of the battleship and he did some pretty quick thinking. He figured that the fellow who got in the first punch would have a big advantage. So, when the Aquidaban loomed up within a thousand yards of the Nictheroy, Hawkins trained the dynamite gun on her.

* * *

Magic Effect Of Dynamite Gun

HE HAD NEVER fired the contraption, and nobody except the inventor had the slightest idea what would happen when it did let go. But it was a groundhog case, so Capt. Cliff trained the dynamite tube on the Aquidaban, took a big breath and tried to think of a prayer. His eyes were tightly closed but he looked up as he heard the savage swish of the 400-pound dynamite cartridge leaving the gun.

He saw it spiraling and corkscrewing high in the air and straight toward the battleship. But it didn't hit the battleship. It passed high over her to land smack on the crown of the big hill on the edge of the harbor. Then came a mighty roar. The earth shook. A million tons of earth and rock spouted skyward. When the smoke cleared away, there wasn't any hill. Just a hole in the ground.

And when Capt. Hawkins and his dazed crew got a glimpse of the Aquidaban, they saw Admiral Mello and his battleship fading into the distance, going at forced draught, running like a scared rabbit. That one epic shot ended the current revolution. Ten days later Admiral Mello shot himself in the harbor of Bahia.

Indefensible Neglect Of the Navy

By James T. Williams, Jr.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S review of the United States fleet will rank high in history if it helps to bring home to the American people the indefensible neglect their Navy has suffered at the hands of Congress during the last three Republican administrations.

Had Congress kept faith and lived up to its responsibility under the Constitution, our Navy today would be equal to the strongest in every class of combatant ship.

Instead of such a Navy, we have one today which ranks third in strength among the navies of the world, because Congress refused from 1922 to 1933 to appropriate funds even to replace over-age ships, much less to build up the Navy to treaty strength.

By treaty strength is meant the Navy which the United States, under the Washington treaty of 1922 and the London treaty of 1930, agreed to build and maintain.

The Washington treaty between the five principal naval powers eliminated the factor of competition in the construction of battleships, battle cruisers and aircraft carriers, and limited naval armament in those classes.

It limited the maximum tonnage of ships of this type for the signatory powers. For example, the limits set for the British empire the United States and Japan were respectively at the ratio of 5-5-3.

* * *

United States Leads In Scrapping Ships

AS A RESULT of the Washington treaty, the United States scrapped the largest number of battleships and battle cruisers, and Great Britain and Japan made lesser sacrifices of their tonnage.

By the treaty of London in 1930, the number and total tonnage of capital ships was further reduced for the three nations which ratified that agreement—Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

This treaty also extended the maximum limitation to apply to cruisers, destroyers and submarines, as well as to capital ships.

In order to get Japan to sign this treaty, the United States acceded to an increased ratio in cruiser tonnage for both Japan and the British Empire, and to an increased ratio in destroyers and full parity with the United States and the British Empire in submarine tonnage for Japan. The further sacrifice made by the United States at this conference involved a modification of the method of limitation. This sacrifice was of tremendous advantage to Great Britain.

Having made these treaties, the United States was committed in the eyes of the world to build up to the limits fixed by these engagements. This is what the British and Japanese have done. This is what the United States has failed to do. And the blame for that failure rests upon Congress, which until President Roosevelt came to power had year after year refused to appropriate the money necessary to build the ships which the United States was obligated under these treaties to build and which American defense required should be built.

During the period extending from the Washington conference of 1921-22 to March 4, 1933, the United States dropped far behind Japan and the British Empire in the replacement of ships that became "overage." Japan laid down six light cruisers, 57 destroyers and 40 submarines. This made a total of 103 replacements by Japan. Now Japan has projected 36 others, which will give her a full treaty strength navy of "underage" ships when the Washington and London treaties expire in 1936.

Since the Washington conference the British Empire has laid down 13 light cruisers, 45 destroyers and 30 submarines, a total of 88 replacements. In addition to these the British have 28 others projected. By pursuing a uniform policy of laying down a certain number of ships each year, the British Empire will have a navy of approximately full treaty strength in 1936.

* * *

Now Headed Towards Treaty Strength

FROM the Washington conference until President Roosevelt entered the White House, Congress started construction on only eight destroyers and six submarines as replacements for "overage" vessels. As a result of the building program which the President obtained from Congress since March of last year the building up of the Navy to treaty strength has finally started.

To bring the Navy up to full treaty strength, an additional 101 vessels of over 200,000 tons are still required. It is physically impossible to construct so many vessels between now and 1936, so Congress will also be to blame for the fact that the United States will have the third navy in the world, instead of a navy equal to the strongest, when the existing treaties expire two years hence.
